Flour Millers Granted Price Boost By OPA

Temporary Increases Should Not Hike Retail Bread Prices

PRICE LIDS ON MANY ITEMS ARE ABOLISHED

Ceilings On Work Gloves, Some Rugs And Glass Are Raised

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Flour millers were granted a price increase of 20 cents per 100 pounds today and OPA said the results would be a retail increase of one to two cents on a five-pound package of flour.

OPA officials told reporters that the millers' increase is temporary and should not increase retail bread prices.

Earlier the price agency raised its ceilings on work gloves, certain cotton rugs, and window and picture glass.

It also abolished price lids altogether on a widely-assorted list ranging from razor blades and television sets to baby carriages and motor scooters. In addition, it prepared to increase sugar prices soon.

Millers Must Buy More Wheat

The flour increase—third since June 30—was granted because millers now are producing white flour and so are required to buy and use more wheat.

The agency said the flour boost applies to all millers and brings increases since June 30 to a total of $1.45 a hundred pounds for Pacific Coast areas, and $1.38 for all other areas. Part of the increase results from elimination of government subsidies formerly allowed millers.

The increase is temporary, the pricing agency explained, pending completion of a cost study including such factors as higher-priced wheat, increased cost of bags, and the recent return to the customary milling extraction rate.

During the government drive to obtain additional food for international relief, millers were required to increase the amount of flour extracted from wheat.

The increase in cotton rugs is a temporary one of 15 to 20 per cent allowed manufacturers because of higher cotton prices. OPA said consumers must pay higher prices varying from 50 cents on small bathroom rugs up to $1.50 on small bedroom type rugs.

Glass Prices Rise 18 Per Cent

OPA said standard work gloves would increase about three cents a pair under higher ceilings allowed manufacturers.

Ceiling levels for glass used in windows and pictures rose about 18 per cent. At the same time OPA raised prices for glazed sash and windows, sash doors, combination doors and garage doors about 4 per cent to cover the higher glass prices.

OPA said the increase would cost about $1.25 for all window glass used in the average low-cost home under the yeterans' housing program.

THREE PERISH IN FIRE—Volunteer firemen survey the complete destruction after Alva Gott, 32-year-old truck driver, and his two small children, Thomas Richard, 8, and Sharon Lee, 3, burned to death in a fire which swept their home at Gambrills, Md., here yesterday. Gott and his wife, Dorothy, 29, who was severely burned, both apparently tried to get to the children in a second floor bedroom of their bungalow when they were awakened downstairs by the flames. Mrs. Gott finally was forced to the roof of a porch. A niece and an adopted daughter escaped.

Russian, British Security Council Delegates Clash

Gromyko Accuses Sir Cadogan Of "Insulting" Soviet Army

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Sept. 11 —(AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, clashed briefly but heatedly tonight in the United Nations Security Council over a blunt charge by the Russian delegate that the British representative had "insulted" the Red Army.

Cadogan replied immediately to the Russian delegate by reading again his reference to the Russian army, which contained no charges against the Red troops, and then declared that "I have nothing to withdraw."

At the request of the United States delegate, Herschel V. Johnson, the council then passed over a meeting proposed by the chairman for tomorrow and adjourned until Friday at 3 p. m. EDT.

Russian Warning

Russia had fought stubbornly throughout the session lasting nearly four hours against a move to throw the Ukrainian charges against Greece and Great Britain out of the council. The Soviet Union warned the council to act or risk a loss of prestige.

After Gromyko completed his speech, Cadogan delivered a brief rebuttal. In that speech he made the remarks which drew the ire of the Russian delegate.

Saying that the charges by Dmitri Manuilsky, Soviet Ukrainian Foreign Minister, are not difficult to answer, he said they add up to a "charge or insinuation that his majesty's government in the United Kingdom are trampling on freedom and Democracy in Greece, helping her to persecute minorities and inciting her to attack her neighbors.

Cadogan Re-Reads Paragraph

"This charge is accompanied—I won't say supported—by slanders on the British army which I most hotly resent. 135 Negro Soldiers Arrested After Mob Fight With Police

FLORENCE, S. C., Sept. 11 (AP)—One hundred and thirty-five southern negro soldiers, most of them recently returned from overseas, were arrested here tonight and lodged in two local jails after Police Chief J. A. Price said they participated in a mob fight with police officers at the railroad station.

Chief Price said over 100 of the soldiers, milling about the station while the train on which they were traveling stopped a few minutes, attacked en masse six military policemen in an attempt to free five fellow passengers the MPs said they took into custody because of disorderly conduct on the train.

Montgomery Is Impressed By U.S. Military Pattern

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery disclosed plans today to mold the postwar British army in the American pattern in important respects.

The chief of the Imperial General Staff discussed his intentions at a news conference following a warm defense of his war time activities by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Montgomery for his part dismissed his critics—specifically Ralph Ingersoll in "Top Secret" and Capt. Harry Butcher in his memoires—by remarking that those who want the true story should read Eisenhower's own report as Supreme Allied Commander.

Montgomery mentioned particularly the American chief of staff system as one which he is introducing into the British army. He commented that the British staff system had "certain faults" and that he "saw the advantages" of the American command system during the war.

He also alluded twice to the American 105 mm gun, saying that the British "liked it very much." He also appeared greatly impressed by the sports program conducted at West Point, which he visited yesterday, and the methods of classroom instruction—"Jolly good, extremely good, the way the stuff was got over in the classrooms." He was "terribly impressed" with the military academy itself—"thought it absolutely the cat's whiskers."

Montgomery's discussion of British army reform along American lines was touched off by the question whether he is here to discuss closer co-ordination between the American and British armies at command levels from the general staff down to divisions and in similar types of equipment, so that they might fight together even more effectively than in World War II in case of a third war.

The field marshal replied in general terms, alluding to some of the equipment interchanged during the war, and observing that with the war over "the natural tendency would be for professional soldiers to sit down and think if the other fellow hasn't got a better thing."

Nurse's Slayer Sought By Police At Indianapolis

Assailant Injures Another Nurse In Brutal Hospital Attacks

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 11 (AP) — Police scoured the city for a man who sneaked through the corridors of Riley Hospital before dawn today and fatally clubbed a student nurse.

The assailant also injured another student nurse before making his escape through a window by which he had gained entrance to the building.

Children Witness Attacks

Miss Betty Overdeer, 20, Indianapolis, another student nurse, was clubbed by the unidentified prowler when she went to the aid of Miss Green.

Witnesses to the brutal attacks were "three or four" helpless children, patients who are taking treatment for infantile paralysis.

Police said the children were unable to give any aid or accurate accounts of the slaying.

"Unprovoked" Attack

She said she saw a man trying to drag one of the unconscious nurses into a dining room. Miss Allen said the man released the nurse and ran to a window to escape.

Dr. Van Nuys said the attack on the two nurses was "unprovoked." He said neither nurse had been criminally attacked but added that "obviously the man had broken into the hospital for the sole purpose of attacking the girls."

Miss Green, a former Army cadet nurse, came to Riley Hospital recently after a call had been issued for nurses to help care for victims of infantile paralysis following an outbreak of the disease.

Dentist Is Sure Skull Is That Of Girl, 17

BALTIMORE, Sept. 11. (AP)—A dentist advised Baltimore county police today that he had examined the skull of the skeleton found in a thicket here last week and is convinced it is that of Jane Hildreth, 17-year-old girl who disappeared in December, 1944.

Chief Oscar M. Grimes, of the county police, said that Dr. J. C. Smith, Charlottesville, Va., found a silver filling identical to one he placed in the girl's tooth in 1943.

Medical examiners were unable to determine how she met her death.

CMA's Suggestions Are Based On Government Pact With Lewis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — The Coal Mines Administration handed a set of proposals for a new contract to John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators today and asked them to try it for size.

If Lewis and the operators like it, or can use it as the basis for an agreement of their own, the bituminous coal mines which the government had been operating for nearly four months can be restored to private operation.

The contract suggestions, based on the government's own agreement, signed by Lewis and Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug ending the 59-day strike last May 29, were offered by Adm. Ben Moreell, the Coal Mines Administrator.

Moreell, anxious to get his all-Navy staff of nearly 300 enlisted men and officers back on Navy tasks again, had called Lewis and the operators together in the hope they could make a private agreement.

Lewis Makes No Demands

They had been unable to come to terms in nearly three months of negotiating last spring, whereupon the government intervened to end the strike.

Lewis, making no new demands for the time being, placed the burden on the operators to make an offer.

The operators' committee asked for a recess in the conferences until Friday at 2 p. m., explaining it desired to study Moreell's proposals.

Moreell said both sides indicated they preferred that the government relinquish control of the mines.

Lewis put it this way at a news conference which followed the closed session between the score of UMW leaders and the operators' committee:

"We still would like to know what the operators have to offer in lieu of the existing government agreement. We're not even requesting continuation of government control. As far as we're concerned the government is free to return the mines tomorrow morning.

18-Month Agreement Suggested

"If the government doesn't want to return the mines until a new agreement is signed, then responsibility is on the operators to say on what terms they would employ the miners.

"It is plain and simple. There is nothing involved, nothing obtuse. What have you to offer?"

Moreell suggested an 18-month agreement, expiring April 1, 1948, but permitting reopening of discussion of wages wth 30 days notice.

He would follow the terms of the Krug-Lewis agreement, which provided for an 18½-cent hourly pay increase to the $400,000 soft coal miners; a federal mine safety code, and a five-cent royalty on each ton of coal mined, capable of yielding $30,000,000 annually for a welfare and retirement fund. The procedures and decisions of the National Labor Relations Board would be followed in disposing of the controversy over unionization of supervisory workers.

China Reds Reject Chiang's Proposal

NANKING, Sept. 11 (AP) — Hopes for an early political agreement to end China's protracted civil strife darkened today when the Communists rejected Chiang Kai-Shek's latest proposal for a nationwide truce.

Gen. Marshall, special American envoy who has been laboring for months to bring the two sides together, delivered Chiang's terms to Gen. Chou En-Lai, chief Communist negotiator. Marshall had conferred with Chiang at Kuling.

After a lengthy conference between Marshall and Chou, Red Spokesman Wang Ping-Nan announced:

"We continue to demand unconditional cease fire. We will not accept any other conditions. The situation remains serious."

Teamsters' Chief Orders Thousands Of Sympathy Strikers Back To Trucks

GROOM'S IN TOKYO—Blushing Bride Jeanne Pullen, 26, New York City, says "I do" over the transpacific phone from Washington, D. C., as she is wed to Maj. Thomas S. McFarland, Jr., Chicago, Ill., in Tokyo, 6,000 miles away. Her mother, Mrs. Welles Pullen, Mountainside, N. J., gives the bride away. To make matters worse, the bride had laryngitis.

Union Denounces "Revolt"; O'Dwyer Promises Police Protection

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—Union leaders pledged tonight that thousands of striking AFL truck drivers would return to work tomorrow as high officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters intervened in to break a strike they called "the worst rank and file revolt in teamsters' history."

International President Daniel J. Tobin ordered 10,000 sympathizing strikers in New York and New Jersey—not involved in contract negotiations—to abide by their contracts, or, in effect, to get back on the job.

The order did not affect 15,000 other idle truckmen, members of Locals 807, 282 and 816 in New York City. They are sticking to enforce demands for a 30 per cent wage boost in a new contract with truck operators.

Police Protection Ordered

Mayor William O'Dwyer, who had appealed to Tobin for relief from the critical tieup of food and fuel deliveries for the city's 7½ million population, ordered police protection for the returning truckmen.

A few hours after Tobin's directive was announced at his Indianapolis headquarters, International Vice President John Conlin said in Jersey City, N. J., that 5,000 striking truckers in Northern Jersey would return to work tomorrow.

Union pickets also will be withdrawn from highways and the Jersey entrance to Hudson river tunnels leading into the metropolitan New York area, Conlin said.

Spokesmen for four non-interested locals in New York City pledged to O'Dwyer that they, too, would comply with Tobin's order.

John Strong, president of Local 807 which has 12,000 members and handles about 85 per cent of the general trucking in New York, said his men might vote on a return to work at a meeting tomorrow afternoon.

"It's up to the membership," he said, adding that Tobin's telegram would be read at the meeting, set for 1 p. m. (EDT).

"Rotten Mess"

The teamsters international vice-president, Michael J. Cashal, who said the situation had brought teamsters their "worst rank and file revolt" in history, said "it's a rotten mess. I don't know what to do."

Although Tobin told the Mayor he had been assured that "officials of 807 have not authorized the stopping of any trucks of other local unions," O'Dwyer declared they had intimidated truckers in other locals, resulting in virtually a complete shutdown of commercial motor transport.

The stoppage yesterday even engulfed a CIO union, the United Brewery Workers, who deserted their trucks in the face of lines of AFL teamsters pickets wielding baseball bats.

Delegate Says United States Wants No Reparations From Italy

PARIS, Sept. 11 (AP) — American delegates, in two statements to the peace conference today, assailed Soviet-supported Bulgarian claims to Greek territory and announced that the United States wanted no reparations from Italy.

United States Ambassador to France Jeffery Caffery said the United States rejected Bulgaria's claims on Greece, but had considered with "full sympathy" Greece's counter-claims, which are opposed by Russia. He said the United States suggests that "some arrangement for demilitarization of the Bulgarian side of the frontier" be studied to "meet Greece's security requirements."

U. S. Position Outlined

United States State Department Representative Willard Thorp told the Italian Economic Commission that while the United States wants no reparations from Italy, it does not intend to continue pouring out aid to the Italians only to see it go out again to meet claims of other nations.

"We bent every effort to providing supplies during the war to our Allies, but we are not at all interested in paying reparations for our exenemies," Thorp said.

Caffery told the Bulgarian Territorial Commission that the United States had given careful study to Bulgaria's claim to Western Thrace, ceded to Greece after World War 1, but was "not impressed by the argument."

Ukraine Resumes Attack

"This hardly seems the place for Bulgaria, after abetting the invasion and after the ruthless occupation and exploitation of this area, to lay claim in its peace settlement with the victorious powers to an important piece of territory to be taken from one of them," he said.

Ukrainian Delegate M. A. Kassimenko quickly resumed the attack on Greece, which is claiming part of Southern Bulgaria. He charged Greeks were making "aggressive speeches" to support that claim and added "we cannot base our decisions in a peace conference on principles of war or preparation for war."

The French delegate sided with Caffery against Bulgaria's claims.

The two American statements came as the conference commissions geared themselves to a swifter pace, decreeing night sessions in the drive to complete approval of five treaties by October 20.

Ohio Republicans Challenge Truman

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11—(AP)—President Truman was challenged today to come into Ohio and defend the New Deal, which received a fierce tongue-lashing from Republican leaders in their state platform convention.

Keynoting the convention, Minority Leader Robert A. Taft, of the United States Senate, told his fellow partisans that this country "is in as much danger from abroad as before the war" because the Democratic administration had "failed in its foreign policy."

Noting the CIO-PAC endorsement of Sen. James W. Huffman, his Democrat opponent, former Gov. John W. Bricker, the Republican senatorial candidate, dared President Truman to come into Ohio in Huffman's behalf.

"Bring on your New Deal, Communistic and subversive groups. If we can't lick them in Ohio, America is lost anyway," Bricker declared.

Board Action Moves Crisis To President

THREAT OF GENERAL STRIKE FACES NATION

CIO Walkout Looms Friday; Labor Members Flay WSB's Decision

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board flatly refused to back down tonight on its veto of seamen's pay increases in the face of the AFL maritime strike and a CIO walkout threatened for Friday.

"No further action is contemplated by this board," Chairman Willard W. Wirtz announced to a tense news conference—and a nation of paralyzed ports.

The decision apparently moved the maritime crisis directly to the White House door. President Truman, who has taken no direct action, is expected to produce some plan for handling the crisis. Nobody professed to know what this plan will be.

The board voted down proposals to slip the hot potato into the hands of the Economic Stabilization Director, Dr. John R. Steelman. Wirtz said he did not know, therefore, whether Steelman would have any authority to overrule the board if he should wish to do so.

4 To 2 Vote

The board reaffirmed its dicision of last month—which brought on the strike—by a 4 to 2 vote, the two labor members dissenting. Ship operators as well as the unions had urged the board to change its decision, and the two industry members of the board did not sign the majority opinion, issued by the two public members.

The majority opinion said that yesterday's rehearing "resulted in the introduction of no substantial new evidence bearing on the principal issue involved."

"The issue in these cases, insofar as the able-bodied seamen rate is concerned, remains exactly the same as when the cases were previously before the board," the statement declared.

"The issue is as to whether a practice of 'that and a little bit more' is to be sanctioned in the shipping industry without the establishment of any limits whatsoever."

CIO member Carl J. Shipley, in a separate statement, declared that the wage rises "were and are approvable under Section 304 of the regulations which provides for the correcting of inter and intra-plant inequities."

"Misscarriage Of Justice"

Shipley declared the maximum cost of full approval would be $90 on an overall labor cost of $10,260.75 a month, which he said "rep-

West Coast Shipyards To Be "Closed Tight"

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11. (AP)—All Pacific Coast shipyards as well as ports will be "closed tight" tomorrow as a result of the Wage Stabilization Board's rejection of the maritime workers' demands, Harry Lundeberg, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific, said tonight.

"The Metal Trades Council (AFL) has pledged its full support," he declared after a meeting with the maritime strike committee. "We will picket the shipyards and docks and the metal trades workers will back us."

Clark Says Reds Stripping Austria

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark asserted today that the Russians in Eastern Austria "take almost everything on grounds that it is a German asset."

He added that as a result of this "very broad interpretation" of the Potsdam reparations agreement, the major Allies "are in trouble, economically, in Austria.

Clark, commander of United States occupation forces in Austria and this country's representative on the four-power Allied council in Vienna, arrived by plane from Europe for conferences with State and War Department officials. He was accompanied by John G. Erhardt, United States Minister to Austria.

Action To Halt Squatter Invasion Threatened By British Government

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Britain's Labor government today threatened Communist leaders of a squatter invasion with prosecution for criminal conspiracy and ordered police to halt "further forcible entries" of homes, but the leaders went ahead mobilizing their supporters.

Dozens of new families moved into other people's houses as the movement—part of a direct action program started by the Communist Party after the Labor Party refused affiliation with it—boiled to the crisis stage.

Some squatters in the Duchess of Bedford House, an apartment where 1,000 persons took up quarters, said they would resist an eviction notice. More than 40 families surged into a block of apartments in the dignified Regent's Park section of London late today, and a can of white paint was hurled from a window at police who locked the squatters in.

Unofficial estimates placed the number of squatters throughout Britain at 14,000.

The government condemned the movement as a lawless seizure of private property and an invitation to anarchy. The cabinet was summoned for a special session tomorrow.

The Communist Daily Worker declared "the fight of the squatters now enters its most serious stage and it is the duty of the organized workers to rally around them and to resist threatened evictions."

Prime Minister Attlee's office, announcing that eviction orders had been issued against working class families who commandeered luxury apartment houses near Buckingham Palace and the Houses of Parliament, said "both the civil and criminal law have been violated."

Rep. Luce Appeals To Vets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Rep. Luce (R-Conn) appealed today for veterans' co-operation toward averting any squatters' invasion of housing like that in England, but veterans' leaders scoffed at the possibility that it might happen here.

They concurred, however, with Mrs. Luce's proposal that prompt steps be taken to induce real estate boards to make "all vacant property immediately available for personal

Hotel Musicians' Strike To Spread

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—James C. Petrillo, president of the AFL Federation of Musicians, said today that all musicians playing in the Hilton, Kirkeby and Statler Hotel chains throughout the country would strike at the conclusion of tonight's entertainment.

Baltimorean Hurt In Crash Of Plane

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—Marvin M. Weinberg, 28, Baltimore, was injured seriously tonight in the crash of a small plane a half-mile east of the District of Columbia in Prince Georges county, Maryland.

The plane struck a utility pole and flipped over on its back in a field a mile south of Newton.

Preparedness Against Atom Attack Urged By Chiefs Of Staff In Report

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—A hitherto secret of the atomic bomb report of the joint chiefs of staff, recommending preparedness against nuclear fission attacks on the United States, was read to the American Chemical Society tonight by Col. Bradley Dewey, president of the society

Dewey also declared that A-bombs, instead of destroying civilization, might shorten future wars. But he favored using them to outlaw war.

Col. Dewey, rubber co-ordinator in the war, was an official Bikini bomb test observer this summer, and members of both the President's and the joint chiefs of staff evaluation boards.

"I quote," he said, "the last paragraph of the joint chiefs of staff board's second preliminary report, which I might say the powers that be in Washington saw fit to delete from the published version, and which deletion I am now free to make known."

"National security," this section reads, "dictates the adoption of a policy of instant readiness to defend ourselves vigorously against any threat of atomic weapon attack at any time and adherence to this policy until it is certain that there can never be an atomic war. One enduring principle of war has not been altered by the advent of the atomic weapon. Offensive strength will remain the best defense. Therefore, so long as atomic bombs could conceivably be used against this country the board urges the continued production of atomic material and research and development in all fields related to atomic warfare."

Dewey said, "I personally place great importance on the words 'which conceivably could be used against this country.' To me these words highlight the real problems which face mankind—how to outlaw war and how to use the atomic bomb in achievement of the necessary goal."

He asserted that before Bikini tests people had been deluged with sensational and grossly exaggerated tales of the destructive effects of nuclear fission.

Flour Millers Granted Price Boost By OPA

PRICE LIDS ON MANY ITEMS ARE ABOLISHED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Flour millers were granted a price increase of 20 cents per 100 pounds today and OPA said the results would be a retail increase of one to two cents on a five-pound package of flour.

OPA officials told reporters that the millers' increase is temporary and should not increase retail bread prices.

Glass Prices Rise 18 Per Cent

OPA said standard work gloves would increase about three cents a pair under higher ceilings allowed manufacturers.

Ceiling levels for glass used in windows and pictures rose about 18 per cent. At the same time OPA raised prices for glazed sash and windows, sash doors, combination doors and garage doors about 4 per cent to cover the higher glass prices.

OPA said the increase would cost about $1.25 for all window glass used in the average low-cost home under the yeterans' housing program.

135 Negro Soldiers Arrested After Mob Fight With Police

FLORENCE, S. C., Sept. 11 (AP)—One hundred and thirty-five southern negro soldiers, most of them recently returned from overseas, were arrested here tonight and lodged in two local jails after Police Chief J. A. Price said they participated in a mob fight with police officers at the railroad station.

Chief Price said over 100 of the soldiers, milling about the station while the train on which they were traveling stopped a few minutes, attacked en masse six military policemen in an attempt to free five fellow passengers the MPs said they took into custody because of disorderly conduct on the train.

Montgomery Is Impressed By U.S. Military Pattern

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery disclosed plans today to mold the postwar British army in the American pattern in important respects.

The chief of the Imperial General Staff discussed his intentions at a news conference following a warm defense of his war time activities by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Montgomery for his part dismissed his critics—specifically Ralph Ingersoll in "Top Secret" and Capt. Harry Butcher in his memoires—by remarking that those who want the true story should read Eisenhower's own report as Supreme Allied Commander.

Montgomery mentioned particularly the American chief of staff system as one which he is introducing into the British army. He commented that the British staff system had "certain faults" and that he "saw the advantages" of the American command system during the war.

He also alluded twice to the American 105 mm gun, saying that the British "liked it very much." He also appeared greatly impressed by the sports program conducted at West Point, which he visited yesterday, and the methods of classroom instruction—"Jolly good, extremely good, the way the stuff was got over in the classrooms." He was "terribly impressed" with the military academy itself—"thought it absolutely the cat's whiskers."

Montgomery's discussion of British army reform along American lines was touched off by the question whether he is here to discuss closer co-ordination between the American and British armies at command levels from the general staff down to divisions and in similar types of equipment, so that they might fight together even more effectively than in World War II in case of a third war.

The field marshal replied in general terms, alluding to some of the equipment interchanged during the war, and observing that with the war over "the natural tendency would be for professional soldiers to sit down and think if the other fellow hasn't got a better thing."

Nurse's Slayer Sought By Police At Indianapolis

Assailant Injures Another Nurse In Brutal Hospital Attacks

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 11 (AP) — Police scoured the city for a man who sneaked through the corridors of Riley Hospital before dawn today and fatally clubbed a student nurse.

The assailant also injured another student nurse before making his escape through a window by which he had gained entrance to the building.

Children Witness Attacks

Miss Betty Overdeer, 20, Indianapolis, another student nurse, was clubbed by the unidentified prowler when she went to the aid of Miss Green.

Witnesses to the brutal attacks were "three or four" helpless children, patients who are taking treatment for infantile paralysis.

Police said the children were unable to give any aid or accurate accounts of the slaying.

"Unprovoked" Attack

She said she saw a man trying to drag one of the unconscious nurses into a dining room. Miss Allen said the man released the nurse and ran to a window to escape.

Dr. Van Nuys said the attack on the two nurses was "unprovoked." He said neither nurse had been criminally attacked but added that "obviously the man had broken into the hospital for the sole purpose of attacking the girls."

Miss Green, a former Army cadet nurse, came to Riley Hospital recently after a call had been issued for nurses to help care for victims of infantile paralysis following an outbreak of the disease.

Dentist Is Sure Skull Is That Of Girl, 17

BALTIMORE, Sept. 11. (AP)—A dentist advised Baltimore county police today that he had examined the skull of the skeleton found in a thicket here last week and is convinced it is that of Jane Hilgreth, 17-year-old girl who disappeared in December, 1944.

Chief Oscar M. Grimes, of the county police, said that Dr. J. C. Smith, Charlottesville, Va., found a silver filling identical to one he placed in the girl's tooth in 1943.

Medical examiners were unable to determine how she met her death.

Baltimorean Hurt In Crash Of Plane

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—Marvin M. Weinberg, 28, Baltimore, was injured seriously tonight in the crash of a small plane a half-mile east of the District of Columbia in Prince Georges county, Maryland.

The plane struck a utility pole and flipped over on its back in a field a mile south of Newton.

Action To Halt Squatter Invasion Threatened By British Government

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Britain's Labor government today threatened Communist leaders of a squatter invasion with prosecution for criminal conspiracy and ordered police to halt "further forcible entries" of homes, but the leaders went ahead mobilizing their supporters.

Dozens of new families moved into other people's houses as the movement—part of a direct action progam started by the Communist Party after the Labor Party refused affiliation with it—boiled to the crisis stage.

Some squatters in the Duchess of Bedford House, an apartment where 1,000 persons took up quarters, said they would resist an eviction notice. More than 40 families surged into a block of apartments in the dignified Regent's Park section of London late today, and a can of white paint was hurled from a window at police who locked the squatters in.

Unofficial estimates placed the number of squatters throughout Britain at 14,000.

The government condemned the movement as a lawless seizure of private property and an invitation to anarchy. The cabinet was summoned for a special session tomorrow.

The Communist Daily Worker declared "the fight of the squatters now enters its most serious stage and it is the duty of the organized workers to rally around them and to resist threatened evictions."

Prime Minister Attlee's office, announcing that eviction orders had been issued against working class families who commandeered luxury apartment houses near Buckingham Palace and the Houses of Parliament, said "both the civil and criminal law have been violated."

Rep. Luce Appeals To Vets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Rep. Luce (R-Conn) appealed today for veterans' co-operation toward averting any squatters' invasion of housing like that in England, but veterans' leaders scoffed at the possibility that it might happen here.

They concurred, however, with Mrs. Luce's proposal that prompt steps be taken to induce real estate boards to make "all vacant property immediately available for personal

Hotel Musicians' Strike To Spread

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—James C. Petrillo, president of the AFL Federation of Musicians, said today that all musicians playing in the Hilton, Kirkeby and Statler Hotel chains throughout the country would strike at the conclusion of tonight's entertainment.

UMW And Coal Operators Get Contract Plan

CMA's Suggestions Are Based On Government Pact With Lewis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — The Coal Mines Administration handed a set of proposals for a new contract to John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators today and asked them to try it for size.

If Lewis and the operators like it, or can use it as the basis for an agreement of their own, the bituminous coal mines which the government had been operating for nearly four months can be restored to private operation.

The contract suggestions, based on the government's own agreement, signed by Lewis and Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug ending the 59-day strike last May 29, were offered by Adm. Ben Moreell, the Coal Mines Administrator.

Moreell, anxious to get his all-Navy staff of nearly 300 enlisted men and officers back on Navy tasks again, had called Lewis and the operators together in the hope they could make a private agreement.

Lewis Makes No Demands

They had been unable to come to terms in nearly three months of negotiating last spring, whereupon the government intervened to end the strike.

Lewis, making no new demands for the time being, placed the burden on the operators to make an offer.

The operators' committee asked for a recess in the conferences until Friday at 2 p. m., explaining it desired to study Moreell's proposals.

Moreell said both sides indicated they preferred that the government relinquish control of the mines.

Lewis put it this way at a news conference which followed the closed session between the score of UMW leaders and the operators' committee:

"We still would like to know what the operators have to offer in lieu of the existing government agreement. We're not even requesting continuation of government control. As far as we're concerned the government is free to return the mines tomorrow morning.

18-Month Agreement Suggested

"If the government doesn't want to return the mines until a new agreement is signed, then responsibility is on the operators to say on what terms they would employ the miners.

"It is plain and simple. There is nothing involved, nothing obtuse. What have you to offer?"

Moreell suggested an 18-month agreement, expiring April 1, 1948, but permitting reopening of discussion of wages wth 30 days notice.

He would follow the terms of the Krug-Lewis agreement, which provided for an 18½-cent hourly pay increase to the $400,000 soft coal miners; a federal mine safety code, and a five-cent royalty on each ton of coal mined, capable of yielding $30,000,000 annually for a welfare and retirement fund. The procedures and decisions of the National Labor Relations Board would be followed in disposing of the controversy over unionization of supervisory workers.

China Reds Reject Chiang's Proposal

NANKING, Sept. 11 (AP) — Hopes for an early political agreement to end China's protracted civil strife darkened today when the Communists rejected Chiang Kai-Shek's latest proposal for a nationwide truce.

Gen. Marshall, special American envoy who has been laboring for months to bring the two sides together, delivered Chiang's terms to Gen. Chou En-Lai, chief Communist negotiator. Marshall had conferred with Chiang at Kuling.

After a lengthy conference between Marshall and Chou, Red Spokesman Wang Ping-Nan announced:

"We continue to demand unconditional cease fire. We will not accept any other conditions. The situation remains serious."

Teamsters' Chief Orders Thousands Of Sympathy Strikers Back To Trucks

GROOM'S IN TOKYO—Blushing Bride Jeanne Pullen, 26, New York City, says "I do" over the transpacific phone from Washington, D. C., as she is wed to Maj. Thomas S. McFarland, Jr., Chicago, Ill., in Tokyo, 6,000 miles away. Her mother, Mrs. Welles Pullen, Mountainside, N. J., gives the bride away. To make matters worse, the bride had laryngitis.

Union Denounces "Revolt"; O'Dwyer Promises Police Protection

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—Union leaders pledged tonight that thousands of striking AFL truck drivers would return to work tomorrow as high officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters intervened in to break a strike they called "the worst rank and file revolt in teamsters' history."

International President Daniel J. Tobin ordered 10,000 sympathizing strikers in New York and New Jersey—not involved in contract negotiations—to abide by their contracts, or, in effect, to get back on the job.

The order did not affect 15,000 other idle truckmen, members of Locals 807, 282 and 816 in New York City. They are sticking to enforce demands for a 30 per cent wage boost in a new contract with truck operators.

Police Protection Ordered

Mayor William O'Dwyer, who had appealed to Tobin for relief from the critical tieup of food and fuel deliveries for the city's 7½ million population, ordered police protection for the returning truckmen.

A few hours after Tobin's directive was announced at his Indianapolis headquarters, International Vice President John Conlin said in Jersey City, N. J., that 5,000 striking truckers in Northern Jersey would return to work tomorrow.

Union pickets also will be withdrawn from highways and the Jersey entrance to Hudson river tunnels leading into the metropolitan New York area, Conlin said.

Spokesmen for four non-interested locals in New York City pledged to O'Dwyer that they, too, would comply with Tobin's order.

John Strong, president of Local 807 which has 12,000 members and handles about 85 per cent of the general trucking in New York, said his men might vote on a return to work at a meeting tomorrow afternoon.

"It's up to the membership," he said, adding that Tobin's telegram would be read at the meeting, set for 1 p. m. (EDT).

"Rotten Mess"

The teamsters international vice-president, Michael J. Cashal, who said the situation had brought teamsters their "worst rank and file revolt" in history, said "it's a rotten mess. I don't know what to do."

Although Tobin told the Mayor he had been assured that "officials of 807 have not authorized the stopping of any trucks of other local unions," O'Dwyer declared they had intimidated truckers in other locals, resulting in virtually a complete shutdown of commercial motor transport.

The stoppage yesterday even engulfed a CIO union, the United Brewery Workers, who deserted their trucks in the face of lines of AFL teamsters pickets wielding baseball bats.

Delegate Says United States Wants No Reparations From Italy

PARIS, Sept. 11 (AP) — American delegates, in two statements to the peace conference today, assailed Soviet-supported Bulgarian claims to Greek territory and announced that the United States wanted no reparations from Italy.

United States Ambassador to France Jeffery Caffery said the United States rejected Bulgaria's claims on Greece, but had considered with "full sympathy" Greece's counter-claims, which are opposed by Russia. He said the United States suggests that "some arrangement for demilitarization of the Bulgarian side of the frontier" be studied to "meet Greece's security requirements."

U. S. Position Outlined

United States State Department Representative Willard Thorp told the Italian Economic Commission that while the United States wants no reparations from Italy, it does not intend to continue pouring out aid to the Italians only to see it go out again to meet claims of other nations.

"We bent every effort to providing supplies during the war to our Allies, but we are not at all interested in paying reparations for our ex-enemies," Thorp said.

Caffery told the Bulgarian Territorial Commission that the United States had given careful study to Bulgaria's claim to Western Thrace, ceded to Greece after World War 1, but was "not impressed by the argument."

Ukraine Resumes Attack

"This hardly seems the place for Bulgaria, after abetting the invasion and after the ruthless occupation and exploitation of this area, to lay claim in its peace settlement with the victorious powers to an important piece of territory to be taken from one of them," he said.

Ukrainian Delegate M. A. Kassimenko quickly resumed the attack on Greece, which is claiming part of Southern Bulgaria. He charged Greeks were making "aggressive speeches" to support that claim and added "we cannot base our decisions in a peace conference on principles of war or preparation for war."

The French delegate sided with Caffery against Bulgaria's claims.

The two American statements came as the conference commissions geared themselves to a swifter pace, decreeing night sessions in the drive to complete approval of five treaties by October 20.

Ohio Republicans Challenge Truman

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11—(AP)—President Truman was challenged today to come into Ohio and defend the New Deal, which received a fierce tongue-lashing from Republican leaders in their state platform convention.

Keynoting the convention, Minority Leader Robert A. Taft, of the United States Senate, told his fellow partisans that this country "is in as much danger from abroad as before the war" because the Democratic administration had "failed in its foreign policy."

Noting the CIO-PAC endorsement of Sen. James W. Huffman, his Democrat opponent, former Gov. John W. Bricker, the Republican senatorial candidate, dared President Truman to come into Ohio in Huffman's behalf.

"Bring on your New Deal, Communistic and subversive groups. If we can't lick them in Ohio, America is lost anyway," Bricker declared.

Board Action Moves Crisis To President

CIO Walkout Looms Friday; Labor Members Flay WSB's Decision

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board flatly refused to back down tonight on its veto of seamen's pay increases in the face of the AFL maritime strike and a CIO walkout threatened for Friday.

"No further action is contemplated by this board," Chairman Willard W. Wirtz announced to a tense news conference—and a nation of paralyzed ports.

The decision apparently moved the maritime crisis directly to the White House door. President Truman, who has taken no direct action, is expected to produce some plan for handling the crisis. Nobody professed to know what this plan will be.

The board voted down proposals to slip the hot potato into the hands of the Economic Stabilization Director, Dr. John R. Steelman. Wirtz said he did not know, therefore, whether Steelman would have any authority to overrule the board if he should wish to do so.

4 To 2 Vote

The board reaffirmed its dicision of last month—which brought on the strike—by a 4 to 2 vote, the two labor members dissenting. Ship operators as well as the unions had urged the board to change its decision, and the two industry members of the board did not sign the majority opinion, issued by the two public members.

The majority opinion said that yesterday's rehearing "resulted in the introduction of no substantial new evidence bearing on the principal issue involved."

"The issue in these cases, insofar as the able-bodied seamen rate is concerned, remains exactly the same as when the cases were previously before the board," the statement declared.

"The issue is as to whether a practice of 'that and a little bit more' is to be sanctioned in the shipping industry without the establishment of any limits whatsoever."

CIO member Carl J. Shipley, in a separate statement, declared that the wage rises "were and are approvable under Section 304 of the regulations which provides for the correcting of inter and intra-plant inequities."

"Misscarriage Of Justice"

Shipley declared the maximum cost of full approval would be $90 on an overall labor cost of $10,260.75 a month, which he said "rep-

West Coast Shipyards To Be "Closed Tight"

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11. (AP)—All Pacific Coast shipyards as well as ports will be "closed tight" tomorrow as a result of the Wage Stabilization Board's rejection of the maritime workers' demands, Harry Lundeberg, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific, said tonight.

"The Metal Trades Council (AFL) has pledged its full support," he declared after a meeting with the maritime strike committee. "We will picket the shipyards and docks and the metal trades workers will back us."

Clark Says Reds Stripping Austria

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark asserted today that the Russians in Eastern Austria "take almost everything on grounds that it is a German asset."

He added that as a result of this "very broad interpretation" of the Potsdam reparations agreement, the major Allies "are in trouble, economically, in Austria.

Clark, commander of United States occupation forces in Austria and this country's representative on the four-power Allied council in Vienna, arrived by plane from Europe for conferences with State and War Department officials. He was accompanied by John G. Erhardt, United States Minister to Austria.

Preparedness Against Atom Attack Urged By Chiefs Of Staff In Report

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—A hitherto secret of the atomic bomb report of the joint chiefs of staff, recommending preparedness against nuclear fission attacks on the United States, was read to the American Chemical Society tonight by Col. Bradley Dewey, president of the society

Dewey also declared that A-bombs, instead of destroying civilization, might shorten future wars. But he favored using them to outlaw war.

Col. Dewey, rubber co-ordinator in the war, was an official Bikini bomb test observer this summer, and members of both the President's and the joint chiefs of staff evaluation boards.

"I quote," he said, "the last paragraph of the joint chiefs of staff board's second preliminary report, which I might say the powers that be in Washington saw fit to delete from the published version, and which deletion I am now free to make known."

"National security," this section reads, "dictates the adoption of a policy of instant readiness to defend ourselves vigorously against any threat of atomic weapon attack at any time and adherence to this policy until it is certain that there can never be an atomic war. One enduring principle of war has not been altered by the advent of the atomic weapon. Offensive strength will remain the best defense. Therefore, so long as atomic bombs could conceivably be used against this country the board urges the continued production of atomic material and research and development in all fields related to atomic warfare."

Dewey said, "I personally place great importance on the words 'which conceivably could be used against this country.' To me these words highlight the real problems which face mankind—how to outlaw war and how to use the atomic bomb in achievement of the necessary goal."

He asserted that before Bikini tests people had been deluged with sensational and grossly exaggerated tales of the destructive effects of nuclear fission.

Body Of Woman, Throat Cut, Found In Refrigerator

Baltimore Police Probe Slaying In Produce Commission House

BALTIMORE, Sept. 11 (AP)—The body of Miss Constance Catanzaro, the throat slashed from ear to ear, was found tonight in the large refrigerator of a produce commission house and police said some money was taken from an office cash drawer.

The body was found by Patrolman Edward Mrozinski and the company manager, Vincent Brocato, who had been summoned to the building when the officer found the front door unlocked.

Miss Catanzaro, 43, was a bookkeeper, stockholder, and half owner of the produce building. Brocato told police that Miss Catanzaro was engaged to be married in two weeks to Guy Brittain, Baltimore meat dealer.

Deep Gash On Head

The body was lying face up. Detective Lt. Frank Schmidt said that in addition to the throat wound there was a deep gash on her skull above the left ear.

Police found a blood-stained banana knife with an eight-inch curved blade on top of some fruit crates on the second floor. On the third floor of the three-story building was the empty cash drawer, with some papers strewn on the floor. Miss Catanzaro's purse containing $150 was found in the first floor office.

Near the first-floor refrigerator where the body was found was a bloody crowbar. Schmidt said this may have been used to inflict the skull wound.

Worked Alone In Afternoon

The house, in the produce district, opens for business around 1 a. m., and by noon workmen usually have left for the day, Brocato said. Miss Catanzaro worked alone in the afternoon and usually finished around 2:30 or 3 p. m., the manager said.

Patrolman Mrozinski said he found the door open, and after summoning Brocato, they discovered the body about 6:20 p. m. Schmidt said Brittain telephoned the office about 3 p. m. and received no answer.

There was no estimate of the money believed missing, but Brocato said $5,100 was taken to the company's main office in a nearby building earlier in the afternoon.

Hoard Of Jewels, Precious Metals Seized In Reich

U.S., British Agents Arrest Hundreds In "Operation Sparkler"

FRANKFURT, Sept. 11 (AP) — American and British agents seized precious stones and metals possibly exceeding $10,000,000 in value and arrested hundreds of Germans in the largest joint British-American operation in Germany since the dissolution of Supreme Headquarters, the Army announced today.

Swooping suddenly on 367 selected places in the two zones, the raiders recovered a vast hoard of diamonds, gold, silver and platinum. A spokesman for the United States Army Intelligence Division said it was "conjectural but conceivable" that the hoard may have been designed to finance "a resurgence of German nationlist movements."

"Operation Sparkler" was begun yesterday morning and was ended by midnight. Clues to the hiding places came from typically thorough German records of the Reichstelle Fuer Edelmetalle (Reich Agency for Precious Metals) which told how the hoard had been dispersed before the war's end in an attempt to keep it from falling into allied hands.

Tabulation of confiscated materials was not complete, but from 79 places—less than a quarter of the total number of points raided — about $2,500,000 in precious stones and metals was recovered, the spokesman said. He indicated the total may run above $10,000,000.

Seized Germans, held for failing to make full declaration of their stocks of valuables to military government authorities, still were being questioned today as the confiscated articles were brought to collection points for tabulation.

Board Action

resents 15 per cent of the total cost of operating a Liberty ship."

AFL Member Walter J. Mason, in another opinion, called the action "a miscarriage of justice unprecedented in the history of labor relations during a peacetime economy."

"The War Labor Board or this board has never before so completely ignored the facts and rendered such an unjust and unfounded decision," Mason said.

The board's decision of August 23 held that any wage increase for able-bodied seamen exceeding $17.50 a month—the amount previously approved for CIO unionists—would seriously weaken the government's stabilization program.

Wirtz told a news conference there is "no appeal" from this decision.

Thus not only will the AFL strike go on, but strikes of CIO maritime unions are threatened.

The CIO National Maritime Union announced tonight that its national council will meet tomorrow in New York to consider striking on Friday morning. The CIO unionists now are generally observing the AFL picket lines.

Strike Leaders To Continue Fight

Wirtz, 34-year-old former law teacher at Northwestern and Iowa Universities, calmly told reporters:

"No further action is contemplated by this board."

Asked whether he has any ideas on settling the strike, Wirtz replied, "I don't know."

A fight "to the bitter end" was pledged by leaders of striking AFL seamen when the board refused to change its decision limiting wage gains by AFL men to those obtained by CIO sailors.

The joint strike committee of the Seafarers International Union and the Sailors Union of the Pacific sent a telegram to Wirtz declaring "we are fighting this beef to the bitter end and will continue this strike until victory is ours."

The union leaders, who earlier had asked national CIO and AFL heads to call a nationwide walkout if the board refused to rescind its previous ruling, made another bid for support by other unions by saying:

"Our fight is the fight of all labor and the SIU-SUP rest confident that the entire labor movement will support us till this beef is won."

Earlier, AFL strike leaders telegraphed Philip Murray, CIO president, and William Green, head of the AFL, calling for a nationwide walkout of union members if the board held firm.

Jewish Palestine State Is Opposed By Arab Leaders

Conference Is Told Further Disorders May Lead To Clashes

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Arab leaders told the British government today they were flatly opposed to an "independent political status" for Jews in Palestine, and declared that further disturbances in the Holy Land may lead to clashes between Zionists and Arabs.

Speaking for the seven Arab countries represented at the "round table conference"—called to seek a solution for strife-wracked Palestine—Faris Bey El Khouri, of Syria, said the only acceptable settlement would be to give Palestine independence under "democratic principles" to the country's Arab majority.

Deploring "self-arming by Zionists and ugly terrorism practiced by their gangs," Faris Bey declared that unless disturbances were suppressed by British troops" this will compel the people (Arabs) to resort to their own means to defend themselves."

"The Jewish problem," he declared, "as such is a world concern, and therefore requires world-wide solution. Palestine has nothing to do with this problem, nor can any solution be found in Palestine."

Jews and Palestine Arabs continued to boycott the conference at which Colonial Secretary George Hall outlined the Anglo-American Cabinet Committee plan for Palestine—a "provincial system" under which Arabs and Jews would have limited jurisdiction over two sections of the Holy Land, with Britain retaining overall control.

Faris Bey, president of the Syrian Chamber of Deputies, read the Arab statement at a public meeting and the conferees then went into a private session in closely-guarded Lancaster House. A communique issued afterwards said "a preliminary exchange of views then took place."

Howard Bruce Is Hospital Patient

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 11 (AP) — Howard Bruce was in Union Memorial Hospital for a rest and observation today and the former Democratic national committeeman said he would not be available for a major post in the party's fall campaign organization.

Bruce had been one of those mentioned in speculation about a general state chairman to direct Democratic campaigning in the November general elections.

There was no indication how long Bruce might be hospitalized. An operation is one of the possibilities facing the 67-year-old banker, industrialist, and wartime director of procurement for the Army service forces.

Committee Declines To Set Definite Date For May's Testimony

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) —The Senate War Investigation Committee and Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky) were unable to get together today on a definite date for the Congressman's testimony on a wartime munitions combine despite a reported turn-for-the-better in the Kentuckian's health.

May's lawyer sent word that the lawmaker's physician thought he would be well enough to testify here by September 25.

Sen. Mead (D-NY), chairman of the investigating group, replied that the committee is "very anxious" to receive May's testimony but does not care to set a definite date for the hearing in anticipation of his recovery.

"When Congressman May is able to testify at a hearing in Washington without injury to his health, the committee will then arrange for a hearing," Mead wrote Daniel J. Andersen, May's attorney. Mead asked Andersen to keep him advised of his client's condition.

Five Are Injured In Auto Accident

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 11 (AP) Five persons were seriously injured today in a head-on collision of two automobiles five miles west of Hagerstown on United States Route 40.

Taken to Washington County Hospital were Lt. Donald E. Butler, U. S. A., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Butler, all of Detroit.

Occupants of the other machine were Charles T. Shatzley, Chambersburg, Pa., and Vivian Bernhard, Hancock, Md.

State Trooper Raymond McGuire said the accident occurred on the top of a hill and that both cars were demolished.

occupancy at resonable rates." Some urged local condemnation proceedings to put idle homes into use.

Mrs. Luce told reporters she fully expects "Communists elements" to try to organize a drive among homeless veterans to take over any unoccupied housing.

She wired six veterans' organizations asking voluntary action by veterans' committees to head off any developments like those in England and to "forestall government seizure and allocation of vacant property."

Council Manager Form Of Administration Urged In City Of Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 11 (AP) —A council manager form of administration and a new charter subject to approval of the voters were recommended to the Mayor and Council by Joseph M. Ray, head of the Department of Government and Politics, University of Maryland, in a report made public today.

"The City of Hagerstown is by no means poorly governed," the report stated. It added that the city had grown rapidly in the last few years and that "its institutional growth had been makeshift and haphazard."

Body Of Woman, Throat Cut, Found In Refrigerator

Baltimore Police Probe Slaying In Produce Commission House

BALTIMORE, Sept. 11 (AP)—The body of Miss Constance Catanzaro, the throat slashed from ear to ear, was found tonight in the large refrigerator of a produce commission house and police said some money was taken from an office cash drawer.

The body was found by Patrolman Edward Mrozinski and the company manager, Vincent Brocato, who had been summoned to the building when the officer found the front door unlocked.

Miss Catanzaro, 43, was a bookkeeper, stockholder, and half owner of the produce building. Brocato told police that Miss Catanzaro was engaged to be married in two weeks to Guy Brittain, Baltimore meat dealer.

Deep Gash On Head

The body was lying face up. Detective Lt. Frank Schmidt said that in addition to the throat wound there was a deep gash on her skull above the left ear.

Police found a blood-stained banana knife with an eight-inch curved blade on top of some fruit crates on the second floor. On the third floor of the three-story building was the empty cash drawer, with some papers strewn on the floor. Miss Catanzaro's purse containing $150 was found in the first floor office.

Near the first-floor refrigerator where the body was found was a bloody crowbar. Schmidt said this may have been used to inflict the skull wound.

Worked Alone In Afternoon

The house, in the produce district, opens for business around 1 a. m., and by noon workmen usually have left for the day, Brocato said. Miss Catanzaro worked alone in the afternoon and usually finished around 2:30 or 3 p. m., the manager said.

Patrolman Mrozinski said he found the door open, and after summoning Brocato, they discovered the body about 6:20 p. m. Schmidt said Brittain telephoned the office about 3 p. m. and received no answer.

There was no estimate of the money believed missing, but Brocato said $5,100 was taken to the company's main office in a nearby building earlier in the afternoon.

Howard Bruce Is Hospital Patient

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 11 (AP) — Howard Bruce was in Union Memorial Hospital for a rest and observation today and the former Democratic national committeeman said he would not be available for a major post in the party's fall campaign organization.

Bruce had been one of those mentioned in speculation about a general state chairman to direct Democratic campaigning in the November general elections.

There was no indication how long Bruce might be hospitalized. An operation is one of the possibilities facing the 67-year-old banker, industrialist, and wartime director of procurement for the Army service forces.

Council Manager Form Of Administration Urged In City Of Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 11 (AP) —A council manager form of administration and a new charter subject to approval of the voters were recommended to the Mayor and Council by Joseph M. Ray, head of the Department of Government and Politics, University of Maryland, in a report made public today.

"The City of Hagerstown is by no means poorly governed," the report stated. It added that the city had grown rapidly in the last few years and that "its institutional growth had been makeshift and haphazard."

Committee Declines To Set Definite Date For May's Testimony

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) —The Senate War Investigation Committee and Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky) were unable to get together today on a definite date for the Congressman's testimony on a wartime munitions combine despite a reported turn-for-the-better in the Kentuckian's health.

May's lawyer sent word that the lawmaker's physician thought he would be well enough to testify here by September 25.

Sen. Mead (D-NY), chairman of the investigating group, replied that the committee is "very anxious" to receive May's testimony but does not care to set a definite date for the hearing in anticipation of his recovery.

"When Congressman May is able to testify at a hearing in Washington without injury to his health, the committee will then arrange for a hearing," Mead wrote Daniel J. Andersen, May's attorney. Mead asked Andersen to keep him advised of his client's condition.

Hoard Of Jewels, Precious Metals Seized In Reich

U.S., British Agents Arrest Hundreds In "Operation Sparkler"

FRANKFURT, Sept. 11 (AP) — American and British agents seized precious stones and metals possibly exceeding $10,000,000 in value and arrested hundreds of Germans in the largest joint British-American operation in Germany since the dissolution of Supreme Headquarters, the Army announced today.

Swooping suddenly on 367 selected places in the two zones, the raiders recovered a vast hoard of diamonds, gold, silver and platinum. A spokesman for the United States Army Intelligence Division said it was "conjectural but conceivable" that the hoard may have been designed to finance "a resurgence of German nationlist movements."

"Operation Sparkler" was begun yesterday morning and was ended by midnight. Clues to the hiding places came from typically thorough German records of the Reichstelle Fuer Edelmetalle (Reich Agency for Precious Metals) which told how the hoard had been dispersed before the war's end in an attempt to keep it from falling into allied hands.

Tabulation of confiscated materials was not complete, but from 79 places—less than a quarter of the total number of points raided — about $2,500,000 in precious stones and metals was recovered, the spokesman said. He indicated the total may run above $10,000,000.

Seized Germans, held for failing to make full declaration of their stocks of valuables to military government authorities, still were being questioned today as the confiscated articles were brought to collection points for tabulation.

Board Action

resents 15 per cent of the total cost of operating a Liberty ship."

AFL Member Walter J. Mason, in another opinion, called the action "a miscarriage of justice unprecedented in the history of labor relations during a peacetime economy."

"The War Labor Board or this board has never before so completely ignored the facts and rendered such an unjust and unfounded decision," Mason said.

The board's decision of August 23 held that any wage increase for able-bodied seamen exceeding $17.50 a month—the amount previously approved for CIO unionists—would seriously weaken the government's stabilization program.

Wirtz told a news conference there is "no appeal" from this decision.

Thus not only will the AFL strike go on, but strikes of CIO maritime unions are threatened.

The CIO National Maritime Union announced tonight that its national council will meet tomorrow in New York to consider striking on Friday morning. The CIO unionists now are generally observing the AFL picket lines.

Strike Leaders To Continue Fight

Wirtz, 34-year-old former law teacher at Northwestern and Iowa Universities, calmly told reporters:

"No further action is contemplated by this board."

Asked whether he has any ideas on settling the strike, Wirtz replied, "I don't know."

A fight "to the bitter end" was pledged by leaders of striking AFL seamen when the board refused to change its decision limiting wage gains by AFL men to those obtained by CIO sailors.

The joint strike committee of the Seafarers International Union and the Sailors Union of the Pacific sent a telegram to Wirtz declaring "we are fighting this beef to the bitter end and will continue this strike until victory is ours."

The union leaders, who earlier had asked national CIO and AFL heads to call a nationwide walkout if the board refused to rescind its previous ruling, made another bid for support by other unions by saying:

"Our fight is the fight of all labor and the SIU-SUP rest confident that the entire labor movement will support us till this beef is won."

Earlier, AFL strike leaders telegraphed Philip Murray, CIO president, and William Green, head of the AFL, calling for a nationwide walkout of union members if the board held firm.

Jewish Palestine State Is Opposed By Arab Leaders

Conference Is Told Further Disorders May Lead To Clashes

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Arab leaders told the British government today they were flatly opposed to an "independent political status" for Jews in Palestine, and declared that further disturbances in the Holy Land may lead to clashes between Zionists and Arabs.

Speaking for the seven Arab countries represented at the "round table conference"—called to seek a solution for strife-wracked Palestine—Faris Bey El Khouri, of Syria, said the only acceptable settlement would be to give Palestine independence under "democratic principles" to the country's Arab majority.

Deploring "self-arming by Zionists and ugly terrorism practiced by their gangs," Faris Bey declared that unless disturbances were suppressed by British troops" this will compel the people (Arabs) to resort to their own means to defend themselves."

"The Jewish problem," he declared, "as such is a world concern, and therefore requires world-wide solution. Palestine has nothing to do with this problem, nor can any solution be found in Palestine."

Jews and Palestine Arabs continued to boycott the conference at which Colonial Secretary George Hall outlined the Anglo-American Cabinet Committee plan for Palestine—a "provincial system" under which Arabs and Jews would have limited jurisdiction over two sections of the Holy Land, with Britain retaining overall control.

Faris Bey, president of the Syrian Chamber of Deputies, read the Arab statement at a public meeting and the conferees then went into a private session in closely-guarded Lancaster House. A communique issued afterwards said "a preliminary exchange of views then took place."

Woman Who Does Housework For Man Living Alone Can Always Give Up Her Job

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love And Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a middle-aged woman and do housework for a living. I have been offered a job doing part-time housework for a man who lives alone.

In order to do this job, I would have to be alone with this man for hours at a time. Do you think this would be all right?

ELEANOR B.

I assume that you have seen and talked with your prospective employer. Weren't you able to form an opinion as to what type of man he is?

A great many women do housework for men living alone, and there is no reason it would not be proper for you to do so. If you are completely businesslike about the job, do your work and then leave promptly, I don't see why you shouldn't make out successfully. If you find things not going well, you can always quit.

Another John Alden?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl in my late teens, and I like a boy who for a while seemed to like me.

Then he got the impression that I liked a boy with whom I'm very good friends and that this other boy liked me. Now he is trying to fix me up with this boy, although he knows I still like him and he has admitted to one of my friends that he likes me.

How can I convince him that I don't like the other boy, and get him back?

MIXED-UP

You really are mixed up, aren't you? But I don't believe it should be so very hard to un-mix this situation.

Why not just tell your boy friend to stop "trying to fix you up" with the other boy? Suggest to him—not in any quarrelsome fashion, but in a gay, casual way—that you'd prefer to manage your own affairs. Can't you say: "Hey, you! Who do you think you are John Alden? Well, I'm no Priscilla, so just lay off!" Something like that. Make a joke of it.

You don't have to explain that you're more interested in him than in the other boy. But if he understands that you're not serious about anyone else, then he may realize that he has a clear path to your affections if he wants it. And that's about all you can do.

Democrat Careless In Assessing Market Break

Maine's election three days ago may or may not indicate a trend in the coming general election in November, but from here on to that first Tuesday in November we will hear much about "trends," with both Republicans and Democrats going in for the customary claiming.

But there is one trend we can count on—that is the trend toward irresponsible talk. It must be something in the Autumn air of the even-numbered years that causes politicians to put their conscience out of gear and their tongues into free-wheeling. Well out ahead of that trend last week was Representative Adolph Sabath, Illinois Democrat, when he charged that Republican financiers had arranged the stock market decline "to make some money for the party" and to affect the November balloting.

He called upon the Securities and Exchange Commission to investigate short selling "raids" on the market and inquire into political motives. The SEC chairman was quick to reply that the SEC was of course watching stock transactions closely, as is its duty. But he doubted that short selling could have been an appreciable factor in the decline, since an SEC rule forbids short selling of a stock except at a price higher than the last sale price. Which of course, makes short selling extremely difficult in a sagging market. For a short-seller has to find a buyer, and who's going to buy at a price higher than he can pay on an open market?

Maybe Congressman Sabath didn't know about that rule. Maybe he didn't know that, under another SEC rule, requiring 100 percent margin, people who buy and sell stocks have to use their own money. Having been a Congressman for so many years and accustomed to using other people's money, maybe he didn't know that people using their own money don't usually look around for extraneous political motive to buy and sell. The hope of profit and fear of loss are in themselves sufficient motives—and in the hopes and fears weighed in balance are considerations both more immediate and further removed than a congressional election two months off.

But if he did know he probably didn't care. Mr. Sabath thinks in terms of politics rather than economics. When he made that ridiculous statement, he wasn't nearly as concerned over the declining stock market as over the prospects of a declining number of Democratic seats in Congress. So he rushed out to accuse the Republicans before Republicans could do the natural thing of blaming the party in power.

Whether the hunter who killed a woman when he mistook her hat for a turtle is a distant relative of the man who shot a farmer thinking he was a cow, has not been revealed.

Washington Statistics Vs. Consumer Experience

Industry is turning out civilian goods at a rate approaching a record, announces John D. Small, head of the Civilian Production Administration. Basic materials producers have virtually reached their capacity and finished goods factories are within sight of full production, according to Washington.

The housewife has to scramble for soap before she can do the family wash. There's little sugar for canning an abundant fruit crop. Soon, according to all indications, there will again be little meat.

Automobile assembly lines turned out 56 per cent more cars in July than in June, but many people afoot are trying vainly to buy new cars. Repairs on old cars are lagging because of shortage of parts. If a 1941 tire blows it is difficult to find a new one; if a 1931 tire blows a new one is out of the question because factories are not making that size.

Gross national production hit a pace of 130 billion 1939 dollars in the past quarter, which is within 5 per cent of the all-time peak. Those looking for shade cloth and linoleum to renovate their homes are told Argentina has most of the linseed oil and has sold it to Russia.

Civilian employment has hit a record total of more than 58 millions. Veterans cannot get homes for lack of materials, publishers cannot get newsprint for lack of machines to make it and railroads say there is a transportation crisis because they cannot get freight cars.

Washington statistics and consumer experience diverge widely. Consumers have their doubts about the first half of the old axiom that figures cannot lie.

Everybody and his brother are trying to get the government, according to a Washington official, refuting the popular impression that it was the other way around.

Military Future Of New Bomber Looks Hazy

The military future of the Army Air Forces' huge new XB-36 bomber looks hazy to laymen and it may be that it is none too clear even to the experts. With guided missiles coming on apace, it is possible that this air vehicle for delivering deadly freight to chosen targets may already be obsolescent.

However that may be, even the pictures of this sky behemoth are exciting. The photograph showing the XB-36 and a B-29 bomber standing beside each other on the ground makes the four-motored Superfortress look like a single-seater next to a transport. The contrast gives a far better idea of the great bomber's size than the account stating that it is 163 feet long, has a wing span of 230 feet, and that its tail rises 47 feet into the air. Here is a really big ship!

It is exciting also to read that the six motors of the XB-36 develop 18,000 horsepower, that it can carry 30 tons of bombs, and that it has a range of 10,000 miles. The big bomber could cover the distance from San Francisco to Tokyo and return non-stop.

The advent of the XB-36 is a clear indication that airplanes will continue to grow in size. There may be a limit somewhere but it has not been reached. It is worth noting that on its first test flight it "exceeded all expectations for performance." No matter what lies ahead of the bomber as a weapon of war, it points to bigger and better aircraft for carrying passengers and freight in time of peace.

Traffic reports show that a big share of auto accidents occur to drivers who have never had one. And a lot of them occur to those who have had one too many.

HOW TO KEEP WELL.

PECULIARITIES OF OLDSTERS

THE modern physician has answered the challenge to our ever increasing population of oldsters by attempting to add life to years as well as years to life. The procedure is difficult in the presence of excessive wear and tear but it is surprising what can be done when every consideration is given to the project.

Psychological changes are prone to arise. Various aberrations can be expected, especially exaggerations of lifelong peculiarities and prejudices. Occasionally, however, they indicate a decline into mental illness. The condition is suspected when the individual becomes overbearing and cantankerous, possibly with an associated weakness, nervousness, insomnia, and unusual irritability. Perhaps thriftiness has always been practiced. Now miserliness may be observed, with hoarding of money and useless scraps or trinkets.

Old grudges or buried feelings often become ignited. A mild distrust in the past develops gradually into troublesome suspicion or delusions of persecution. Many embarrassing situations may confront a son or daughter who is trying to provide a happy home for an elderly father or mother.

Grandpa might spend his time during the day making erroneous complaints to neighbors, friends, or police; sometimes his behavior does not actually conform to the social pattern. Now and then an unsuitable marriage will be contracted or huge sums lavished on injudicious charities. Some make periodic changes of wills. Once in a while, a senile person wanders away and is lost or injured. Others turn on the water or gas burner and forget to turn it off. Altho claiming to be as keen as ever, they are constantly losing spectacles or fountain pens.

The outcome is variable. The phenomenon may become progressively worse, with gradual mental disintegration. Frequently, it changes like the weather; the oldtimer seems normal one day but not the next. Cases are observed in which the decline begins at the age of 60, whereas many men and women in the 80s have all their faculties. Much depends on the personality, as stable individuals are more likely to withstand the aging process. Emotional disturbances such as undue anxiety, financial stress, insecurity, or the loss of a spouse or a home may hasten mental collapse.

The laity usually refers to the condition as "softening of the brain." Faulty circulation or arteriosclerosis is a possibility but is not always responsible; postmortem studies have failed to disclose evidence of damage in some of the most severe cases. Apparently degeneration can result from toxins or infections as well as inadequate nutrition accompanied by a deficiency of vitamins B and C. Altho the diet appears satisfactory, absorption is not perfect. Another factor is lack of teeth, which prevents chewing.

When the symptoms arise suddenly, or are transient, the specific underlying cause should be sought, including overfatigue, constipation, alcoholism, anemia, dropsy, infections, and kidney diseases. In the presence of such abnormalities, blood is diverted from the cerebral area in sufficient amounts to alter the temperament. Should the origin be amenable to treatment, improvement in the mental state usually follows.

CAN'T "UNSOFTEN"

H. M. writes: Is second childhood softening of the brain? Would eating bread and salt each morning help to harden it?

REPLY

Second childhood is often referred to as "softening of the brain." But this is only an expression, as the brain itself does not soften. The chief cause lies in the ageing process—arteriosclerosis. As a result, the supply of nourishment to the tissues is decreased and tiny areas die and are replaced by scar tissue. Thus improvement is hardly possible unless instituted long before the arteries change. The bread and salt regime, therefore, would be of no value.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Attention, listeners, please! I'll be back on the air September 24, same time, same place. . .And let's hope not the same jokes. There'll be a lot of changes in the show this fall but don't get too enthusiastic. . .I'm still on it. I went to the trouble of taking a personal survey to find out just what the public wants in the way of a radio program. A sort of Gallup poll. . .I'd ring a doorbell and then gallop.

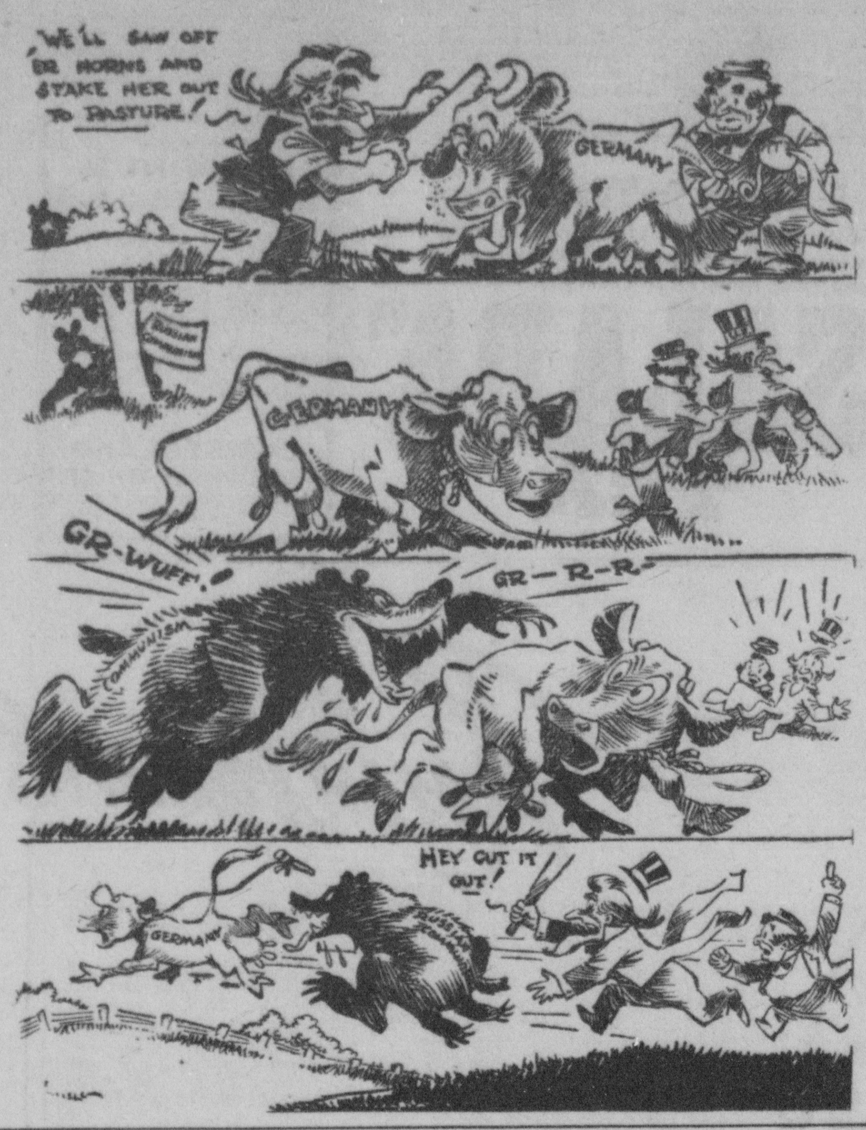

But I'm happy to go back on the air again. It's a wonderful feeling to know you can reach into so many American homes with just the aid of a microphone. . .My brother, of course, doesn't need a microphone. I've already held a writers' meeting and when I told the boys we were still on the air they put their heads together and knocked wood. We're just one big happy family.

With the sponsor as mother-in-law, We're a great team, the sponsor and I. . .My sound-man is back from Bikini and you can expect some hair-raising explosions this fall. That boy sure knows his stuff . . .In fact, before I hired him, he played second-washboard for Spike Jones.

It takes a lot of hard work to get our show on the air. . .Some wise guy keeps pulling the plug out. No kidding, there's writing to be done, rehearsals to be played. . . Censors to be shot. Those boys really give us trouble . . .When they're through with a script there's nothing left but the punctuation. But everything turns out well after I explain the joke to them and I go up there and give them the "punch!"

IT SEEMED LIKE A GOOD IDEA AT THE TIME

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

CIO Decides To Eliminate Major Strikes; Eisenhower Prefers Baseball To War; Republicans Revolt Against National Chairman Reece; Market Break

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—It is no accident that the AFL, not the CIO, is in the strike headlines today.

In the first place, CIO Chief Phil Murray held a secret meeting with his cohorts recently in which it was decided to postpone all major strikes for the time being. In the second place, certain AFL leaders (though not the majority) are not averse to a little labor trouble right now in order to defeat the Democrats at the polls in November.

John L. Lewis is the leader of this group, with George Meany and Matt Woll tagging along behind. They are playing close to the Republicans.

Embarrassment of the Truman Administration was behind Lewis' telegram to striking maritime leader Harry Lundeberg, offering United Mine Workers' cash to support AFL sailors. With Congress in recess, many AFL leaders also feel there is no danger of reviving the Case Bill or passing other restrictive labor legislation. Incidentally, it used to be the other way round; namely that labor wanted Congress in session to keep a weather eye on big business. Now strikers have a better chance with Congress out of session.

CIO leaders have just the opposite view about strikes at this time. In various conferences, Murray has pointed out to his men that unfortunately the public has been sold on the National Association of Manufacturers' propaganda that labor is responsible for current price increases. While this propaganda, Murray said, is untrue, the best policy for intelligent labor leaders is to cut out major strikes for the time being and attempt to educate the public on the real facts.

Murray Gets Tough

How deadly in earnest Murray is about no-strikes-at-this-time was indicated by a verbal battle he had with Harry Bridges of the West Coast Longshoremen during last June's threatened CIO maritime strike. Bridges was determined to call his men out. Joe Curran of the National Maritime Union thought an agreement could be worked out without a strike. Murray sat as arbitrator.

"I will not have a maritime strike at this time charged up to the CIO," Murray told Bridges. "If you succeed in staging a strike, I'll disown you publicly, Harry Bridges. And I'll do my best to throw you out of the CIO."

Ball Fan Eisenhower

One night during the Yugoslav crisis, General Eisenhower was at the ball park in Washington watching his favorite team, the Senators, when an adult newsboy came by and dropped a Washington Post in his lap. An eight-column headline across the front page read: "United States Sends Ultimatum to Yugoslavia."

"No paper now," said the Chief of Staff, engrossed in the ball game and scarcely glancing at the headline.

"Take it with my compliments, General," said the newsboy. "It looks as if you're going to be my boss again."

Flour Goes to Waste

Small flour mills and flour distributors all over the country are facing serious trouble because of the Agriculture Department's sudden reversal of its policy on flour.

Last spring when food famine talk was at its highest, the Department ordered darker flour. Many mills went to work, turned out as much as a year's supply of the darker flour. Then, without warning, the Department permitted a return to real white bread.

Now dark flour is beginning to rot in mills and warehouses.

GOP Revolt

A revolt is brewing in the Republican Party against the "sit tight" policy of the new GOP national chairman, Carroll Reece, former Congressman from Tennessee.

GOP followers of the late Wendell Willkie have been protesting nope-too-privately in Washington and elsewhere that the dignified GOP chairman is taking a Republican victory in the Congressional elections this November too much for granted. They want him to begin showing better results or get out.

The Willkieites, who backed former Treasury Under-Secretary John Hanes against Reece for the chairmanship, are now shouting "I told you so" at Reece's old guard supporters.

They contend that instead of being content to sit back and point the finger of guilt at the Democratic Administration, Reece should be on the firing line, creating live issues, shaking the voting public out of the apathy so noticeable in this year's primary.

So don't be surprised if Chairman Reece is called on the carpet by dissatisfied party leaders to give an account of his stewardship.

Capital Chaff

You don't always expect political warnings from the Army, but last week Army Intelligence gave the Joint Chiefs of Staff a complete analysis of the Allied occupation of Greece. Significantly the report stated that the British are treating Greece more and more like a colony. The Army warned that unless the British withdraw, Greece will oe plunged into civil war . . . Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson opposed sending the carrier FDR to Greece. However, Mrs. Roosevelt's nephew, U. S. Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh, insisted, and Acheson finally yielded . . . Senator Vandenberg, now in Paris, peppered the State Department and White House with cables that the United Nations' importance in the eyes of the world would be tragically reduced by postponement, that the preliminary four to six weeks of the UN Assembly would be devoted to non-controversial matters anyway, would in no way hamper or be hampered by the Paris Conference. Van, however, was vetoed by the Russians.

Stock Market Slump

Washington economists have been closely scrutinizing the stock market situation. While no one expects Truman's two-bit bankers from Missouri to know much about the stock market, some of the old Roosevelt economists who worked with the Securities and Exchange Commission for years still have their ear to the ground. Here is their private summary of the Wall Street situation:

The market slump was caused largely by a mass of panicky small buyers who figure a depression is coming and want to sell out first. The big buyers didn't sell. Many of them even came into the market to snap up bargain prices.

On the same day of the big slump, General Tire and Rubber declared a $5 dividend for six months, but despite that, its stock dropped to $38. Gimbels is making about $25, but its stock dropped to under $50. These are extraordinary profits. In general, the rate of return is now better than during the boom year of 1929.

Economists conclude that while the present prosperity can't last indefinitely it has some time yet to go, and the present momentum will carry us at least into early spring. Worst danger is in case the inflationary trend gets out of control.

Breakdown Of Nation's Economy Being Witnessed

By MARK SULLIVAN

What we are seeing is a breakdown of the country's economy, its industrial and business functioning. To put it that way is accurate. But for understanding and to find a way out, more needs to be said.

What has actually broken down is the country's economy in a special form—the form in which it has been conducted for the year and a month since the end of the war. This form has been, half government control and half free enterprise. It is this half-and-half form of the economy that has broken down. It is about the half and half economy that decision must be made.

Under the dual system, half the decisions in industry and business which men must make for the production of goods are made by free agreement of men among themselves, half are made at Washington. Half the decisions men must make about prices are made in a free market, half are made by the Office of Price Administration at Washington. And the boundary between free prices and dictated ones changes from day to day. A price that is under an official ceiling today is set free by OPA tomorrow. Under the confusion of half and half no economy can function.

Wages Set By Two Methods

Similarly, half the agreements about wages are made by free collective bargaining, half are dictated at Washington or supervised there. The present maritime strike is a plain example. A decision was reached by collective bargaining between shop owners and AFL unions. That was free economy. This decision was overruled by Washington. That was controlled economy.

When Washington, through the Wage Stabilization Board, exercised jurisdiction over the maritime wage agreement, it found itself involved in many things besides, in the past and for the future. It had to take account of a previous decision it had made, approving wages for the CIO unions which were lower than AFL unions had now got through collective bargaining. If the Board approved the AFL wage, it must raise the CIO one, or face strike by CIO. If it did not approve the AFL wage, it forced continued strike by AFL unions. And in both cases there would be yet further consequences in other industries and from other unions. The whole pattern of wages which the Board had set up would be threatened.

Washington Decisions Tangled

All decisions made by Washington involve a tangled maze of past actions and future consequences. This illustrates a truth, fundamental in any attempt to have economy half free and half controlled. Control, if it is to be successful, must be complete. There can be no such thing as half and half.

Proof of the failure of half and half is complete enough surely. Today the largest city in the country and the world is face to face with lack of food. The whole commercial contact of the country with the rest of the world is suspended. This suspension, backing up from the coast into the interior, threatens paralysis of rail transportation. The proof provided by the present condition is borne out by past ones. Within the year of attempted half and half the country has endured a rail strike, a coal strike, a steel strike, each so long as it lasted paralyzing the country's industry, with other strikes that paralyzed single industries.

Agony Only Prolonged

The time for decision is here. It must be made by President Truman and it must be an over-all decision. Little dabs of decision by one government agency or another, on one point or another—such as the one about the maritime strike forced upon the Wage Stabilization Board—will only prolong the agony.

While the decision on policy must be an over-all one, it does not follow that there need be immediate and total abandonment of all controls. The decision is whether to move on toward getting the new controls which would be necessary if the present ones are to be retained and made effective — rigid wage and price controls, and rationing and allocation of goods as they existed during the war. The other course would be to move toward speedy and willing elimination of controls. To get new controls would be almost impossible. Congress would be reluctant to grant new controls, it has already shown that its preference is for gradual elimination of present controls, a return to free economy.

Partisans Can Read Maine Election Figures To Suit Own Perspective

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Maine elections turned out as usual—that is the figures can be read by partisans to suit their own political perspective.

Actually Senator Brewster, Republican, polled 5.3 percentage points more than he did when he ran six years ago, but he fell 2.7 percentage points behind the vote which Senator Wallace White got four years ago. This gives both sides a break.

It is not fair to either side, however, to compare percentages obtained by gubernatorial candidates with percentages obtained by senators or members of Congress in Maine elections. The governorship usually turns on local issues and personalities and often a big vote for the state ticket is contradicted as to size by a presidential vote the same year. Also, off-year elections should be compared with other off-years because the political activity is different.

Not Germane to Comparison

It is a fact that in 1930 when the Republican vote for U. S. senator was 60.9 per cent of the total there was a drop to 50.2 in 1934—another off-year election when there was no campaign for the presidency. The next time a U. S. senator was voted on was in 1940, a presidential year when the Republican vote was 58.7 but, again, this is not germane to the comparison.

The real comparison comes with the 1942 off-year election when Senator White, Republican, won by polling 66.7 per cent of the vote. Now comes Senator Brewster with approximately 64 per cent of the vote which, while higher than six years ago when he ran in a presidential year, is not above the 1942 off-year election percentage for his party.

Senator Brewster has been in Maine public life for a long while, having served not only as governor of the state but as a member of the House of Representatives. This will be his second term in the U. S. Senate. It is interesting to note how Mr. Brewster voted on various issues which might be called outstanding roll calls.

Sen. Brewster's Record

The record shows that Senator Brewster voted for the confirmation of Secretary Wallace for the Department of Commerce against the confirmation of Aubrey Williams as rural electrification administrator, against the extension of the trade agreements act, in favor of the $250,000 appropriation for the Federal Employment Practices Commission, for the United Nations Charter, for the cloture rule to cut off debate on the Federal Employment Practice Commission bill, against the loan to Great Britain, in favor of making unions suable for breach of contract, in favor of a bill to outlaw secondary boycotts in labor disputes, in favor of making labor subject to the anti-racketeering bill, in favor of the Case bill which President Truman subsequently vetoed, against a bill that would strike out labor injunctions, in favor of the President's strike control bill introduced after the railroad crisis last spring, against the equal rights amendment sponsored by women's groups, and in favor of the OPA revival bill.

No One Issue Paramount

It is difficult to tell from the above record just what the Maine voters said by their verdict at the polls for no one issue was paramount. The important fact is that the State of Maine likes Republicans and if they run in an off-year when the Democrats do not organize particularly well, their chances of polling a high percentage vote are better than in presidential years.

The weather in Maine, of course, is always a factor in judging the size of the vote. When there is bad weather the vote in the rural districts, which is heavily Republican, doesn't get in to the polls in as large numbers as when there is fair weather. In the cities where the Democratic vote is heavy the weather makes little difference. It is important to consider the weather is one is examining vote percentages, especially in an election where the result is a foregone conclusion and where the element of contest is absent. Many voters do not take the trouble to vote in elections which are one-sided and hence the percentage polled by Senator Brewster might have been larger if some special effort to get out the vote had ben made.

Trend Sought Elsewhere

The conclusion must be reached, therefore, that the Maine elections do not indicate that the Republicans in Maine are any less Republican than they have been or that the Democrats have any particular momentum left for their party in Maine as a consequence of the Roosevelt leadership. The trend in the nation will have to be discovered in other states, especially in the middle west where the Republicans may make substantial gains this autumn.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

May I spin a love story? I think it's a fresh switch on the boy-gets-girl formula. Our hero doesn't run 80 yards for a touchdown, he doesn't swing from tree to tree and save Lady Jane from the crocodiles, he doesn't capture the man "who done it" after Scotland Yard had failed. Nothing so easy. Pull up a chair and I'll tell you about it.

It happened some years ago in Vienna, where so many other memorable love scenes have been played. Our male lead is a novelist and playwright. If you read three books a year you've heard of him. Let's call him Rudolf Gans, which isn't even close to his real name.

Billy Rose

I don't know how old Rudolf was when he fell in love with Marya. He had written and lived enough to be a hundred. Actually I suppose he was half of that—and looked it. If you dine well every night for thirty years, and your only exercise is throwing epigrams around, chances are you'll be pudgy at 50. Rudolf was pudgy; his right eye required the assistance of a monocle, and silver was dispossessing the brown in his hair.

But the great women of Central Europe adored him. His ex-sweeties formed a sorority, and there were chapters from Constantinople to Cherbourg. Shop girls trembled when he was in town. I understand one of his novels sent the Austrian birthrate up eight percent.

And then one night Rudolf met a girl named Marya at a party. Of course, she was beautiful. Of course, she was gay. Of course, she was married. Married, I understand, to a grain merchant whose idea of romance was to buy her a vacuum cleaner on their wedding anniversary. After chatting with Marya for five minutes, Rudolf walked her into the garden and announced he was desperately in love with her. She was first bewildered, then shocked, then scornful. Remember Rudolf was more Gregory Ratoff than Gregory Peck. She laughed and left him standing in the garden.

He phoned, wired, sent her long-stemmed roses and bushel baskets of Viennese bon-bons. No answer. Rudolf began to lose his famous appetite. One night at a cafe he was actually out-epigrammed by a playwright with only one success to his name.

Our love story might have dawled along, except that a new actor appeared on the scene—Hitler. Anti-fascist Rudolf decided it was prudent, even urgent, to leave Vienna. But to leave without Marya seemed unthinkable.

So this master of dramatic invention devised a plot. He asked all the great people of Vienna to a farewell party. Among the invited guests were Marya and her husband. They almost didn't go, but in Vienna a party at Rudolf's was not to be missed.

It was a brilliant gathering—the kind of evening where the man at the piano playing Rachmaninoff is Rachmaninoff. Rudolf was magnificent. He encountered the playwright who had vanquished him at the cafe, and with a single phrase sent him reeling to the punchbowl.

About midnight he stilled his guests and walked to the phonograph.

"I would like to play a recording for you," he said. "Please listen." The entire company swarmed around the machine. Carefully, Rudolf placed a record on the turntable and inserted a new needle. Deliberately he lowered the tone-arm, and while the disk was making its few preliminary turns, sat down in a corner. From the phonograph came a voice—the voice of Rudolf Gans. "Dearest Marya . . ." it began.

I don't know the exact words on the record. Nobody ever heard it played again. But it was not the talk of a pudgy man with short breath and a fondness for schnitzel—this was a great heart in love. For five minutes, with some of the most famous artists in Europe gasping on the sidelines, his voice made violent and unashamed love to Marya. It was in turn humble, gay, tender. It made sly fun of her husband. It promised the wild life, skyrockets instead of security, poetry instead of laundry lists.

Those who heard it swear it was the greatest bit of love-writing since "Song of Songs." At the end, the voice commanded Marya to leave her husband, marry Rudolf, and come to America.

Well, if you stand at the 59th Street entrance to Central Park late any afternoon, you're apt to see a monocled old boy arm-in-arming it with a Viennese beauty. When they pass, tip your hat. You're looking at the third act of my favorite love story.

Democrat Careless In Assessing Market Break

Maine's election three days ago may or may not indicate a trend in the coming general election in November, but from here on to that first Tuesday in November we will hear much about "trends," with both Republicans and Democrats going in for the customary claiming.

But there is one trend we can count on—that is the trend toward irresponsible talk. It must be something in the Autumn air of the even-numbered years that causes politicians to put their conscience out of gear and their tongues into free-wheeling. Well out ahead of that trend last week was Representative Adolph Sabath, Illinois Democrat, when he charged that Republican financiers had arranged the stock market decline "to make some money for the party" and to affect the November balloting.

He called upon the Securities and Exchange Commission to investigate short selling "raids" on the market and inquire into political motives. The SEC chairman was quick to reply that the SEC was of course watching stock transactions closely, as is its duty. But he doubted that short selling could have been an appreciable factor in the decline, since an SEC rule forbids short selling of a stock except at a price higher than the last sale price. Which of course, makes short selling extremely difficult in a sagging market. For a short-seller has to find a buyer, and who's going to buy at a price higher than he can pay on an open market?

Maybe Congressman Sabath didn't know about that rule. Maybe he didn't know that, under another SEC rule, requiring 100 percent margin, people who buy and sell stocks have to use their own money. Having been a Congressman for so many years and accustomed to using other people's money, maybe he didn't know that people using their own money don't usually look around for extraneous political motive to buy and sell. The hope of profit and fear of loss are in themselves sufficient motives—and in the hopes and fears weighed in balance are considerations both more immediate and further removed than a congressional election two months off.

But if he did know he probably didn't care. Mr. Sabath thinks in terms of politics rather than economics. When he made that ridiculous statement, he wasn't nearly as concerned over the declining stock market as over the prospects of a declining number of Democratic seats in Congress. So he rushed out to accuse the Republicans before Republicans could do the natural thing of blaming the party in power.

Whether the hunter who killed a woman when he mistook her hat for a turtle is a distant relative of the man who shot a farmer thinking he was a cow, has not been revealed.

The contrast gives a far better idea of the great bomber's size than the account stating that it is 163 feet long, has a wing span of 230 feet, and that its tail rises 47 feet into the air. Here is a really big ship!

It is exciting also to read that the six motors of the XB-36 develop 18,000 horsepower, that it can carry 30 tons of bombs, and that it has a range of 10,000 miles. The big bomber could cover the distance from San Francisco to Tokyo and return non-stop.

The advent of the XB-36 is a clear indication that airplanes will continue to grow in size. There may be a limit somewhere but it has not been reached. It is worth noting that on its first test flight it "exceeded all expectations for performance." No matter what lies ahead of the bomber as a weapon of war, it points to bigger and better aircraft for carrying passengers and freight in time of peace.

Traffic reports show that a big share of auto accidents occur to drivers who have never had one. And a lot of them occur to those who have had one too many.

PECULIARITIES OF OLDSTERS

THE modern physician has answered the challenge to our ever increasing population of oldsters by attempting to add life to years as well as years to life. The procedure is difficult in the presence of excessive wear and tear but it is surprising what can be done when every consideration is given to the project.

Psychological changes are prone to arise. Various aberrations can be expected, especially exaggerations of lifelong peculiarities and prejudices. Occasionally, however, they indicate a decline into mental illness. The condition is suspected when the individual becomes overbearng and cantankerous, possibly with an associated weakness, nervousness, insomnia, and unusual irritability. Perhaps thriftiness has always been practiced. Now miserliness may be observed, with hoarding of money and useless scraps or trinkets.

Old grudges or buried feelings often become ignited. A mild distrust in the past develops gradually into troublesome suspicion or delusions of persecution. Many embarrassing situations may confront a son or daughter who is trying to provide a happy home for an elderly father or mother.

Grandpa might spend his time during the day making erroneous complaints to neighbors, friends, or police; sometimes his behavior does not actually conform to the social pattern. Now and then an unsuitable marriage will be contracted or huge sums lavished on injudicious charirties. Some make periodic changes of wills. Once in a while, a senile person wanders away and is lost or injured. Others turn on the water or gas burner and forget to turn it off. Altho claiming to be as keen as ever, they are constantly losing spectacles or fountain pens.

The outcome is variable. The phenomenon may become progressively worse, with gradual mental disintegration. Frequently, it changes like the weather; the oldtimer seems normal one day but not the next. Cases are observed in which the decline begins at the age of 60, whereas many men and women in the 80s have all their faculties. Much depends on the personality, as stable individuals are more likely to withstand the aging process. Emotional disturbances such as undue anxiety, financial stress, insecurity, or the loss of a spouse or a home may hasten mental collapse.

The laity usually refers to the condition as "softening of the brain." Faulty circulation or arteriosclerlosis is a possibility but is not always responsible; postmortem studies have failed to disclose evidence of damage in some of the most severe cases. Apparently degeneration can result from toxins or infections as well as inadequate nutrition accompanied by a deficiency of vitamins B and C. Altho the diet appears satisfactory, absorption is not perfect. Another factor is lack of teeth, which prevents chewing.

When the symptoms arise suddenly, or are transient, the specific underlying cause should be sought, including overfatigue, constipation, alcoholism, anemia, dropsy, infections, and kidney diseases. In the presence of such abnormalities, blood is diverted from the cerebral area in sufficient amounts to alter the temperament. Should the origin be amenable to treatment, improvement in the mental state usually follows.

CAN'T "UNSOFTEN"

H. M. writes: Is second childhood softening of the brain? Would eating bread and salt each morning help to harden it?

REPLY

Second childhood is often referred to as "softening of the brain." But this is only an expression, as the brain itself does not soften. The chief cause lies in the ageing process—arteriosclerosis. As a result, the supply of nourishment to the tissues is decreased and tiny areas die and are replaced by scar tissue. Thus improvement is hardly possible unless instituted long before the arteries change. The bread and salt regime, therefore, would be of no value.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Attention, listeners, please! I'll be back on the air September 24, same time, same place. . .And let's hope not the same jokes. There'll be a lot of changes in the show this fall but don't get too enthusiastic. . .I'm still on it. I went to the trouble of taking a personal survey to find out just what the public wants in the way of a radio program. A sort of Gallup poll. . .I'd ring a doorbell and then gallop.

But I'm happy to go back on the air again. It's a wonderful feeling to know you can reach into so many American homes with just the aid of a microphone. . . My brother, of course, doesn't need a microphone. I've already held a writers' meeting and when I told the boys we were still on the air they put their heads together and knocked wood. We're just one big happy family.

With the sponsor as mother-in-law. We're a great team, the sponsor and I. . .My sound-man is back from Bikini and you can expect some hair-raising explosions this fall. That boy sure knows his stuff . . .In fact, before I hired him, he played second-washboard for Spike Jones.

It takes a lot of hard work to get our show on the air. Some wise guy keeps pulling the plug out. No kidding, there's writing to be done, rehearsals to be played. . . Censors to be shot. Those boys really give us trouble . . . When they're through with a script there's nothing left but the punctuation. But everything turns out well after I explain the joke to them and I go up there and give them the "punch!"

IT SEEMED LIKE A GOOD IDEA AT THE TIME

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

CIO Decides To Eliminate Major Strikes; Eisenhower Prefers Baseball To War; Republicans Revolt Against National Chairman Reece; Market Break

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—It is no accident that the AFL, not the CIO, is in the strike headlines today.

In the first place, CIO Chief Phil Murray held a secret meeting with his cohorts recently in which it was decided to postpone all major strikes for the time being. In the second place, certain AFL leaders (though not the majority) are not averse to a little labor trouble right now in order to defeat the Democrats at the polls in November.

John L. Lewis is the leader of this group, with George Meany and Matt Woll tagging along behind. They are playing close to the Republicans.

Embarrassment of the Truman Administration was behind Lewis' telegram to striking maritime leader Harry Lundeberg, offering United Mine Workers' cash to support AFL sailors. With Congress in recess, many AFL leaders also feel there is no danger of reviving the Case Bill or passing other restrictive labor legislation. Incidentally, it used to be the other way round; namely that labor wanted Congress in session to keep a weather eye on big business. Now strikers have a better chance with Congress out of session.

CIO leaders have just the opposite view about strikes at this time. In various conferences, Murray has pointed out to his men that unfortunately the public has been sold on the National Association of Manufacturers' propaganda that labor is responsible for current price increases. While this propaganda, Murray said, is untrue, the best policy for intelligent labor leaders is to cut out major strikes for the time being and attempt to educate the public on the real facts.

Murray Gets Tough

How deadly in earnest Murray is about no-strikes-at-this-time was indicated by a verbal battle he had with Harry Bridges of the West Coast Longshoremen during last June's threatened CIO maritime strike. Bridges was determined to call his men out. Joe Curran of the National Maritime Union thought an agreement could be worked out without a strike. Murray sat as arbitrator.

"I will not have a maritime strike at this time charged up to the CIO," Murray told Bridges. "If you succeed in staging a strike, I'll disown you publicly, Harry Bridges. And I'll do my best to throw you out of the CIO."

Ball Fan Eisenhower

One night during the Yugoslav crisis, General Eisenhower was at the ball park in Washington watching his favorite team, the Senators, when an adult newsboy came by and dropped a Washington Post in his lap. An eight-column headline across the front page read: "United States Sends Ultimatum to Yugoslavia."

"No paper now," said the Chief of Staff, engrossed in the ball game and scarcely glancing at the headline.

"Take it with my compliments, General," said the newsboy. "It looks as if you're going to be my boss again."

Flour Goes to Waste

Small flour mills and flour distributors all over the country are facing serious trouble because of the Agriculture Department's sudden reversal of its policy on flour.

Last spring when food famine talk was at its highest, the Department ordered darker flour. Many mills went to work, turned out as much as a year's supply of the darker flour. Then, without warning, the Department permitted a return to real white bread.

Now dark flour is beginning to rot in mills and warehouses.

GOP Revolt

A revolt is brewing in the Republican Party against the "sit tight" policy of the new GOP national chairman, Carroll Reece, former Congressman from Tennessee.

GOP followers of the late Wendell Willkie have been protesting none-too-privately in Washington and elsewhere that the dignified GOP chairman is taking a Republican victory in the Congressional elections this November too much for granted. They want him to begin showing better results or get out.

The Willkieites, who backed former Treasury Under-Secretary John Hanes against Reece for the chairmanship, are now shouting "I told you so" at Reece's old guard supporters.

They contend that instead of being content to sit back and point the finger of guilt at the Democratic Administration, Reece should be on the firing line, creating live issues, shaking the voting public out of the apathy so noticeable in this year's primary.

So don't be surprised if Chairman Reece is called on the carpet by dissatisfied party leaders to give an account of his stewardship.

Capital Chaff

You don't always expect political warnings from the Army, but last week Army Intelligence gave the Joint Chiefs of Staff a complete analysis of the Allied occupation of Greece. Significantly the report stated that the British are treating Greece more and more like a colony. The Army warned that unless the British withdraw, Greece will be plunged into civil war . . . Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson opposed sending the carrier FDR to Greece. However, Mrs. Roosevelt's nephew, U. S. Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh, insisted, and Acheson finally yielded . . . Senator Vandenberg, now in Paris, peppered the State Department and White House with cables that the United Nations' importance in the eyes of the world would be tragically reduced by postponement, that the preliminary four to six weeks of the UN Assembly would be devoted to non-controversial matters anyway, would in no way hamper or be hampered by the Paris Conference. Van, however, was vetoed by the Russians.

Stock Market Slump

Washington economists have been closely scrutinizing the stock market situation. While no one expects Truman's two-bit bankers from Missouri to know much about the stock market, some of the old Roosevelt economists who worked with the Securities and Exchange Commission for years still have their ear to the ground. Here is their private summary of the Wall Street situation:

The market slump was caused largely by a mass of panicky small buyers who figure a depression is coming and want to sell out first. The big buyers didn't sell. Many of them even came into the market to snap up bargain prices.

On the same day of the big slump, General Tire and Rubber declared a $5 dividend for six months, but despite that, its stock dropped to $38. Gimbels is making about $25, but its stock dropped to under $50. These are extraordinary profits. In general, the rate of return is now better than during the boom year of 1929.

Economists conclude that while the present prosperity can't last indefinitely it has some time yet to go, and the present momentum will carry us at least into early spring. Worst danger is in case the inflationary trend gets out of control.

Breakdown Of Nation's Economy Being Witnessed

By MARK SULLIVAN

What we are seeing is a breakdown of the country's economy, its industrial and business functioning. To put it that way is accurate. But for understanding and to find a way out, more needs to be said.

What has actually broken down is the country's economy in a special form—the form in which it has been conducted for the year and a month since the end of the war. This form has been, half government control and half free enterprise. It is this half-and-half form of the economy that has broken down. It is about the half and half economy that decision must be made.

Under the dual system, half the decisions in industry and business which men must make for the production of goods are made by free agreement of men among themselves, half are made at Washington. Half the decisions men must make about prices are made in a free market, half are made by the Office of Price Administration at Washington. And the boundary between free prices and dictated ones changes from day to day. A price that is under an official ceiling today is set free by OPA tomorrow. Under the confusion of half and half no economy can function.

Wages Set By Two Methods

Similarly, half the agreements about wages are made by free collective bargaining, half are dictated at Washington or supervised there. The present maritime strike is a plain example. A decision was reached by collective bargaining between shop owners and AFL unions. That was free economy. This decision was overruled by Washington. That was controlled economy.

When Washington, through the Wage Stabilization Board, exercised jurisdiction over the maritime wage agreement, it found itself involved in many things besides, in the past and for the future. It had to take account of a previous decision it had made, approving wages for the CIO unions which were lower than AFL unions had now got through collective bargaining. If the Board approved the AFL wage, it must raise the CIO one, or face strike by CIO. If it did not approve the AFL wage, it forced continued strike by AFL unions. And in both cases there would be yet further consequences in other industries and from other unions. The whole pattern of wages which the Board had set up would be threatened.

Washington Decisions Tangled

All decisions made by Washington involve a tangled maze of past actions and future consequences. This illustrates a truth, fundamental in any attempt to have economy half free and half controlled. Control, if it is to be successful, must be complete. There can be no such thing as half and half.

Proof of the failure of half and half is complete enough surely. Today the largest city in the country and the world is face to face with lack of food. The whole commercial contact of the country with the rest of the world is suspended. This suspension, backing up from the coast into the interior, threatens paralysis of rail transportation. The proof provided by the present condition is borne out by past ones. Within the year of attempted half and half the country has endured a rail strike, a coal strike, a steel strike, each so long as it lasted paralyzing the country's industry, with other strikes that paralyzed single industries.

Agony Only Prolonged

The time for decision is here. It must be made by President Truman and it must be an over-all decision. Little dabs of decision by one government agency or another, on one point or another—such as the one about the maritime strike forced upon the Wage Stabilization Board—will only prolong the agony.

While the decision on policy must be an over-all one, it does not follow that there need be immediate and total abandonment of all controls. The decision is whether to move on toward getting the new controls which would be necessary if the present ones are to be retained and made effective — rigid wage and price controls, and rationing and allocation of goods as they existed during the war. The other course would be to move toward speedy and willing elimination of controls. To get new controls would be almost impossible. Congress would be reluctant to grant new controls, it has already shown that its preference is for gradual elimination of present controls, a return to free economy.

Partisans Can Read Maine Election Figures To Suit Own Perspective

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Maine elections turned out as usual—that is the figures can be read by partisans to suit their own political perspective.

Actually Senator Brewster, Republican, polled 5.3 percentage points more than he did when he ran six years ago, but he fell 2.7 percentage points behind the vote which Senator Wallace White got four years ago. This gives both sides a break.

It is not fair to either side, however, to compare percentages obtained by gubernatorial candidates with percentages obtained by senators or members of Congress in Maine elections. The governorship usually turns on local issues and personalities and often a big vote for the state ticket is contradicted as to size by a presidential vote the same year. Also, off-year elections should be compared with other off-years because the political activity is different.

Not Germane to Comparison

It is a fact that in 1930 when the Republican vote for U. S. senator was 60.9 per cent of the total there was a drop to 50.2 in 1934—another off-year election when there was no campaign for the presidency. The next time a U. S. senator was voted on was in 1940, a presidential year when the Republican vote was 58.7 but, again, this is not germane to the comparison.

The real comparison comes with the 1942 off-year election when Senator White, Republican, won by polling 66.7 per cent of the vote. Now comes Senator Brewster with approximately 64 per cent of the vote which, while higher than six years ago when he ran in a presidential year, is not above the 1942 off-year election percentage for his party.

Senator Brewster has been in Maine public life for a long while, having served not only as governor of the state but as a member of the House of Representatives. This will be his second term in the U. S. Senate. It is interesting to note how Mr. Brewster voted on various issues which might be called outstanding roll calls.

Sen. Brewster's Record

The record shows that Senator Brewster voted for the confirmation of Secretary Wallace for the Department of Commerce against the confirmation of Aubrey Williams as rural electrification administrator, against the extension of the trade agreements act, in favor of the $250,000 appropriation for the Federal Employment Practices Commission, for the cloture rule to cut off debate on the Federal Employment Practice Commission bill, against the loan to Great Britain, in favor of making unions suable for breach of contract, in favor of a bill to outlaw secondary boycotts in labor disputes, in favor of making labor subject to the anti-racketeering bill, in favor of the Case bill which President Truman subsequently vetoed, against a bill that would strike out labor injunctions, in favor of the President's strike control bill introduced after the railroad crisis last spring, against the equal rights amendment sponsored by women's groups, and in favor of the OPA revival bill.

No One Issue Paramount

It is difficult to tell from the above record just what the Maine voters said by their verdict at the polls for no one issue was paramount. The important fact is that the State of Maine likes Republicans and if they run in an off-year when the Democrats do not organize particularly well, their chances of polling a high percentage vote are better than in presidential years.

The weather in Maine, of course, is always a factor in judging the size of the vote. When there is bad weather the vote in the rural districts, which is heavily Republican, doesn't get in to the polls in as large numbers as when there is fair weather. In the cities where the Democratic vote is heavy the weather makes little difference. It is important to consider the weather is one is examining vote percentages, especially in an election where the result is a foregone conclusion and where the element of contest is absent. Many voters do not take the trouble to vote in elections which are one-sided and hence the percentage polled by Senator Brewster might have been larger if some special effort to get out the vote had ben made.

Trend Sought Elsewhere

The conclusion must be reached, therefore, that the Maine elections do not indicate that the Republicans in Maine are any less Republican than they have been or that the Democrats have any particular momentum left for their party in Maine as a consequence of the Roosevelt leadership. The trend in the nation will have to be discovered in other states, especially in the middle west where the Republicans may make substantial gains this autumn.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

May I spin a love story? I think it's a fresh switch on the boy-gets-girl formula. Our hero doesn't run 80 yards for a touchdown, he doesn't swing from tree to tree and save Lady Jane from the crocodiles, he doesn't capture the man "who done it" after Scotland Yard had failed. Nothing so easy. Pull up a chair and I'll tell you about it.

It happened some years ago in Vienna, where so many other memorable love scenes have been played. Our male lead is a novelist and playwright. If you read three books a year you've heard of him. Let's call him Rudolf Gans, which isn't even close to his real name.

Billy Rose

I don't know how old Rudolf was when he fell in love with Marya. He had written and lived enough to be a hundred. Actually I suppose he was half of that—and looked it. If you dine well every night for thirty years, and your only exercise is throwing epigrams around, chances are you'll be pudgy at 50. Rudolf was pudgy; his right eye required the assistance of a monocle, and silver was dispossessing the brown in his hair.

But the great women of Central Europe adored him. His ex-sweeties formed a sorority, and there were chapters from Constantinople to Cherbourg. Shop girls trembled when he was in town. I understand one of his novels sent the Austrian birthrate up eight percent.

And then one night Rudolf met a girl named Marya at a party. Of course, she was beautiful. Of course, she was gay. Of course, she was married. Married, I understand, to a grain merchant whose idea of romance was to buy her a vacuum cleaner on their wedding anniversary. After chatting with Marya for five minutes, Rudolf walked her into the garden and announced he was desperately in love with her. She was first bewildered, then shocked, then scornful. Remember Rudolf was more Gregory Ratoff than Gregory Peck. She laughed and left him standing in the garden.

He phoned, wired, sent her long-stemmed roses and bushel baskets of Viennese bon-bons. No answer. Rudolf began to lose his famous appetite. One night at a cafe he was actually out-epigrammed by a playwright with only one success to his name.

Our love story might have dawdled along, except that a new actor appeared on the scene—Hitler. Anti-fascist Rudolf decided it was prudent, even urgent, to leave Vienna. But to leave without Marya seemed unthinkable.

So this master of dramatic invention devised a plot. He asked all the great people of Vienna to a farewell party. Among the invited guests were Marya and her husband. They almost didn't go, but in Vienna a party at Rudolf's was not to be missed.

It was a brilliant gathering—the kind of evening where the man at the piano playing Rachmaninoff is Rachmaninoff. Rudolf was magnificent. He encountered the playwright who had vanquished him at the cafe, and with a single phrase sent him reeling to the punchbowl.

About midnight he stilled his guests and walked to the phonograph.

"I would like to play a recording for you," he said. "Please listen." The entire company swarmed around the machine. Carefully, Rudolf placed a record on the turntable and inserted a new needle. Deliberately he lowered the tone-arm, and while the disk was making its few preliminary turns, sat down in a corner. From the phonograph came a voice—the voice of Rudolf Gans. "Dearest Marya . . ." it began.

I don't know the exact words on the record. Nobody ever heard it played again. But it was not the talk of a pudgy man with short breath and a fondness for schnitzel—this was a great heart in love. For five minutes, with some of the most famous artists in Europe gasping on the sidelines, his voice made violent and unashamed love to Marya. It was in turn humble, gay, tender. It made sly fun of her husband. It promised the wild life, skyrockets instead of security, poetry instead of laundry lists.

Those who heard it swear it was the greatest bit of love-writing since "Song of Songs." At the end, the voice commanded Marya to leave her husband, marry Rudolf, and come to America.

Well, if you stand at the 59th Street entrance to Central Park late any afternoon, you're apt to see a monocled old boy arm-in-arming it with a Viennese beauty. When they pass, tip your hat. You're looking at the third act of my favorite love story.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

We are apt to pass over the trivial things in life as of no consequence, but often they are able to prove to be the significant things, in their influence upon our way of life, and upon our character.

It was a trivial thing on the part of James Watt to note the steam coming out of a tea kettle. Yet that careful note made such an impression upon him that it led to the great expanse of steam as a means of motive power. The "steam engine" was long ago a most familiar thing of note.

That apple which fell from the tree was another trival thing, but it wasn't to the watchful eye of the one who gave to the world the law of gravitation. And so it has always been—the trivial enlarging into the useful and important.

The young boy, Henry Ford, was a visitor at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. His watchful eye saw something that interested him. He went home and made a simple model out of a piece of gas pipe, hitched it to his kitchen sink, and with the help of Mrs. Ford, he learned the first principles of the gas exploding cylinder. Trivial to many—but the vision expanded. A workable "horseless carriage" was the result. And now all the world knows what happened after that.

It has been out of trivial things that men have risen to power and wealth, as well as to stations of great honor and usefulness. It's the trivial things that really build character, and give to it its never ending influence.

To give a personal example, it was the little want ad in a newspaper that got me to thinking, along a practical line. I studied them in scores of newspapers, and evolved a new way of presenting their value and attractiveness to users. The result was a series of talks on "How to Write and Answer Classified Want Ads." I sold these ideas to a hundred and more newspapers, and the profit from their sale, was the capital with which I founded my newspaper syndicate, nearly forty years ago.

to hide in the woods until a little later when he sneaked back to the house and put on another shirt. Then he took to the woods on the other side of the house.

McCauley said the bloodhound caused him to change his position frequently and that the dog had him "worried." He said he saw members of the searching party and the bloodhound on several occasions.

Will Check Bullets

Cpl. Murphy said the trip to Clarksburg with McCauley was made without incident and that upon their arrival in that city they took the slayer to State Police headquarters where he was questioned. McCauley signed the confession before Cpl. Murphy and Thoopers G. F. Randolph, M. F. Jordan and Mason Altire and then was locked up in the Clarksburg jail.

"We're taking no chances with that baby," Cpl. Murphy said, adding, "He'll be here when they (Prosecutor Rankin) want him."

In Keyser, Prosecutor Rankin said he will try McCauley on one murder charge at a time, but he said he has not decided whether he will try him for the murder of Sgt. Horne or for the slaying of Sheriff Hovatter first. He said he definitely would not try both cases together.

"If they swing him on the first one," Rankin said, "it won't be necessary to try the second.

Today or tomorrow, Rankin reported, either or Cpl. R. R. Karrickhoff of the West Virginia State Police, will take the three bullets removed from the bodies of the victims to Washington to have them compared with the .38 caliber revolver recovered when McCauley was captured, in order to determine if they were fired from that weapon.

"Feeling is running high against McCauley," the prosecutor said, adding that for that reason he will not announce when the Davis strip miner will be given a preliminary hearing.

McCauley was an expert marksman with a pistol, according to the prosecuting attorney. He said that McCauley often bet co-workers at the Hartmansville strip mining operation where he was employed, that he could hit twice a half dollar tossed into the air before it reached the ground.

Rankin reported that McCauley served in the Navy between the First and Second World Wars.

Funeral Rites Arranged

Yesterday Hughes and Landis, McCauley's captors, gave statements to Rankin of their conversation with the slayer after his capture, and said they believed he planned another shooting.

Hughes quoted McCauley as saying he was returning to the crime "to give some stuff to Jim." (Authorities said they believe Jim is James Harding, who earlier had said he understood McCauley had made threats against him. McCauley is said to have believed that Harding gave police the tip leading to his arrest.)

At Davis, McCauley's home, his father, Rev. R. A. McCauley, a Pentecostal minister, expressed relief that his son had been apprehended. He said he was glad no more blood would be spilled and that the manhunt was over without further injury or death to any of the officers or posseman.

Funeral services for Sgt. Horne, whose home is on the same street in Davis as McCauley's, will be held at 2:30 p. m Friday at the Fike-Watson Funeral Home in Terra Alta, W. Va.

Some 30 West Virginia state policemen headed by Col. W. E. Burchett, superintendent of West Virginia State Police, will attend the services with all four of the state's companies to be represented, Capt. Ermil Clark, commander of Company C, Elkins, said last night. He added that Col. Burchett and Capt. F. C. Crawford, commander of Company D, Charleston, will fly from Charleston to Terra Alta to attend the services.

Rites for Sheriff Hovatter will be held at the Greenlief Funeral Home, Parsons, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

We are apt to pass over the trivial things in life as of no consequence, but often they are able to prove to be the significant things, in their influence upon our way of life, and upon our character.

It was a trivial thing on the part of James Watt to note the steam coming out of a tea kettle. Yet that careful note made such an impression upon him that it led to the great expanse of steam as a means of motive power. The "steam engine" was long ago a most familiar thing of note.

That apple which fell from the tree was another trival thing, but it wasn't to the watchful eye of the one who gave to the world the law of gravitation. And so it has always been—the trivial enlarging into the useful and important.

The young boy, Henry Ford, was a visitor at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. His watchful eye saw something that interested him. He went home and made a simple model out of a piece of gas pipe, hitched it to his kitchen sink, and with the help of Mrs. Ford, he learned the first principles of the gas exploding cylinder. Trivial to many—but the vision expanded. A workable "horseless carriage" was the result. And now all the world knows what happened after that.

It has been out of trivial things that men have risen to power and wealth, as well as to stations of great honor and usefulness. It's the trivial things that really build character, and give to it its never ending influence.

To give a personal example, it was the little want ad in a newspaper that got me to thinking, along a practical line. I studied them in scores of newspapers, and evolved a new way of presenting their value and attractiveness to users. The result was a series of talks on "How to Write and Answer Classified Want Ads." MY UPPER PLATE

This column deals with the great human comedy—mostly on its grimmer side.

I'm a sucker for misfortune—my own as well as the other fellow's. And there's nothing I like better than kicking a handicap in the teeth and starting in fresh.

Maybe this is because I've had so many handicaps myself that I'm hep to all their vicious angles. But of all the jolts that laid me low and have made my friends feel like dented nickles, there is one which I have yet to see discussed in print. I refer to—

MY UPPER PLATE.

In common with most of my generation, my teeth began to skid on me at a fairly early age. They weren't much to look at to begin with but with the passage of time they practically became museum pieces. So the day inevitably came when all the mechanics, including the village blacksmith, refused to tinker with them any longer. And they were yanked.

Whereupon my very smart young dentist presented me with a glittering row of immaculate fangs and told me to go my way rejoicing.

I went my way, but not rejoicing. Never in my extremely variegated life have I felt so low, so blotto as I did with that first upper plate.

This feeling was alien to all my previous experience. I have never been a sensitive plant. I have always prided myself that I could take any experience on the chin and roll with the punches. But the very thought of this artificial appendage threw me for the count. I promptly developed all the inferiority symptoms which I had ridiculed and shellacked for the last 40 years. I groveled in self pity. I decided that I was growing old and it was useless to put up a struggle in the few days that were left to me. And if my boss hadn't delivered a few snappy comments I'd probably still be sogging around and drinking gruel for the rest of my natural life.

For of course the whole thing was a matter of viewpoint. My new teeth were infinitely better looking and more useful than the snags I had discarded. But I simply hadn't contemplated fake teeth in my program. And the consciousness of them raised Cain with my libido.

Today me and my upper plate get along fine. It no longer depresses me and I can still grin with the best of them. Chances are, I'll be wearing a wooden leg and a silver diaphragm before I quit this vale of tears and I won't give a darn. It was just that upper plate that had me stopped—for a while.

Why am I revealing these intimate boudoir secrets? I'm revealing them because I want to help you, too, over a hurdle. False teeth—or other experiences which are a reasonable facsimile thereof—happen to all of us in time. Life no longer moves with the carefree nonchalance of youth. Maybe we lose the hearing in an ear or develop a touch of arthritis. Whatever it is, it's apt to throw us for a nasty fall. Suddenly all our scheme of things goes haywire and all the philosophy in the world doesn't help us. We're sunk and we don't give a hoot what happens. Of course it's silly. And we know it's silly. But that's the way we humans are. We can stand up like fighting fools to any real trouble. No breed on earth can lick us. But the little things get us down.

But nothing can keep us down if we learn to laugh. Even if, back of the grin, there's another upper plate.

Jobless Compensation Drops During August

Unemployment compensation claims filed at the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board during the month of August showed a drop from the number recorded in July, according to a report issued yesterday by Francis A. Kenney, chief claims deputy.

Total claims in August were 13,324 as compared with 17,034 in July. These figures include all claims and when broken down show 4,258 jobless in July and 3,331 unemployed in August.

A total of 1844 claims for GI adjustment allowances were filed. The number of new claims for GI payments dropped in August to 270 from 445 in July, Kenney said.

Self-employed GIs who filed claims totalled 32 in August as compared to 26 in July. This is an unusual listing, Kenney said, and includes men who report their earnings for a month at less than $100 net. They are paid the difference up to $100, he explained.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON
(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

MY UPPER PLATE

This column deals with the great human comedy—mostly on its grimmer side.

I'm a sucker for misfortune—my own as well as the other fellow's. And there's nothing I like better than kicking a handicap in the teeth and starting in fresh.

Maybe this is because I've had so many handicaps myself that I'm hep to all their vicious angles. But of all the jolts that laid me low and have made my friends feel like dented nickles, there is one which I have yet to see discussed in print. I refer to—

MY UPPER PLATE.

In common with most of my generation, my teeth began to skid on me at a fairly early age. They weren't much to look at to begin with but with the passage of time they practically became museum pieces. So the day inevitably came when all the mechanics, including the village blacksmith, refused to tinker with them any longer. And they were yanked.

Whereupon my very smart young dentist presented me with a glittering row of immaculate fangs and told me to go my way rejoicing.

I went my way, but not rejoicing. Never in my extremely variegated life have I felt so low, so blotto as I did with that first upper plate.

This feeling was alien to all my previous experience. I have never been a sensitive plant. I have always prided myself that I could take any experience on the chin and roll with the punches. But the very thought of this artificial appendage threw me for the count. I promptly developed all the inferiority symptoms which I had ridiculed and shellacked for the last 40 years. I groveled in self pity. I decided that I was growing old and it was useless to put up a struggle in the few days that were left to me. And if my boss hadn't delivered a few snappy comments I'd probably still be sogging around and drinking gruel for the rest of my natural life.

For of course the whole thing was a matter of viewpoint. My new teeth were infinitely better looking and more useful than the snags I had discarded. But I simply hadn't contemplated false teeth in my program. And the consciousness of them raised Cain with my libido.

Today me and my upper plate get along fine. It no longer depresses me and I can still grin with the best of them. Chances are, I'll be wearing a wooden leg and a silver diaphragm before I quit this vale of tears and I won't give a darn. It was just that upper plate that had me stopped—for a while.

Why am I revealing these intimate boudoir secrets? I'm revealing them because I want to help you, too, over a hurdle. False teeth—or other experiences which are a reasonable facsimile thereof—happen to all of us in time. Life no longer moves with the carefree nonchalance of youth. Maybe we lose the hearing in an ear or develop a touch of arthritis. Whatever it is, it's apt to throw us for a nasty fall. Suddenly all our scheme of things goes haywire and all the philosophy in the world doesn't help us. We're sunk and we don't give a hoot what happens. Of course it's silly. And we know it's silly. But that's the way we humans are. We can stand up like fighting fools to any real trouble. No breed on earth can lick us. But the little things get us down.

But nothing can keep us down if we learn to laugh. Even if, back of the grin, there's another upper plate.

Jobless Compensation Drops During August

Unemployment compensation claims filed at the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board during the month of August showed a drop from the number recorded in July, according to a report issued yesterday by Francis A. Kenney, chief claims deputy.

Total claims in August were 13,324 as compared with 17,034 in July. These figures include all claims and when broken down show 4,258 jobless in July and 3,331 unemployed in August.

A total of 1844 claims for GI adjustment allowances were filed. The number of new claims for GI payments dropped in August to 270 from 445 in July, Kenney said.

Self-employed GIs who filed claims totalled 32 in August as compared to 26 in July. This is an unusual listing, Kenney said, and includes men who report their earnings for a month at less than $100 net. They are paid the difference up to $100, he explained.

Market Rallies; Buying Rush Lifts Leaders One To More Than 10 Points

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—The recent sharp downswing of the stock market turned into a fast rally today as a rush of buying orders lifted leaders one to better than 10 points.

Some brokers credited this brisk about-face largely to bargain hunter bids and short covering on the idea the list had been drastically oversold and was due for at least a substantial technical recovery. The billions of dollars chopped off quoted values in the past two weeks, financial commentators said, made numerous pivotals look somewhat "cheap" at current prices. Commission houses found skeptics still plentiful, however, with bearishness based on price-wage disputes and fears that the three-months' drop of the averages might indicate future troubles.

Transfers totalled 2,870,000 shares compared with 3,300,000 on Tuesday's tumble.

Eastman Kodak opened up six points on a single sale, retreated and pushed ahead at the last to end with a net advance of 10½ at $219. Norfolk and Western added five at $235, International Harvester 4½ at $81.50, du Pont 4¼ at $176.50, Union Carbide four at $93, Johns-Manville four at $121.50, Bethlehem four at $93.50, Chrysler 3¾ at $93 and Santa Fe 3¾ at $92.25.

In front were United States Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, American Telephone, North American, Electric Power and Light, American Water Works, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Texas Company, Standard Oil (NJ), Southern Pacific, New York Central, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania Railroad and Chesapeake and Ohio.

In the Curb, Aluminum Ltd. jumped eight points to $159. Northern States Power was up five at $38. Lesser advancers included Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Cuban Atlantic Sugar, United Light, American Republics and Middle West Corporation. Turnover here was 850,000 shares versus 920,000 yesterday.

Selective demand for rails in the bond market spiked, at least temporarily, a long decline to the lowest level in a year and a half.

At the finish the list as a whole showed a well balanced mixture of gains and losses ranging to extremes of around four points either way.

United States governments moved ahead again in the over-the-counter market with the Victory Loan December 2½s of '67-'72 up around 6-32 of a point at 101 30-32 bid. The same issue moved in line in the exchange at 101 2-32, a decline of 9-32 of a point from the previous sale.

Turnover of $10,580,000 was the largest since April 30 and compared with $10,372,000 Tuesday.

Position Of Treasury

First Rain In 22 Days

D. A. Oliver, of the Parsons U. S. Forest Nursery announced today that eight tenths of an inch of rain fell on Monday to break 21 days without rain in this county. During the month of August the rainfall was only 1.37 inches which is the dryest record in the county since the keeping of the rainfall records. The year of 1930 which was considered a drought had 1.69 for the same month. The normal rainfall for that month is 4.05.

In the 21 days only two traces of rain could be found in which less than one hundredth of an inch fell. Mr. Oliver said that the water condition in the county is now in a critical stage and unless the rain comes and raises the river, there will not be enough water to pump for the watering of the small trees at the nursery. The city of Parsons is now pumping water 48 hours a day to supply the town.

Market Rallies; Buying Rush Lifts Leaders One To More Than 10 Points

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—The recent sharp downswing of the stock market turned into a fast rally today as a rush of buying orders lifted leaders one to better than 10 points.

Some brokers credited this brisk about-face largely to bargain hunter bids and short covering on the idea the list had been drastically oversold and was due for at least a substantial technical recovery. The billions of dollars chopped off quoted values in the past two weeks, financial commentators said, made numerous pivotals look somewhat "cheap" at current prices. Commission houses found skeptics still plentiful, however, with bearishness based on price-wage disputes and fears that the three-months' drop of the averages might indicate future troubles.

Transfers totalled 2,870,000 shares compared with 3,300,000 on Tuesday's tumble.

Eastman Kodak opened up six points on a single sale, retreated and pushed ahead at the last to end with a net advance of 10½ at $219. Norfolk and Western added five at $235, International Harvester 4½ at $81.50, du Pont 4¾ at $176.50, Union Carbide four at $93, Johns-Manville four at $121.50, Bethlehem four at $93.50, Chrysler 3⅞ at $93 and Santa Fe 3¼ at $92.25.

In front were United States Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, American Telephone, North American, Electric Power and Light, American Water Works, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Texas Company, Standard Oil (NJ), Southern Pacific, New York Central, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania Railroad and Chesapeake and Ohio.

In the Curb, Aluminum Ltd. jumped eight points to $159, Northern States Power was up five at $36. Lesser advancers included Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Cuban Atlantic Sugar, United Light, American Republics and Middle West Corporation. Turnover here was 850,000 shares versus 920,000 yesterday.

Selective demand for rails in the bond market spiked, at least temporarily, a long decline to the lowest level in a year and a half.

At the finish the list as a whole showed a well balanced mixture of gains and losses ranging to extremes of around four points either way.

United States governments moved ahead again in the over-the-counter market with the Victory Loan December 2½s of '67-72 up around 6-32 of a point at 101 30-32 bid. The same issue moved in line in the exchange at 101 2-32, a decline of 9-32 of a point from the previous sale.

Turnover of $10,580,000 was the largest since April 30 and compared with $10,372,000 Tuesday.

PARSONS, Sept. 11—Mrs. Mildred Coffman Michaels, wife of Dr. Guy Michaels, owner of the Tucker County Hospital, was seriously injured on Friday night while riding on a spitfire owned by the Jones' Greater Shows which was playing here during fair week.

This caused the car in which Mrs. Michaels was riding to ascend a distance of approximately ten feet, leaving her clinging to the stirrup and handlebars. Her grip gave way and she fell. She was rushed to the Tucker County Hospital where her husband examined her and found her suffering from shock and lacerations of the face and ankles. Full extent of her injuries could not be determined until the next morning when X-ray revealed that she had suffered a fractured skull, fracture of the radial bone of the right arm and fracture of the left foot.

Mrs. Guy Michaels Seriously Injured On Carnival Ride

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, Sept. 11—Mrs. Mildred Coffman Michaels, wife of Dr. Guy Michaels, owner of the Tucker County Hospital, was seriously injured on Friday night while riding on a spitfire owned by the Jones' Greater Shows which was playing here during fair week.

Mrs. Michaels was getting off the ride when the operator accidentally released the brake and permitted the machine to drift backward. This caused the car in which Mrs. Michaels was riding to ascend a distance of approximately ten feet, leaving her clinging to the stirrup and handlebars. Her grip gave way and she fell. She was rushed to the Tucker County Hospital where her husband examined her and found her suffering from shock and lacerations of the face and ankles. Full extent of her injuries could not be determined until the next morning when X-ray revealed that she had suffered a fractured skull, fracture of the radial bone of the right arm and fracture of the left foot.

Dr. Michaels was unable to definitely determine whether an operation of the cranial cavity would be necessary at this time. The investigation was conducted by Sheriff O. G. Hovatter and Sgt. J. P. Horne of the Thomas State Police detachment who were policing the carnival.

Other accidents reported during the week include that of Mrs. Rosa Miller of St. George, who suffered a heart attack while she was watching the firemen's parade on Friday. She was taken to the Weisman Clinic.

A wreck on U. S. Route 219 one mile east of Parsons occurred Thursday night when two cars collided at approximately ten o'clock. The owner of the one car, Srgyle Friend, 23, Leadmine, recently released from the Navy was taken to the local hospital where he was suffering from a concussion and was unconscious for 50 minutes. He was discharged the following afternoon. The other driver, Miss Bernetta Frances Arnold, Barton, a teacher in the Kempton, Md., schools received minor bruises and lacerations.

Alfred Dumire, who was riding in the Friend car was unhurt. Miss Betty McTall and Miss Anna Povish both of Kempton and Henry Hull, Thomas, were in the Arnold car.

The other accident occurred on State Route 72, just outside the city limits of Parsons when a Ford V-8 belonging to a Barbour Counman collided with a Plymouth driven by Mrs. Velma Metz, wife of Harold Metz. The small son of the Metz's was treated in a local hospital for a deep laceration on the forehead.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—"The Sultan of Swat", and I don't need to tell you I am speaking of the one and only Babe Ruth, will soon have his fabulous life story put on the screen. I am told Babe sold his biography for $100,000 to J. J. Amiet, wealthy New York sportsman, and Alex Moss, associated with Howard Hughes. Such noted sports writers as Damon Runyon, Bob Considine and Paul Gallico are being paged to write Babe's story. These newspaper scribes have known him well over a period of years and could bring a lot of color to it.

June Haver

No one in the modern spotlight is more typically American than Babe. He grew up in St. Mary's orphanage, in Baltimore, and by his own boot straps became the number one baseball hero. His story is one that boys all over the country will enjoy seeing.

Marlene Dietrich will be off to Paris as soon as Mitch Leisen says "Golden Earrings" is okay for release. She'll make a picture in Paris with Raimu, whose performance in "The Baker's Wife" will be remembered as long as movies are the subject of conversation. Says Marlene, "I'll go to the country where I find the best screen stories no matter where it takes me." If she doesn't look out she'll become our most international actress. Marlene made one movie in Paris with Jean Gabin, once her favorite man, but now he is out of her life for keeps.

I hadn't seen Merian Cooper for four years until I met him at the Peter Rathvon's at dinner with his lovely wife, Dorothy Jordan. Merian did big things in the war and he was overseas all during the fighting. He tells me he's back in harness once again and that he and Jack Ford are leaving for Mexico tomorrow to film "The Fugitive". That's the name they are giving "The Power And The Glory", a book Jack Ford has purchased. Merian and Jack did "Stagecoach" together and have been associated on a number of movie ventures. As for Dorothy, she is the mother of three children and has permanently retired.

Marion Davies reads even more than I do. Among the books she gave me to read was "Antioch Actress," by J. R. Perkins, which I couldn't put down. Now I am wondering why some producer doesn't put it on the screen. Of course, to make such a picture right would require expensive sets and gorgeous costumes. But this particular novel about an actress who is sent by the Emperor of Rome to her native Antioch to appear in a play ridiculing the birth of Christ, in an effort to stem the rising Christianity, would make a wonderful picture. The author is a Presbyterian minister, and he is familiar with the history of that time, its wickedness, cruelty and political intrigue. P. S. This tip is free.

Chatter in Hollywood: I was greatly intrigued by June Haver's account of the visit she received on her set at 20th Century-Fox from Princess Pahlavi, sister of the Shah of Iran. The Princess confided to June that she expects a baby in a month, her first born child. But the child will not have a title. That's because the Princess is married to a Persian commoner. She had to renounce her rights to the throne and to the title of Princess Royal. Seems as if everyone comes to Hollywood.

If Cornel Wilde can write a movie story for himself—why not William Boyd? No reason at all—so Bill (Hopalong Cassidy) has turned author and given us a story he is calling "Hoppy Holiday". It's for his "Hopalong" troupe, which is heading for a three weeks location jaunt at Lone Pine. Incidentally, Bill leaves to tour the country as soon as the current series for the year is over. He'll talk to the kids about juvenile delinquency and if you think they won't listen to what he has to say, you just don't know how popular Bill is with young America.

When the late John Barrymore originally bought "The Stray Lamb" everyone advised him that this whimsical Thorne Smith novel could never be made into a movie. But William Cagney didn't agree. When the book went on the auction block at the settling of Barrymore's estate, Bill up and bought it to star his brother Jimmy. He turned the scripting over to Nathaniel Curtis who came up with such a whale of a job that he's also been signed to direct it—his first screen megaphoning, by the way, nice break for Curtis who heretofore has confided himself to screen and radio writing.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Margot Grahame's ex, Alan McMartin, has married Nydia Franchino, a girl he met in England during the war . . . Those rumors about the Hugh Herberts are not true. His wife of twenty-six years isn't well and so she has gone to New York to stay until her health improves, but it's no divorce . . . Betty Newling and Al Bloomingdale marry at 4:30 next Friday at the home of Anita Louise and Buddy Adler. Didn't I tell you they were headed for the altar . . . Eleanor Parker and bridegroom Bert Friedlob gave a wedding dinner tonight at the Crillon in honor of those other newlyweds Dolores Morgan and Ben Bogeaus . . . Jane Greer, Rudy Vallee's former wife, and Arnold Kunody a Ciro's duo . . . Geraldine Fitzgerald, married to Stuart Scheftel today, lands in New York this week with both husband and child. When I printed Miss Fitzgerald was divorcing Edwin Lindsay-Hogg to marry Scheftel, Geraldine was so furious she threatened me with everything but exile to darkest Siberia . . . Where did you get that gorgeous dress?" Mary Been asked Dorothy Lamour at the Arthur Lyons party. "It's ten years old," Dorothy said, "and Edith Head just made it over." All the girls are getting out their pre-war gowns and having them remade, materials are much better than you can buy. Minna Wallis came to the Lyons soiree flanked by both handsome Tony Martin and handsome Jeffrey Lynn. Not bad with the scarcity of males. Jeffrey had such a welcome home. He goes to New York after he confers with Warners about his next movie, to marry Robin Chandler, October 5. . . . Raoul Walsh celebrated his 32nd year in movies on Monday and he's still a fan. . . .I don't want to miss the party Schwab's drug store is giving my fellow columnist, Sidney Skolsky, after the preview of his swell picture, "The Jolson Story". It's my chance to get all the ice cream I want—my favorite dish. . . Good news that Ernst Lubitsch was well enough to be out and can soon go to the studio. He's such a nice guy we're glad he's well again. We hate to have him sick. That's all today.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—"The Sultan of Swat", and I don't need to tell you I am speaking of the one and only Babe Ruth, will soon have his fabulous life story put on the screen. I am told Babe sold his biography for $100,000 to J. J. Amiel, wealthy New York sportsman, and Alex Moss, associated with Howard Hughes. Such noted sports writers as Damon Runyon, Bob Considine and Paul Gallico are being paged to write Babe's story. These newspaper scribes have known him well over a period of years and could bring a lot of color to it.

June Haver

No one in the modern spotlight is more typically American than Babe. He grew up in St. Mary's orphanage, in Baltimore, and by his own boot straps became the number one baseball hero. His story is one that boys all over the country will enjoy seeing.

Marlene Dietrich will be off to Paris as soon as Mitch Leisen says "Golden Earrings" is okay for release. She'll make a picture in Paris with Raimu, whose performance in "The Baker's Wife" will be remembered as long as movies are the subject of conversation. Says Marlene, "I'll go to the country where I find the best screen stories no matter where it takes me." If she doesn't look out she'll become our most international actress. Marlene made one movie in Paris with Jean Gabin, once her favorite man, but now he is out of her life for keeps.

I hadn't seen Merian Cooper for four years until I met him at the Peter Rathvon's at dinner with his lovely wife, Dorothy Jordan. Merian did big things in the war and he was overseas all during the fighting. He tells me he's back in harness once again and that he and Jack Ford are leaving for Mexico tomorrow to film "The Fugitive". That's the name they are giving "The Power And The Glory", a book Jack Ford has purchased. Merian and Jack did "Stagecoach" together and have been associated on a number of movie ventures. Local Pastor Will Speak At Opening Of YMCA Campaign

Rev. James A. Richards, S.T.M., pastor of First Methodist Church, will be the principal speaker at the opening dinner of Central YMCA's annual membership campaign, scheduled for Monday at 6:14 p. m. at the "Y."

Robert L. Sisson, general YMCA secretary, said that Edmund S. Burke, president of the board of directors, will also give an address. The dinner will mark the opening of a two-week drive to obtain 399 new and renewed memberships. Miles G. Thompson and James W. Bishop are co-chairmen in charge of the campaign.

Sisson also announced yesterday that three team captains in the womens division have been selected. They are Miss E. Jane Gilchrist, Miss Eva Henry and Mrs. Jeannette Leasure. The division head has not yet been named.

All team chairmen of the women's division and the two men's divisions will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the "Y" to receive their prospect cards.

The first report meeting is scheduled for September 23 and the second for September 26. The closing dinner will be held Monday, September 30.

Baby Is Burned

Patty Daychak, 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Daychak, 118 Oak street, was treated in Memorial Hospital Tuesday at 6:35 p. m. for first degree burns on the head, face and neck. Attaches were told the baby was burned by hot water at her home.

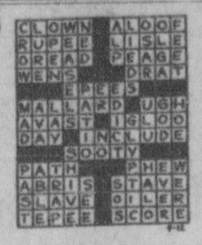

Harold Hilton, Jr., 8, 430 Pine avenue, was treated in Memorial at 5 p. m. for a lacerated finger after he fell at his home.

Bi-Weekly To Daily

SILVER SPRING, Md., Sept. 11 (AP)—The Silver Spring (Md.) Standard announced today it will publish a daily newspaper beginning October 1. The newspaper, published by J. W. and R. C. Musser, now is a bi-weekly.

In Canada men outnumber the women one and one-fourth to one. That one-fourth of a man must feel sort of insignificant.

Reds, Dodgers Play 19 Scoreless Innings

Reiser, Walker Throw Out Redleg Runners At Plate

Vander Meer Whiffs 14 In 15 Frames; Dodgers Use Four Hurlers

BROOKLYN, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, with a chance to cut the St. Louis Cardinals' National League lead to one full game, played 19 innings to a scoreless tie today with the Cincinnati Reds, the longest scoreless tie ever played in the major leagues.

The draw, coupled with the Cardinals' defeat at the hands of the Philadelphia Phillies, reduced St Louis's lead to one and a half games, all on the winning side of the ledger. Both teams are even in the losing side.

Vander Meer Emerges Hero

Johnny Vander Meer, of double no-hit fame, emerged the pitching hero. He went the first 15 innings for the Reds and gave up seven hits and fanned 14. He walked only two. Harry Gumbert finished, holding the Dodgers to one hit in four innings.

The Dodgers used four pitchers. Hal Gregg, the starter, went 10 innings, and he was followed by Hugh Casey, five; Art Herring, three; and Hank Behrman, one.

Twice the Reds missed scoring by a split second when Dodger Outfielders Pete Reiser and Dixie Walker, cut them down at the plate. Walker's game-saving throw came in the 19th. With Dain Clay on second and Lonnie Frey on first as a result of walks, and one out, Bert Haas singled sharply to right. Walker fired a perfect throw to Catcher Bruce Edwards on one bounce, and Clay was caught.

The marathon game beat the previous longevity record for a complete scoreless game by one inning, the Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators having battled through 18 scoreless innings July 16, 1909.

The longest stretch without either side scoring, however, occurred Aug. 1, 1918, when Pittsburgh and the Boston Braves went 20 innings without scoring before the Pirates came up with a couple of runs in the 21st to win, 2-0.

May Play Off Tie

As this was the final Dodger-Red game on the 1946 schedule, a lot of red tape is necessary to allow the two clubs to meet in a playoff of their tie. Ford Frick, president of the National League, said if the Brooklyn club requests it, he would seek permission from the rest of the clubs (a league rule) to allow Cincinnati and Brooklyn to meet Sept. 26, the first open date for both clubs simultaneously.

In the meantime, the Dodgers prepare to meet the Cards in an important three-game series at Ebbets' field starting tomorrow. Box:

CUBS BATTLE BRAVES TO 17-INNING DRAW

BOSTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The third place Chicago Cubs and the fourth spot Boston Braves made their last meeting of 1946 a memorable one today by playing a 3-3 tie that was called at the end of the 17th inning because of darkness.

The game was the longest of the year at Braves Field.

Over the last 12 and one-third innings the Braves obtained but one hit. Emil Kush, second Cub Flinger, gave up that bingle in the 5½ innings he worked and Hank Borowy, who started and lost yesterday, twirled seven frames of hitless ball.

Ross Turns Drug Addict, Will Take Cure In Hospital

Former Boxing Champion And War Hero Gives Up To U.S. Authorities

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — Barney Ross, 37, former holder of two world boxing championships and, as a marine corporal, a hero of the Guadalcanal campaign, voluntarily surrendered to federal authorities today in order to take a drug addiction cure at the U. S. Public Health Hospital at Lexington, Ky.

Ross told reporters that "through no fault of mine" he began taking drugs after being hospitalized at Guadalcanal for shock and malaria.

"A couple of friends of mine," he said, "corpsmen in the service, who meant only good, began giving me treatments for the shock I suffered."

The former fighter, who won numerous military honors for his services on Guadalcanal, was placed under technical arrest on a charge of illegal possession of drugs by Col. Garland Williams, district supervisor of narcotics for the Treasury department.

He then was brought to the office of U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey, who said he would expedite Ross's admission to the Lexington hospital.

McGohey explained that because the hospital is crowded, voluntary submission to arrest was the only means Ross had of gaining admission. He added that Ross would not be arraigned and that no bail would be asked.

"It required a lot of moral courage for a man in Ross' position to have taken the step he has," the government attorney commented.

Ross said:

"About a year after I was discharged from the marines in April, 1944, the awful migraine headaches came back and I had a return of malaria. I resorted to the old treatment (begun by his comardes in the service), but, not being a doctor, I soon began to feel that I was getting into deep water. For that reason I want to be cured.

"Because I have been a champion, I suppose I am an idol of a large number of kids and I don't want to disillusion them by winding up a drug addict."

Ross won the world's lightweight championship in 1933 and the welterweight crown in 1934.

Allegany First And Second Teams Win Scrimmages

Pass, 60-Yard Dash Win Tilts; Four Contests Listed Friday

Allegany high school's football squad engaged in two twenty-minute scrimmages yesterday afternoon at Campobello, the first team emerging victorious over the second by the score of 6-0 while the second team came back to defeat the third eleven by the score of 7-0.

In the opener Quarterback Dick Clower passed to Doray Vernall, right end, from the five-yard line, to give the first team a victory. The touchdown came on the last play of the scrimmage session.

Storey Runs 60 Yards

Gilbert Storey, right halfback, raced 60 yards on a reserve play for the second team's winning touchdown in the final 20-minute session. The touchdown was registered on the second play of this "game." Walter Cecil converted the try for point.

Coach Robert Pence, of the Campers, devoted a greater part of the afternoon in brushing up the squads defensive plays.

Four Games Tomorrow

Moorefield's Yellow Jackets will play Thomas high at Thomas, W. Va., at 2:30 p. m.

Keyser high school will play host to Masontown in Keyser at 1:30 p. m.

Franklin high, of Pendleton county, W. Va., will invade Virgina to play Harrisonburg high school.

Bedford high school's Bisons will launch its Central Football Conference campaign by playing host to Somerset high at 8:30 p. m.

Rider Suffers Injury In Speeplechase Event

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP) — Mrs. G. H. (Pete) Bostwick's grey mare Dimout and Jockey Julius Meyer approached the final obstacle of the 25th Bushwick hurdles handicap an apparent winner this afternoon—then went down in a heap the rider emerging with a broken left collarbone and his mount appearing to suffer a shoulder injury.

After the fall, there was a photo finish in which Bayard Sharp's Lieut. Well, a $14.70 for two shot, just lasted to nose out Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Great Flare for the $6,550 first money in this richest hurdles event of the meeting.

Jockey Meyer, who had kept Dimout in front to the 13th and last obstacle and held a daylight lead at the time of the spill, was taken to Physicians' Hospital for treatment.

Win By Forfeit

Jerry's Confectionery won by forfeit from Don and Bud's Confectionery when the latter team failed to put in its appearance for a Midget Baseball League game yesterday at Stitcher Field. Jerry's second half record is 8 wins and 1 defeat.

An effort will be made to have Jerry's play Mower's Bakery Friday at 5:15 p. m. at Stitcher field.

Ward Beats Stranahan In National Amateur

Smiley Quick, Public Links Champ, Defeats Medalist Skee Riegel On Final Hole Of Match

By GAYLE TALBOT

SPRINGFIELD, N. J., Sept. 11. (AP) —Smiley Quick, an unbelievably little guy about the size of a jeep, stole the show in today's wild first two rounds of match play in the National Amateur Golf Championship at Baltusrol Golf Club.

Not only did Smiley, the National Public Links champion out of Englewood, Calif., preserve his own scalp while those of much better known players were being lifted during the day's hectic scramble, he had knocked out the tournament medalist, Skee Riegel, who shot 69-67 in the qualifying rounds.

First and last, the square little man with the famous hip-waggle carried the big gallery most of the day as he defeated the Canadian Champion, Henry Martell, 2 up in the morning, and then disposed of Riegel on the final hole in the afternoon. On that last crucial hole Smiley laid a pitch-and-run dead from at least 100 feet for a birdie four and a 1-cup win over Riegel.

Difficult as it would be to pick a headliner from a day which saw 48 matches played in two rounds, and the field reduced from 64 hopefuls to a modest 16, the hero appeared to be the 37-year-old hard rock from the coast. He is the same one who carried on the well-publicized feud with Frank Stranahan in their Ceceno semi-final match in the Western Amateur championship at Duluth, Minn.

Through two rounds of qualifying play and two of match, Quick was seven strokes under par for Baltusrol's lower course tonight. He is a hustling, hard-to-beat competitor, and the odds with the club house bookmaker were only 5-to-1 against him, the shortest against any member of the field.

Defending Champ Wins

Missing, among many others tonight, was the name of Stranahan, the young millionaire from Toledo, Ohio. Marvin "Bud" Ward, the defending champion since 1941—there having been no tournaments since then—eliminated the wealthy and likeable youngster, 2 and 1, late today.

It was a titanic struggle, with Ward three up in the first three holes, and Stranahan fighting from there on to catch up. He never quite did against the old champ, who is reported preparing to turn professional. Their match shared the afternoon's gallery with Quick and Riegel.

Veteran observers of the amateur championships said they never saw anything to compare with the number of hot matches played today.

By a freak of chance, the blind draw insisted upon by the authorities, did bring about an unusual number of "naturals" in the first and second rounds today—for instance, that between Stranahan and Ward—and it is true that those interested in attracting large galleries in the latter days of the tournament might have preferred to bring them together somewhat later.

16 Survive Play

The 16 survivors, in addition to the inevitable Quick, and the Defending Champion Bud Ward, were: Capt. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis; Howard Everitt, Oreland, Pa; A. Fred Kammer, Jr., Grosse Point Farms, Mich.; Felice Torza, Wethersfield, Conn.; Maurice McCarthy, Jr., Cincinnati; Arthur Wall, Jr., Clarks Summitt, Pa.; Alpheus Winter Jr., Bridgeport, Conn.; Richard Chapman, the 1940 champion, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; S. E. Bishop, Dedham, Mass.; Charles Line, Edgewater, Colo.; James Frisina, Springfield, Ill.; Robert Willits, Kansas City; Gordon Park, Glen Ridge, N. J. and Robert Sweeny, of London, Eng., and America.

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 11—(AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission reported that prerace saliva tests disclosed that two more horses had been stimulated and were ordered scratched from today's program at Timonium Fair Grounds.

Fourteen horses were given prerace tests yesterday, and positive samples were taken from Mary Morse and Paula Grier, the commission reported.

Athletic Program In County Schools May Be Expanded

New Games May Be Adopted At Principals, Coaches Meeting

A special meeting of principals and athletic coaches of Allegany county public high schools will be held Saturday at 10 a. m., at the Allegany County Board of Education building, Washington street, to discuss the expansion of athletic activities other than those now appearing on the school programs.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, last evening said that among the athletics to be given consideration are volley ball, field ball, basketball and archery for girls, soccer, cross-country and track and field for boys.

Volley ball, field ball and girls' basketball have been out of the picture for some time. Soccer and track staged a comeback last year but all schools were not represented in these sports. Archery and cross-country racing have never appeared on the local school program in the past. A former Allegany teacher, Miss Tenney, held the women's national archery title at one time.

Kopp, believes in the introduction of wrestling into the county school athletic program but admits the schools are not equipped for the sport at the present time.

Detroit's Tigers Hand Bosox Fifth Straight Defeat

Ferriss Yields Five Runs In First As Bangals Notch 7-3 Win

DETROIT, Sept. 11—(AP)—Pasting the American League's leading pitcher, Dave (Boo) Ferriss, for five runs on six hits in the first inning, the Detroit Tigers forced additional postponement of Boston's pennant celebration today by handing the Red Sox their fifth straight defeat, 7 to 3.

Hank Greenberg's three-run homer hastened Ferriss' departure as the sophomore righthander retired after facing 10 Tigers in the first inning and permitting six of them to hit safely.

Although Joe Dobson stopped the Tigers with one hit for the next five innings Bob Klinger served up a home-run pitch to Paul (Dizzy) Trout in the eighth to put Trout's fifth straight victory on ice. The defeat was Ferriss' sixth against 24 wins.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP) — A five-run attack which was too much for Buck Newsom in the sixth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 6 to 1 victory today over the Washington Senators.

The outburst against Bobo included Frank Hayes' fifth homer of the season with two runners on base and a double by Cass Michaels with the bases loaded and all runs scored after two were out. Newsom lasted out the avalanche of five hits, but didn't come out for the seventh.

Carefree Phils Stagger Cards With 9-4 Wallop

Oscar Judd, 36-Year-Old Southpaw, Turns Back St. Louis For Fourth Time

By JACK HAND

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11 (AP)—Ben Chapman's carefree Phillies, loose as ashes and free of pennant worries, staggered the St. Louis Cardinals today with a 9-4 wallop that left the Red Birds gasping for breath on the eve of their all-important invasion of Brooklyn.

Oscar Judd, a 36-year-old southpaw who is making a living of beating the Cards, turned them back for the fourth time this season, scattering nine hits for his 10th win. It was the last meeting of the two clubs who wound up their series with the Birds on top, 14-8.

Manager Eddie Dyer's bullpen corps failed him today after he had lifted starter Johnny Beazley for a pinchhitter with the score tied at 4-all. Before he could derrick Ken Burkhardt in the seventh, the Phils were on their way to a five-run inning, climaxed by Andy Seminick's bases-loaded triple off Alpha Brazle, the third of four St. Louis throwers.

Judd was helpful in more ways than one, collecting two singles and starting the victory rally in the seventh, accually scoring the tie-breaking run. He singled, took second on Skeeter Newsome's sacrifice and came home on Charley Gilbert's single that Terry Moore got his glove on but couldn't hold. When Johnny Wyrostek doubled into center, Dyer called on Brazle who passed Del Ennis inteirtionally and struck out Jim Tabor. Then Seminick stepped up to rattle the boards of the right field wall, 380 feet distant, putting the game in the icebox. Brazle obliged by wild pitching Seminick home, adding insult to injury. Box:

Pirates Win Pair

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates sank the New York Giants into the National league cellar today by winning both ends of a double header 7-6 and 7-5.

The Pirates twice came from behind to win the opener, tying the score at 3-all with a three run outburst in the fifth and overcoming a 4-3 Giant lead with three more in the sixth.

A seventh inning homer by Bill Salkeld, however, proved the margin of victory as the Giants almost pulled the game out of the fire with two tallies in the eighth.

Two big innings against Bill Voiselle, a three run third and a four-run fourth, sewed up the second game for the Bucs. The victory went to Ken Gables although he needed help from

Reds, Dodgers Play 19 Scoreless Innings

Reiser, Walker Throw Out Redleg Runners At Plate

Vander Meer Whiffs 14 In 15 Frames; Dodgers Use Four Hurlers

BROOKLYN, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, with a chance to cut the St. Louis Cardinals' National League lead to one full game, played 19 innings to a scoreless tie today with the Cincinnati Reds, the longest scoreless tie ever played in the major leagues.

The draw, coupled with the Cardinals' defeat at the hands of the Philadelphia Phillies, reduced St Louis's lead to one and a half games, all on the winning side of the ledger. Both teams are even in the losing side.

Vander Meer Emerges Hero

Johnny Vander Meer, of double no-hit fame, emerged the pitching hero. He went the first 15 innings for the Reds and gave up seven hits and fanned 14. He walked only two. Harry Gumbert finished, holding the Dodgers to one hit in four innings.

The Dodgers used four pitchers. Hal Gregg, the starter, went 10 innings, and he was followed by Hugh Casey, five; Art Herring, three; and Hank Behrman, one.

Twice the Reds missed scoring by a split second when Dodger Outfielders Pete Reiser and Dixie Walker, cut them down at the plate. Walker's game-saving throw came in the 19th. With Dain Clay on second and Lonnie Frey on first as a result of walks, and one out, Bert Haas singled sharply to right. Walker fired a perfect throw to Catcher Bruce Edwards on one bounce, and Clay was caught.

The marathon game beat the previous longevity record for a complete scoreless game by one inning, the Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators having battled through 18 scoreless innings July 16, 1909.

The longest stretch without either side scoring, however, occurred Aug. 1, 1918, when Pittsburgh and the Boston Braves went 20 innings without scoring before the Pirates came up with a couple of runs in the 21st to win, 2-0.

May Play Off Tie

As this was the final Dodger-Red game on the 1946 schedule, a lot of red tape is necessary to allow the two clubs to meet in a playoff of their tie. Ford Frick, president of the National League, said if the Brooklyn club requests it, he would seek permission from the rest of the clubs (a league rule) to allow Cincinnati and Brooklyn to meet Sept. 26, the first open date for both clubs simultaneously.

In the meantime, the Dodgers prepare to meet the Cards in an important three-game series at Ebbets' field starting tomorrow. Box:

CUBS BATTLE BRAVES TO 17-INNING DRAW

BOSTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The third place Chicago Cubs and the fourth spot Boston Braves made their last meeting of 1946 a memorable one today by playing a 3-3 tie that was called at the end of the 17th inning because of darkness.

The game was the longest of the year at Braves Field.

Over the last 12 and one-third innings the Braves obtained but one hit. Emil Kush, second Cub Flinger, gave up that bingle in the 5⅓ innings he worked and Hank Borowy, who started and lost yesterday, twirled seven frames of hitless ball.

Former Boxing Champion And War Hero Gives Up To U.S. Authorities

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — Barney Ross, 37, former holder of two world boxing championships and, as a marine corporal, a hero of the Guadalcanal campaign, voluntarily surrendered to federal authorities today in order to take a drug addiction cure at the U. S. Public Health Hospital at Lexington, Ky.

Ross told reporters that "through no fault of mine" he began taking drugs after being hospitalized at Guadalcanal for shock and malaria.

"A couple of friends of mine," he said, "corpsmen in the service, who meant only good, began giving me treatments for the shock I suffered."

The former fighter, who won numerous military honors for his services on Guadalcanal, was placed under technical arrest on a charge of illegal possession of drugs by Col. Garland Williams, district supervisor of narcotics for the Treasury department.

He then was brought to the office of U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey, who said he would expedite Ross's admission to the Lexington hospital.

McGohey explained that because the hospital is crowded, voluntary submission to arrest was the only means Ross had of gaining admission. He added that Ross would not be arraigned and that no bail would be asked.

"It required a lot of moral courage for a man in Ross' position to have taken the step he has," the government attorney commented.

Ross said:

"About a year after I was discharged from the marines in April, 1944, the awful migraine headaches came back and I had a return of malaria. I resorted to the old treatment (begun by his comardes in the service), but, not being a doctor, I soon began to feel that I was getting into deep water. For that reason I want to be cured.

Allegany First And Second Teams Win Scrimmages

Pass, 60-Yard Dash Win Tilts; Four Contests Listed Friday

Allegany high school's football squad engaged in two twenty-minute scrimmages yesterday afternoon at Campobello, the first team emerging victorious over the second by the score of 6-0 while the second team came back to defeat the third eleven by the score of 7-0.

In the opener Quarterback Dick Clower passed to Doray Vernall, right end, from the five-yard line, to give the first team a victory. The touchdown came on the last play of the scrimmage session.

Storey Runs 60 Yards

Gilbert Storey, right halfback, raced 60 yards on a reserve play for the second team's winning touchdown in the final 20-minute session. The touchdown was registered on the second play of this "game." Walter Cecil converted the try for point.

Four Games Tomorrow

Moorefield's Yellow Jackets will play Thomas high at Thomas, W. Va., at 2:30 p. m.

Keyser high school will play host to Masontown in Keyser at 1:30 p. m.

Rider Suffers Injury In Speeplechase Event

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP) — Mrs. G. H. (Pete) Bostwick's grey mare Dimout and Jockey Julius Meyer approached the final obstacle of the 25th Bushwick hurdles handicap an apparent winner this afternoon—then went down in a heap the rider emerging with a broken left collarbone and his mount appearing to suffer a shoulder injury.

After the fall, there was a photo finish in which Bayard Sharp's Lieut. Well, a $14.70 for two shot, just lasted to nose out Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Great Flare for the $6,550 first money in this richest hurdles event of the meeting.

Jockey Meyer, who had kept Dimout in front to the 16th and last obstacle and held a daylight lead at the time of the spill, was taken to Physicians' Hospital for treatment.

Win By Forfeit

Jerry's Confectionery won by forfeit from Don and Bud's Confectionery when the latter team failed to put in its appearance for a Midget Baseball League game yesterday at Stitcher Field. Jerry's second half record is 8 wins and 1 defeat.

An effort will be made to have Jerry's play Mower's Bakery Friday at 5:15 p. m. at Stitcher field.

Ward Beats Stranahan In National Amateur

By GAYLE TALBOT

SPRINGFIELD, N. J., Sept. 11. (AP) —Smiley Quick, an unbelievably little guy about the size of a jeep, stole the show in today's wild first two rounds of match play in the National Amateur Golf Championship at Baltusrol Golf Club.

Not only did Smiley, the National Public Links champion out of Englewood, Calif., preserve his own scalp while those of much better known players were being lifted during the day's hectic scramble, he had knocked out the tournament medalist, Skee Riegel, who shot 69-67 in the qualifying rounds.

First and last, the square little man with the famous hip-waggle carried the big gallery most of the day as he defeated the Canadian Champion, Henry Martell, 2 up in the morning, and then disposed of Riegel on the final hole in the afternoon. On that last crucial hole Smiley laid a pitch-and-run dead from at least 100 feet for a birdie four and a 1-cup win over Riegel.

Difficult as it would be to pick a headliner from a day which saw 48 matches played in two rounds, and the field reduced from 64 hopefuls to a modest 16, the hero appeared to be the 37-year-old hard rock from the coast. He is the same one who carried on the well-publicized feud with Frank Stranahan in their Ceceno semi-final match in the Western Amateur championship at Duluth, Minn.

Through two rounds of qualifying play and two of match, Quick was seven strokes under par for Baltusrol's lower course tonight. He is a hustling, hard-to-beat competitor, and the odds with the club house bookmaker were only 5-to-1 against him, the shortest against any member of the field.

Defending Champ Wins

Missing, among many others tonight, was the name of Stranahan, the young millionaire from Toledo, Ohio. Marvin "Bud" Ward, the defending champion since 1941—there having been no tournaments since then—eliminated the wealthy and likeable youngster, 2 and 1, late today.

It was a titanic struggle, with Ward three up in the first three holes, and Stranahan fighting from there on to catch up. He never quite did against the old champ, who is reported preparing to turn professional. Their match shared the afternoon's gallery with Quick and Riegel.

Veteran observers of the amateur championships said they never saw anything to compare with the number of hot matches played today.

By a freak of chance, the blind draw insisted upon by the authorities, did bring about an unusual number of "naturals" in the first and second rounds today—for instance, that between Stranahan and Ward—and it is true that those interested in attracting large galleries in the latter days of the tournament might have preferred to bring them together somewhat later.

16 Survive Play

The 16 survivors, in addition to the inevitable Quick, and the Defending Champion Bud Ward, were: Capt. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis; Howard Everitt, Oreland, Pa; A. Fred Kammer, Jr., Grosse Point Farms, Mich.; Felice Torza, Wethersfield, Conn.; Maurice McCarthy, Jr. Cincinnati; Arthur Wall, Jr., Clarks Summitt, Pa.; Alpheus Winter Jr., Bridgeport, Conn.; Richard Chapman, the 1940 champion, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; S. E. Bishop, Dedham, Mass.; Charles Line, Edgewater, Colo.; James Frisina, Springfield, Ill.; Robert Willits, Kansas City; Gordon Park, Glen Ridge, N. J. and Robert Sweeny, of London, Eng., and America.

Ten Stimulation Cases Reported At Timonium

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 11—(AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission reported that prerace saliva tests disclosed that two more horses had been stimulated and were ordered scratched from today's program at Timonium Fair Grounds.

Fourteen horses were given prerace tests yesterday, and positive samples were taken from Mary Morse and Paula Grier, the commission reported.

This boosted to 10 the number of stimulation cases reported in the current Timonium 10-day meeting which ends tomorrow.

Chairman George P. Mahoney said that both horses scratched today were ordered off the program last Monday for the same reason.

In the Jersey Handicap he will meet Mighty Story, who best him in the Discovery Handicap last Saturday, and The Dude, who turned him back in the Arlington Classic.

Greene Is Re-Elected

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11. (AP)—The National Boxing Association today re-elected Abe J. Greene, Paterson, N. J., its president for his sixth year and retained Harvey L. Miller, Washington, D. C., as executive secretary and Harry J. Landry of Friar's Point, Miss., as treasurer.

Vice presidents elected were Flamen B. Adae, Miami Beach, Fla., first; Fred J. Saddy, Milwaukee, second; Eddie Bohn, Denver, third; Kenna Clark, Fairmont, W. Va., fourth, Sheldon Clark, Chicago, fifth.

CHAMP WINS—Marvin "Bud" Ward, above, defending champion, flashed the form that won him the title in 1941 when he defeated the highly regarded Frank Stranahan, young millionaire from Toledo, Ohio, in a titanic struggle which marked play yesterday in the National Amateur Golf Tournament at Springfield, N. J. Ward, a 4-1 favorite in the tourney, won, 2 and 1.

Athletic Program In County Schools May Be Expanded

New Games May Be Adopted At Principals, Coaches Meeting

A special meeting of principals and athletic coaches of Allegany county public high schools will be held Saturday at 10 a. m., at the Allegany County Board of Education building, Washington street, to discuss the expansion of athletic activities other than those now appearing on the school programs.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, last evening said that among the athletics to be given consideration are volley ball, field ball, basketball and archery for girls, soccer, cross-country and track and field for boys.

Volley ball, field ball and girls' basketball have been out of the picture for some time. Soccer and track staged a comeback last year but all schools were not represented in these sports. Archery and cross-country racing have never appeared on the local school program in the past. A former Allegany teacher, Miss Tenney, held the women's national archery title at one time.

Kopp, believes in the introduction of wrestling into the county school athletic program but admits the schools are not equipped for the sport at the present time.

Detroit's Tigers Hand Bosox Fifth Straight Defeat

Ferriss Yields Five Runs In First As Bangals Notch 7-3 Win

DETROIT, Sept. 11—(AP)—Pasting the American League's leading pitcher, Dave (Boo) Ferriss, for five runs on six hits in the first inning, the Detroit Tigers forced additional postponement of Boston's pennant celebration today by handing the Red Sox their fifth straight defeat, 7 to 3.

Hank Greenberg's three-run homer hastened Ferriss' departure as the sophomore righthander retired after facing 10 Tigers in the first inning and permitting six of them to hit safely.

Although Joe Dobson stopped the Tigers with one hit for the next five innings Bob Klinger served up a home-run pitch to Paul (Dizzy) Trout in the eighth to put Trout's fifth straight victory on ice. The defeat was Ferriss' sixth against 24 wins.

Allie Reynolds went the route for Cleveland and scattered nine Yankee hits, including Charley Keller's 27th round tripper of the season in the sixth frame with none on. Box:

CHISOX BEAT NEWSOM

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP) — A five-run attack which was too much for Buck Newsom in the sixth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 6 to 1 victory today over the Washington Senators.

The outburst against Bobo included Frank Hayes' fifth homer of the season with two runners on base and a double by Cass Michaels with the bases loaded and all runs scored after two were out. Newsom lasted out the avalanche of five hits, but didn't come out for the seventh.

Oscar Judd, 36-Year-Old Southpaw, Turns Back St. Louis For Fourth Time

By JACK HAND

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11 (AP)—Ben Chapmen's carefree Phillies, loose as ashes and free of pennant worries, staggered the St. Louis Cardinals today with a 9-4 wallop that left the Red Birds gasping for breath on the eve of their all-important invasion of Brooklyn.

Oscar Judd, a 36-year-old southpaw who is making a living of beating the Cards, turned them back for the fourth time this season, scattering nine hits for his 10th win. It was the last meeting of the two clubs who wound up their series with the Birds on top, 14-8.

Manager Eddie Dyer's bullpen corps failed him today after he had lifted starter Johnny Beazley for a pinchhitter with the score tied at 4-all. Before he could derrick Ken Burkhardt in the seventh, the Phils were on their way to a five-run inning, climaxed by Andy Seminick's bases-loaded triple off Alpha Brazle, the third of four St. Louis throwers.

Judd was helpful in more ways than one, collecting two singles and starting the victory rally in the seventh, accually scoring the ice-breaking run. He singled, took second on Skeeter Newsome's sacrifice and came home on Charley Gilbert's single that Terry Moore got his glove on but couldn't hold. When Johnny Wyrostek doubled into center, Dyer called on Brazle who passed Del Ennis inteirtionally and struck out Jim Tabor. Then Seminick stepped up to rattle the boards of the right field wall, 380 feet distant, putting the game in the icebox. Brazle obliged by wild pitching Seminick home, adding insult to injury. Box:

Pirates Win Pair

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates sank the New York Giants into the National league cellar today by winning both ends of a double header 7-6 and 7-5.

The Pirates twice came from behind to win the opener, tying the score at 3-all with a three run outburst in the fifth and overcoming a 4-3 Giant lead with three more in the sixth.

A seventh inning homer by Bill Salkeld, however, proved the margin of victory as the Giants almost pulled the game out of the fire with two tallies in the eighth.

Two big innings against Bill Voiselle, a three run third and a four-run fourth, sewed up the second game for the Bucs. The victory went to Ken Gables although he needed help from Ken Heintzelman. Heintzelman was also the first game starter, but Johnny Lanning, who relieved him in the fifth, was the winner. Box:

Beard Is Among Six Good Passers On Gobbler Squad

Tom Burns Of Hyndman Competes For Center Post At V.P.I.

By ROBERT MOORE

BLACKSBURG, Va., Sept. 11—(AP)—Don't be too surprised if the Virginia Tech Gobblers, who look like an outfit capable of doing its best traveling on the ground, turn up with one of the most effective aerial games in the Southern Conference this year.

That doesn't mean that Head Coach Jimmy Kitts has three or four guys hanging around, any one of whom might be tagged with the nickname "The Arm." He doesn't have, but the Gobblers do have four fair right-handed passers in Jack Gallagher, of Rosalle Park, N. J.; Dick Deshazo, and Harry Walton, of Roanoke, Va., and Ray Beasley, of Richmond, Va., who can throw that pigskin, plus a couple of southpaws in Ralph Beard, of Cumberland, Md., and C. C. Cullom, of Valley Stream, Long Island.

"Of course," Kitts said, "we'll mix our offense, but I'd like to have a good throwing team. Passing is a good way to gain yardage, and you get there faster."

It has already been said that the Gobblers will have one of the best forward walls in the 16-team conference although this Tech line is shy on ends.

Up front, Kitts has two of the fastest tackles in the league in Johnny Maskas, of Monessen, Pa., and Jack Ittner, of Richmond, Va., both of whom shatter the 200-pound mark on the scales, in addition to Frank Ballard, of Oxford, N. C., and Ross Orr, of Chatham Hill, Va., given honorable mention on last year's all-America team.

Hyndman Boy Is Center

Apparently, the Gobblers have no center problems because Joe Hoffman, of Richmond, Va., is regarded as one of the Conference's best, and competing with him are Tom Burns, of Hyndman, Pa., and Pat Dinardo, of Bluefield, Va.

Experience may be lacking at the flanks, but the Tech mentor has at least four prospects capable of holding their own. One of them is Elmer Wilson, of Hampton, Va., captain and one of five seniors on the 132-man squad. Scrapping for the other berth are C. K. Johnson, of Alexandria, Va., and Gerry Zekert, of Norfolk, Va.

Kitts says he has the best backfield prospects Tech has boasted in years. Those passers, of course, will see a lot of action as will Charlie Forbes, of Hilton Village, Va., at Wingback; Ted Johnson, of Narrows, Va., and Maynard Bruce of Hinton, W. Va., at the blocking back, and Bobby Smith, of Charlottesville, Va., Dave Thomas, of Bristol, Va., and Floyd Bowles of Richmond, Va., at the fullback post.

Gallagher, Deshazo and Walton are all tailbacks and about equal ones at that, Collum and Beard play at the wing, and Beasley is a fullback.

McCoy May Surprise

However, the surprise package of the Gobblers may be Dick McCoy, the high school sensation from Charleston, W. Va., who won just about every all-star honor in the book in West Virginia last year, including that of being named the most valuable high school player in the state for 1945. McCoy has the inside track on that blocking back position in the Tech backfield.

Tech's schedule.

October 5—Virginia at Roanoke, Va.
October 12—William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.

Notre Dame Has 42 Lettermen

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 11—(AP)—Loaded with 42 lettermen, Notre Dame is expected to make an exceptionally strong bid for the mythical national football championship this season.

With the center, quarterback and fullback positions furnishing high-caliber blocking, ball handling and passing, and power, the Irish have the talent to develop fully the T formation.

Coach Frank Leahy, returning after two years in the Navy, is drilling a squad of 80 for the season's opener at Illinois, Sept. 28.

If the Irish can get by Illinois, boomed as a chief Western Conference contender, they will have earned recognition as a leading candidate for national honors—a reputation they will have to uphold against Pittsburgh, Purdue, Iowa, Navy, Army, Northwestern, Tulane and in the closing game of their rugged schedule, at home, against Southern California, Nov. 30.

In the stockpile of 42 letter winners are 16 holdovers from last year, six from 1944, 11 from Leahy's once-beaten national champions of 1943 and nine from 1942. The 1943 group includes Johnny Lujack, who took over quarterback duties when Angelo Bertelli left for the service; end Paul Limont and tackle Ziggy Czarobski.

Halfback Bob Kelly, a fine climax runner who starred in 1943 and 1944, will be more than two weeks late reporting because of his summer school studies at DePaul in Chicago.

Morrison Says Job Of Grid Coach Easier

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11—(AP)—With returning veterans sharpening the desire to win in younger college players, the job of the football coach of today "is somewhat easier than before the war," says Ray Morrison, Temple University mentor.

"The services put a great emphasis on winning," he explained, "and the veterans want to win whether they're fighting a war, playing football or playing pinochle."

Pointing out that some of the ex-GIs reporting for grid practice at Temple are approaching 30, Morrison, who as coach and player has been around gridsters for more than a generation, said he could see no psychological problems arising from mixed squads of fuzz-cheeked freshmen and men with as many as four and five years of military experience behind them.

Actually, he asserted, in such mixed squads the players themselves take off shoulders of coaches, a good bit of the burden of developing manly qualities.

"She likes my cheek... since I switched to PAL HOLLOW GROUND"

Nobody can look or feel well-groomed without a smooth, clean-shaven face. And now, its so easy—since Pal came along. Pal zings cleanly through even the toughest whiskers, effortlessly. The reason:

Usual safety razor blades are ground like a pocket knife. Pal Blades are different—they're Leather Stropped and Hollow Ground just like a barber's razor.

Result: Pal Blades are flexible in your razor—follow facial contours effortlessly. Your shave is cool, quick, no "bearing down." And delicate edges last longer, too. That's why millions call it the

Beard Is Among Six Good Passers On Gobbler Squad

Tom Burns Of Hyndman Competes For Center Post At V.P.I.

By ROBERT MOORE

BLACKSBURG, Va., Sept. 11—(AP)—Don't be too surprised if the Virginia Tech Gobblers, who look like an outfit capable of doing its best traveling on the ground, turn up with one of the most effective aerial games in the Southern Conference this year.

That doesn't mean that Head Coach Jimmy Kitts has three or four guys hanging around, any one of whom might be tagged with the nickname "The Arm." He doesn't have, but the Gobblers do have four fair right-handed passers in Jack Gallagher, of Rosalle Park, N. J.; Dick Deshazo, and Harry Walton, of Roanoke, Va., and Ray Beasley, of Richmond, Va., who can throw that pigskin, plus a couple of southpaws in Ralph Beard, of Cumberland, Md., and C. C. Cullom, of Valley Stream, Long Island.

"Of course," Kitts said, "we'll mix our offense, but I'd like to have a good throwing team. Passing is a good way to gain yardage, and you get there faster."

It has already been said that the Gobblers will have one of the best forward walls in the 16-team conference although this Tech line is shy on ends.

Up front, Kitts has two of the fastest tackles in the league in Johnny Maskas, of Monessen, Pa., and Jack Ittner, of Richmond, Va., both of whom shatter the 200-pound mark on the scales, in addition to Frank Ballard, of Oxford, N. C., and Ross Orr, of Chatham Hill, Va., given honorable mention on last year's all-America team.

Hyndman Boy Is Center

Apparently, the Gobblers have no center problems because Joe Hoffman, of Richmond, Va., is regarded as one of the Conference's best, and competing with him are Tom Burns, of Hyndman, Pa., and Pat Dinardo, of Bluefield, Va.

Experience may be lacking at the flanks, but the Tech mentor has at least four prospects capable of holding their own. One of them is Elmer Wilson, of Hampton, Va., captain and one of five seniors on the 132-man squad. Scrapping for the other berth are C. K. Johnson, of Alexandria, Va., and Gerry Zekert, of Norfolk, Va.

Kitts says he has the best backfield prospects Tech has boasted in years. Those passers, of course, will see a lot of action as will Charlie Forbes, of Hilton Village, Va., at Wingback; Ted Johnson, of Narrows, Va., and Maynard Bruce of Hinton, W. Va., at the blocking back, and Bobby Smith, of Charlottesville, Va., Dave Thomas, of Bristol, Va., and Floyd Bowles of Richmond, Va., at the fullback post.

Gallagher, Deshazo and Walton are all tailbacks and about equal ones at that, Collum and Beard play at the wing, and Beasley is a fullback.

McCoy May Surprise

However, the surprise package of the Gobblers may be Dick McCoy, the high school sensation from Charleston, W. Va., who won just about every all-star honor in the book in West Virginia last year, including that of being named the most valuable high school player in the state for 1945. McCoy has the inside track on that blocking back position in the Tech backfield.

Tech's schedule.

Notre Dame Has 42 Lettermen

SOUTH BENL, Ind., Sept. 11—(AP)—Loaded with 42 lettermen, Notre Dame is expected to make an exceptionally strong bid for the mythical national football championship this season.

With the center, quarterback and fullback positions furnishing high-caliber blocking, ball handling and passing, and power, the Irish have the talent to develop fully the T formation.

If the Irish can get by Illinois, boomed as a chief Western Conference contender, they will have earned recognition as a leading candidate for national honors—a reputation they will have to uphold against Pittsburgh, Purdue, Iowa, Navy, Army, Northwestern, Tulane and in the closing game of their rugged schedule, at home, against Southern California, Nov. 30.

In the stockpile of 42 letter winners are 16 holdovers from last year, six from 1944, 11 from Leahy's once-beaten national champions of 1943 and nine from 1942. The 1943 group includes Johnny Lujack, who took over quarterback duties when Angelo Bertelli left for the service; end Paul Limont and tackle Ziggy Czarobski.

Halfback Bob Kelly, a fine climax runner who starred in 1943 and 1944, will be more than two weeks late reporting because of his summer school studies at DePaul in Chicago.

Morrison Says Job Of Grid Coach Easier

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11—(AP)—With returning veterans sharpening the desire to win in younger college players, the job of the football coach of today "is somewhat easier than before the war," says Ray Morrison, Temple University mentor.

"The services put a great emphasis on winning," he explained, "and the veterans want to win whether they're fighting a war, playing football or playing pinochle."

Pointing out that some of the ex-GIs reporting for grid practice at Temple are approaching 30, Morrison, who as coach and player has been around gridsters for more than a generation, said he could see no psychological problems arising from mixed squads of fuzz-cheeked freshmen and men with as many as four and five years of military experience behind them.

Actually, he asserted, in such mixed squads the players themselves take off shoulders of coaches, a good bit of the burden of developing manly qualities.

New Weekly Series Dealing With Crime On Radio Program

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — A new weekly series, which in speech and drama is to deal with Crime, Causes and Prevention, opens on MBS at 9:15 Thursday night. The first broadcast, originally announced for an hour, will be 45 minutes instead because a 15-minute spot ahead of it has since been sold to a sponsor. Subsequent programs will be half an hour.

Authorities on crime prevention will provide a 15-minute discussion period, followed by a drama and then a roundtable on the case depicted.

Magazine drama, on Sunday afternoons last year, will switch to a night time again on CBS when it returns at 9 o'clock. Opening guest will be Olivia de Haviland in "The Farmer Takes a Wife." The program has been in vacation since July 14.

In the way of sports, the national pacing derby on Long Island will be word-displayed by ABC at 10:15. Joe Hassel does it, also Jack O'Hara.

It turns out that the 15-minute spot at 9 on MBS, heretofore mentioned, is being devoted to a football roundup by Eddie Dooley. Actually it started last week, but MBS did not get around to announcing it until the series was almost on the air. In fact, the mailed "advance" did not arrive until the day after the "premiere."

America's Town meeting, ABC, 7:30, with the help of Wilson Wyatt, housing administration, and Peter Drimm, president of the N. Y. State Chamber of Commerce, is to ask an answer to "Should commercial building be Curtailed for Veterans Housing?". . . The fourth and last part of the reading of the story of the Hiroshima bombing is to go on ABC at 8:30.

New Weekly Series Dealing With Crime On Radio Program

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — A new weekly series, which in speech and drama is to deal with Crime, Causes and Prevention, opens on MBS at 9:15 Thursday night. The first broadcast, originally announced for an hour, will be 45 minutes instead because a 15-minute spot ahead of it has since been sold to a sponsor. Subsequent programs will be half an hour.

Authorities on crime prevention will provide a 15-minute discussion period, followed by a drama and then a roundtable on the case depicted.

Magazine drama, on Sunday afternoons last year, will switch to a night time again on CBS when it returns at 9 o'clock. Opening guest will be Olivia de Haviland in "The Farmer Takes a Wife." The program has been in vacation since July 14.

In the way of sports, the national pacing derby on Long Island will be word-displayed by ABC at 10:15. Joe Hassel does it, also Jack O'Hara.

It turns out that the 15-minute spot at 9 on MBS, heretofore mentioned, is being devoted to a football roundup by Eddie Dooley. Actually it started last week, but MBS did not get around to announcing it until the series was almost on the air. In fact, the mailed "advance" did not arrive until the day after the "premiere."

America's Town meeting, ABC, 7:30, with the help of Wilson Wyatt, housing administration, and Peter Drimm, president of the N. Y. State Chamber of Commerce, is to ask an answer to "Should commercial building be Curtailed for Veterans Housing?". . . The fourth and last part of the reading of the story of the Hiroshima bombing is to go on ABC at 8:30.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John B. Hamilton, who died three years ago today, Sept. 12, 1943.

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word for each

That loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trail to part
From one so good as you.

Nor will you ever be,
As Long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by, we miss you more,

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John B. Hamilton, who died three years ago today, Sept. 12, 1943.

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart,
That loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trail to part
From one so good as you.

You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As Long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by, we miss you more,

MOTHER AND FATHER,

RANKIN TO ASK DEATH FOR McCAULEY

Slayer Of Two Officers Signs Confession; Not Sorry For Killing Men

Went To Harding Home To Eat, Change Clothes, Get Blanket And Fifth Of Whiskey Tuesday Night A Short Time Before He Was Captured By Two World War 2 Vets

By A. TRAGO BRUST, JR.

Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. Rankin of Mineral County said last night he will ask for the death penalty when Mark McCauley, confessed slayer of two West Virginia police officers at Emoryville, W. Va., Monday afternoon, is brought to trial next month.

Cpl. W. E. Murphy, of the West Virginia State Police, at Clarksburg, said McCauley freely admitted in his confession, one and a half typewritten pages in length, that he shot and killed Sgt. Joseph P. Horne of the State Police and Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter of Tucker County, and wounded the sheriff's son, Donald Hovater, 19.

McCauley, 35, was captured by two ex-GIs Tuesday night within 150 yards of the James Harding home at Emoryville where the shootings occurred.

Held In Special Cell

McCauley, held in a special cell with chains bolstering the lock of the cell door in the fooiproof Clarksburg jail, has expressed no regrets at killing the state officer and the sheriff or. shooting the boy, Cpl. Murphy reported.

He added that McCauley feels that he was "justified" in shooting the officers. "He doesn't feel a bit bad about killing either of them or shooting the boy," Cpl. Murphy said.

In his confession, taken at State Police headquarters in Clarksburg at 5 o'clock yesterday morning after the trip from Emoryville, McCauley declared that a bloodhound pressed into service Tuesday morning "kept him on the jump," according to Col. Murphy.

McCauley also disclosed in his statement that he was at the James Harding home to eat and change his shirt, and also to pick up a blanket and a fifth of whiskey Tuesday night a short time before he was captured.

He went to the house, he said, after observing that no one was around and after leaving circled through the woods and had just reached the road when he was spotted by Andrew Landis, ex-GI from McCoole who is now a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman, and Owen Hughes, another ex-GI from Fort Ashby, W. Va., who is now a West Virginia conservation officer.

Was Not Searched

The killer told officers he had "made up his mind he was not going to be arrested again by anybody," Cpl. Murphy said. He added that Sgt. Horne did not search him after his arrest at Allegheny Front on the truck stealing charge because they were friends.

When Sgt. Horne and McCauley returned to the Harding home in Emoryville, McCauley said he saw Sheriff Hovatter and his son in the yard.

He and Sgt. Horne went around the side of the house to the back, McCauley related in his statement, and the sheriff followed.

Sgt. Horne asked him about the keys to the truck and McCauley said he felt his rights were being infringed upon.

Sgt. Horne said he thought McCauley had the keys in his pocket and that they were not in the house, according to the confession, and when the officer started to search him for the keys, McCauley said he thought Sgt. Horne knew he had the gun, which he was carrying in his belt to the left center of his stomach.

Tells Of Shooting

Asserting that he thought Sgt. Horne pulled his revolver, McCauley said he whipped his pistol from his belt and shot the officer twice.

At that moment Sheriff Hovatter entered the door and McCauley said he thought the sheriff reached for his revolver. McCauley said he fired one shot at the sheriff before the latter could bring his gun into action.

Then, he said, he ran upstairs to change his clothes. Looking out an upstairs window, McCauley said he saw a youth, not knowing he was the sheriff's son, and Mrs. Helen Harding, who was visiting at her brother James's home, helping the mortally wounded sheriff.

The youth, he said, grabbed the sheriff's pistol and fired at him at the upstairs window. With that, McCauley said, he grabbed a shotgun and shot young Hovatter. Then, he said, he reloaded his guns and ran to the woods.

Police pointed out that McCauley's story at this point differs with that told by Donald Hovatter, who related to officers that McCauley fired at him from the upstairs window and that he did not shoot back until McCauley ran for the woods.

Tuesday morning, after the bloodhound had circled within 100 feet of him, McCauley said he continued

Hambleton Navy Veteran Kills Man And Self

Norman Lee Hartley, 20, Commits Suicide After Shooting In Jere

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Sept. 11 — The body of Norman Lee Hartley, 20-year-old Hambleton Navy veteran, who Monongalia County Sheriff Charles Whiston said shot and killed himself Tuesday at 10:15 a. m. after killing William Howard, 20, a carpenter, in the small mining town of Jere, near Morgantown, arrived here tonight and was taken to the Greenleaf Funeral Home.

Hartley's mother, Mrs. Leoma Carr Brooks, Hambleton, was notified by telegram last night of her son's death. The father, James Lee Hartley, was killed in a mining accident at Cass 19 years ago.

According to Sheriff Whiston, young Hartley, who was discharged from the Navy six months ago after serving since 1942, came to Jere after his discharge and worked for the Davis-Wilson Coal Company. He boarded at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Carr, where the double shooting occurred.

The Carrs' daughter, Mrs. Lucille Howard, was living at her parents' home with her month-old son while her husband, William, was in Europe with the Army. The latter returned two months ago and began working in Jere as a carpenter.

Tuesday morning, while Mr. and Mrs. Carr and their two sons were sitting on the front porch, Hartley entered the house by the back and went upstairs to the room where Mr. and Mrs. Howard were sleeping, the sheriff said.

The family heard three or four shots, after which Mrs. Howard screamed and ran downstairs. Then two more shots were heard, Sheriff Whiston said.

The bodies of the two men were found lying on the floor in a second-floor bedroom. The sheriff reported he found three bullet holes in Howard's back, and that two of the bullets had gone entirely through the body.

Hartley had shot himself through the forehead and chest, Sheriff Whiston said, adding that the bullets were from a .38 revolver. Hartley was wearing a belt with a holster and ammunition was in his pocket when his body was found, the sheriff added.

A native of Cass, Hartley attended grade school in Hambleton and moved to Baltimore in 1942 with his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tolman Summerfield, who are now living in Hambleton. A few months after that time, he entered the Navy.

Besides his mother and grandparents, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Cathryn McDonald, wife of Mac McDonald, dispatcher for the Western Maryland Railway at Thomas.

Howard is survived, besides his widow and young son, William Douglas, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brady Howard, Mt. Morris, Pa.; four sisters, Mrs. Lenora Luzader, Uffington; Mrs. Elizabeth Donley, Bald Hill, Pa.; Mrs. Evelyn See, Jefferson, Pa., and Miss Ruth Howard, Mt. Morris; and two brothers, Irvine and Linsley, both of Mt. Morris.

War Pictures Displayed At Cumberland Library

The pictures include shots that Brett made while serving with the Navy in the Pacific theater. Varied still pictures of the ships in convoy, of men taking recreation periods and a number of films of the damage done in Manila, and Corregidor are included in the display.

Inquest Into Harvey Death Is Cancelled

An inquest into the death of Melvin Harvey, 37, who was found dead in bed Monday at the home of his father, L. C. Harvey, in Shaw, W. Va., was cancelled after a physician's report showed that he died of acute alcoholism, Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, said last night.

A laceration on the back of Harvey's head aroused the suspicion of officers, but Rankin said the physician's examination showed the wound to be superficial and not the cause of death.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon with burial in the IOOF cemetery, Nethken Hill, W. Va.

GOING TO SCHOOL—The picture above, taken at the second session yesterday of the four-day Times-News Cooking School now being conducted at the Strand Theatre, is a good illustration of the enthusiastic response which the school is receiving from Cumberland housewives. Attendance yesterday was 1,385, but an increase to 1,400 today and 1,500 for the final session tomorrow is expected. Grand prizes will be awarded at the closing session.

Teamsters Union Will Picket All Highways Here

Action, Amounting To General Strike, Taken To Force Settlement

Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, will place pickets on all highways leading into this city today in an attempt to halt all truck shipments in and out of this city, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the local, said yesterday.

The union official said the action, which virtually amounts to a general strike, is intended to force a settlement with seven trucking companies of this city which have been strikebound since September 2. No progress has been made on the contract dispute with the firms employing about 85 drivers, Stutzman said.

Stutzman said the action will include truck deliveries for the A. and P. and American stores which deliver goods here through haulers covered by contracts.

For the time being, Stutzman said, we are going to allow companies now under contract with Local 453 to continue operations. The Kenneweg and C. D. Kenny Wholesale grocery stores, he added, will not be affected nor will beer distributors who are negotiating with the union.

The settlement of the Hagerstown area strike, he added, has no bearing on the local situation since rates paid there have always been below local rates. He explained that city drivers here receive 80 cents an hour and are demanding $1. Hagerstown drivers, he explained settled for 82 cents.

The National Labor Relations Board, Stutzman said, has notified him that it is attempting to settle the dispute with the Celanese Corporation of America here. Commissioner Robertson, he added, has been assigned to the case and is negotiating with Edward R. Allan, personnel manager of the Amcelle plant.

Local 453 early this week withheld plans for picketing the Celanese plant in an effort to secure a contract covering 15 truck drivers employed here.

Residents Notified Of Hearing Monday On Alley Closing

Notices have been served on 21 property owners in the vicinity of the Schmidt Baking Company at the corner of Frederick street and Pearre avenue that a commission appointed by city ordinance will meet "on the ground" at a disputed alley in the rear of the baking plant Monday at 4 p. m.

At that time the commission will hear complaints of residents regarding the closing of the alley, and will ascertain the amount of damages or benefits which will be caused to property holders in the vicinity, according to Samuel E. Griminger, city clerk.

The ordinance appointing the three-man commission was passed by the Mayor and City Council August 19, and provided for the closing of an alley "lying between the easterly side of Lot 21 and in the rear of Lots 33, 34, 35, 36 and 37 in Bedford Place Addition, and part of the alley in the rear of Lot 21."

Another provision of the measure states that the commission must give a report within 15 days after Monday's "on the ground" hearing to the Mayor and Council, and that any resident not agreeing with the findings may take an appeal to Circuit Court.

A letter from William C. Walsh, attorney for the baking company, which was filed with the ordinance, provides that the company will dedicate a piece of land for public use as an alley in the event that the present alley is closed.

Some residents of the area have opposed closing of the alley as well as granting the company a permit for expansion, and a court test has been indicated.

Members of the commission which will meet Monday are Carl F. Schmutz, Robert E. Barnard and C. Glenn Watson.

Safety Council To Meet

The Western Maryland Safety Council will discuss traffic problems in Cumberland at a meeting in City Hall Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock tonight, according to Lynn C. Walker, acting chairman. He said committees probably will be named to "do something definite" about the traffic problem.

Centre Street Methodists Plan 155th Anniversary Observance

Dinner, Youth Rally Will Feature Week's Events November 3-10

The congregation of Centre Street Methodist Church will hold a week's celebration from November 3 to 10 in observance of the 155th anniversary of the founding of the church, the 75th anniversary of the building of the present sanctuary, and the 20th anniversary of the erection of the Educational Building, an addition to the main building.

He said that Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, chaplain of the United States Senate and pastor of Foundry Methodist Church in Washington, has been invited to give the principal address at the closing evening service Sunday, November 10.

Dinner Planned

One of the principal events will be a "church family dinner" to be held Tuesday, November 5, at 6:30 p. m. in the social hall. Honor guests will include the four living former pastors of the church, as well as former members who are engaged in religious work.

The four pastors are Dr. Howard E. Thompson, now a minister in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who served here when the Educational Building was added to the church 20 years ago; Dr. Harry Evaul, pastor of Memorial Methodist Church, Hyattsville; Dr. Benjamin W. Meeks, pastor of Howard Park Methodist Church, Baltimore; and Dr. Vernon N. Ridgely, Baltimore, pastor of Grace-Roland Park Methodist Church.

Other former members who will be invited to attend are Dr. S. Paul Schilling, a member of the faculty of Westminster Theological School, Westminster; Rev. Robert H. Parker, pastor of Northwood Methodist Church, Baltimore; Rev. Joseph W. Young, pastor of Fairview Avenue Methodist Church here; Miss Grace Steiner, president of the Methodist Deaconess Board, with headquarters in New York City; and the Misses Georgeanna Pearce and Winifred Santrock, now in their second year at the Methodist Training College in Kansas City, Mo.

Youth Rally Set

Youth fellowship groups from 27 Methodist churches in the Cumberland area will be invited to attend a youth rally Wednesday, November 6, at 7:30 p. m. The principal speaker will be Dr. Michael's son, Rev. Marion S. Michael, pastor of Marvin Memorial Methodist Church, Silver Spring. Rev. Mr. Michael, who has been in the Methodist ministry for five years, is a graduate of Boston University School of Theology.

Thursday, November 7, will be observed as community night, when pastors and members of other Cumberland churches will be guests of the Centre Street Methodist congregation.

On the opening Sunday, November 3, at 11 a. m., the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated. At the evening service the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Stanton Gunter, with Mrs. Kenneth F. Beck as organist, will present a special program.

At the morning service on Sunday, November 10, a special offering will be taken, marking Joash Chest Day.

Debt Is Reduced

In the four years of Dr. Michael's service here, the church's debt has been reduced from $42,500 to $18,000, and extensive improvements, totaling approximately $5,000, have been made during the past six months. These include redecoration of the sanctuary, vestibules and Sunday School rooms, and installing fluorescent lighting in the latter rooms.

The origin of the local church goes back to 1782, when the Methodist Church was known as the Allegany Circuit. In 1783 John Cooper was named pastor, and in 1787 the church was organized, the first Methodist church in Cumberland.

In 1799 a frame church was built on the corner of Fayette and Smallwood streets, and in 1816 a log church 40 by 50 feet, with a gallery on three sides, was built on North Centre street at the site of the present building. In 1837 and 1848 still larger structures were erected there to accommodate the growing congregation, and in 1871 the present sanctuary was constructed.

The congregation now numbers 1,893 persons. That total will be materially increased Sunday, when a large group of new members will be taken into the church, Dr. Michael said.

George Rice is president of the board of trustees, and Roy W. Eves is chairman of the finance committee. Harry B. Simpson is lay delegate to the annual conference, and Mrs. James Weir Kirk is president of the WSCS of the church. Miss Pearl Piper is church secretary and Mrs. Louise Cramer is church hostess and visitor.

Frostburg College Enrollment Will Set New Record

Special Buses Will Take Cumberland Students To Morning Classes

Frostburg State Teachers College will open for the 1946-47 term this morning with an enrollment of 225 students, the largest in the college's history, Miss Lillian Compton, president, said last night.

In announcing the enrollment, Miss Compton said, she has secured five new instructors for the term, and will have a "complete and very competent faculty" for the current year. The college staff was filled only yesterday, Miss Compton said, with the acceptance of Miss C. E. Huntley, for the science department, and Sam Winterson Ettleson, Philadelphia, for socialogy. Miss Huntley comes from New York State Teachers College.

Only 93 Students Last Year

In comparing the enrollment, the president said, there were only 93 students enrolled at the close of the 1945-46 term, and 130 took the summer course offered this year. The new enrollment represents an increase of 132 students.

The college will offer a junior college course, Miss Compton said, and credits from the school are transferrable to all four years colleges. In addition the Bachelor of Science degree is awarded at the Frostburg college for the completion of four years' work.

Other new members of the staff include, David A. Warner, physical education, Leo Jason, romance languages, and Dr. Helen Taylor, mathematics. The faculty totals 22 instructors, Miss Compton said.

Of the 132 new enrollees, Mrs. Compton said there are approximately 75 veterans of World War II, who have recently been discharged and are taking advantage of the GI Bill of Rights.

Busy Registration Day

She termed yesterday one of the busiest registration days ever conducted at the school, but added last night that she is "pleased" with the quality of the new faculty, all of which will be on hand for the opening of school this morning.

A new service is being added for the convenience of Cumberland students attending the college, Miss Compton said, with a special school bus scheduled to leave from Memorial Hospital Nurses home this morning at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Compton said two buses will run daily, one leaving at 7:30 to carry students for the 8 o'clock classes and one leaving at 8:30 to carry students for the 9 o'clock classes. The buses will leave from in front of the Nurses home, stopping at the Y.M.C.A., Clayton's Drug store, on Henderson avenue, and in LaVale.

Students will be permitted to board the buses today without tickets, Miss Compton said because the announcement is so late, but tickets will be issued at the college. Both buses will run on all school days, she added.

MAYOR POST WILL HEAR ILGWU VIEWS ON GARMENT STRIKE

The position of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in connection with the strike which began at the Cumberland Undergarment Company July 18 will be explained to Mayor Thomas S. Post at a conference in city hall this morning, William Kaufman, Baltimore, ILGWU field representative, said last night.

Kaufman said he and a committee of officially recognized members of Local 434, ILGWU, merely wish to make clear the position the union is taking in the dispute, and added the ILGWU is not asking any outside agency to assist in the settlement of the problem since, he declared, going back to work is a question the membership must decide.

The ILGWU official was one of three international representatives who attended a meeting called jointly last Wednesday by the ILGWU and the Allegany Trades Council for a settlement of the strike.

The employes of the Gay street factory voted decisively to continue the strike and to reject an ILGWU settlement for the resumption of work on the basis of wage increases negotiated by the international.

Kaufman said last night he hopes for an early settlement of the problem at the local plant.

Accident Victim Sues Gas Firm And Employe

George W. Keller Asks $7,500 Damages As Result Of Injuries

Suit for $7,500 damages was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by George W. Keller, Cumberland, against the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and Brace E. Lee, an employe, charging that Lee's careless driving resulted in injury to Keller when he was struck by the car on June 1.

Keller, through his attorney, Estel C. Kelley, said he was crossing Bedford street at the intersection with North Centre street when he was struck by the gas firm's car Lee was driving.

Knocked To Street

Keller said he was knocked to the street, was unconscious for some time and that several ribs were broken. He said he also suffered cuts, bruises and abrasions of the left leg and bruises about the left hip and left portion of his back.

Citing expenses incurred for treatment as a result of his injuries, Keller said he is now able to only partially perform duties his work requires.

Suit by titling was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Loar W. Loar, Lonaconing, against the Western Maryland Railway. Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the plaintiffs, said he will ask damages of $1,000.

Ryan said the Loar property at Lonaconing was damaged when debris, rubbish and track ballast was thrown on it by the railroad.

Wife Sues Husband

Another suit for $500 damages was filed by Mrs. Goldie Maloney, Cumberland, against her husband, Thomas R. Maloney, also of Cumberland.

Ryan, attorney for the plaintiff, said they owned a tract of land in Cumberland and that when they sold it Maloney entered into an agreement with his wife that they should share the proceeds after payment of a mortgage, taxes and expenses incidental to the sale.

Mrs. Maloney said, however, that her husband refused to give her any of the money. Ryan said a suit for separate maintenance is pending between the couple.

Ridgeley Girl Swallows Washer; Condition Good

Charlotte Mills, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mills, 15 Mineral street, Ridgeley, W. Va., had difficulty explaining to her mother that she swallowed a metal washer yesterday, but action quickened once she was understood.

Charlotte was playing on the floor, in the bed room, after awakening from her afternoon nap, Mrs. Mills said last night, and suddenly she looked up and said "Mommy, I swallowed a ring. Mommy, I swallowed a ring."

Mrs. Mills said she couldn't understand what the child was talking about at first but knew she couldn't have swallowed a ring because she doesn't wear one and there was none around the house. She assumed that Charlotte had eaten some paper that she was playing with, but the child continued to say she had swallowed a ring.

Mrs. Mills said she began picking up objects around the room and asked the little girl "is this like what you swallowed." "No," the child would reply, "I swallowed a ring."

Then Charlotte took her older sister, Janice Yvonne, 9, who had just returned from school, to a drawer, where her father, an electrician keeps equipment. She pointed to a bunch of little metal washers about the size of pennies, and said "that is what I swallowed."

Mrs. Mills said she lost little time in grabbing the child up and taking her to Memorial hospital where a fluoroscope revealed the washer lodged in back of the heart. Doctors used an esophagoscope to remove "Charlotte's ring" and said the little girl will be able to return to her home today and resume play as usual.

Charlotte was the second patient at Memorial yesterday to have articles removed. Beverly Miller, 4-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, Everett, Pa., was taken there earlier in the day to have a safety pin removed from her throat. Her condition was reported "good" last night.

Revision day will be held October 15. The general election is scheduled for November 5.

Truck Driver Is Killed In Mishap South Of Keyser

Thornton R. Parker, 36, Piedmont Man, Dies Of Broken Neck

Thornton Russell Parker, 36, a Piedmont, W. Va., truck driver, was killed yesterday afternoon at 5:45 o'clock when the truck in which he was riding failed to make a curve on Route 220, 3 miles south of Keyser, and a companion, Peyton Reynolds, Keyser, is being held in Mineral County Jail for investigation, Trooper R. R. Karrickhoff said.

Parker was pronounced dead upon admittance to Potomac Valley Hospital, where attaches said he died of a broken neck. He also suffered severe lacerations about the face and neck, attendants said.

According to Karrickhoff, an investigation is being conducted to determine if the two-ton Ford truck, reportedly owned by James Pennington, Keyser, was stolen by Parker and Reynolds. The trooper said some evidence led him to believe the truck had been stolen, but Pennington could not be reached last night.

The two men were headed out of Keyser when they failed to make a curve in front of the home of W. E. Amtower and careened into a field, Karrickhoff said. Parker was thrown from the truck and apparently landed on his head. Reynolds was uninjured.

The truck was damaged so badly that it had to be towed in, the trooper said, explaining that it turned over as it landed in the field.

Parker was the husband of the former Christine Teacock, and father of a small daughter. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robert Parker, reside at Vanderlit, W. Va., near Romney.

Keyser officials recalled last night that Parker was injured in a motorcycle accident early in 1941 and that his brother, Ernest Robert Parker, Jr., died a few days later as a result of injuries suffered in the accident. Parker suffered a broken leg and other injuries at the time.

Karrickhoff said the investigation will be continued today to determine who was driving the truck, and if it was stolen. Trooper L. E. Proudfoot is also aiding in the investigation.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday from the home of the victim's parents. Interment will be in Indian Mount Cemetery.

Officers Of Bank Group Installed

New officers of the Cumberland conference of the National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers were installed at a dinner meeting of the group last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Arthur B. Gibson, retiring president, acted as installing officer and spoke briefly on the progress of the local organization since it was founded in November, 1945. The new officers will serve for the coming year.

They are William B. Yates, president, who is cashier of the Fidelity Savings Bank, Frostburg; Floyd Price, vice president, who is vice president of the Cumberland Savings Bank; and Victor Fier, secretary-treasurer, who is assistant cashier of the First National Bank.

The ninth bank to enter the Cumberland conference, the Bank of Romney, W. Va., was admitted to membership last night. William Powers, cashier, represented the bank.

Program and organization committees were chosen last night, headed by Mrs. Angela Rowley of the Peoples Bank; and Price, respectively. The latter will act as an ex-officio chairman of the organization committee.

A forum was held on different methods of handling safety boxes.

Weicht Is Sentenced To State Reformatory

WESTMINSTER, Md., Sept. 11 (AP) — An indeterminate sentence of not more than four years in the state reformatory for males was imposed in Circuit Court here today on James E. Weicht, 24-year-old attendant convicted of manslaughter in the death of an elderly patient at Springfield State Hospital.

Chief Judge James E. Boylan, Jr., set the punishment after dismissing a petition for new trial.

The judge heard pleas for leniency from the American Legion post at Westernport, Md., Weicht's home, and from the Blackhawk Lodge, of which he was a member.

Weicht was convicted of manslaughter when Judge Boylan found he used "more than necessary force" in subduing J. Franklin Miller, 88, in a scuffle over a safety pin.

The attendant testified he had only been on the job a week in Cottake "F" at the hospital and that he was afraid of the patients. He said he thought Miller might hurt someone with the pin but that the patient refused to give it up.

Weicht acknowledged he hit Miller with his open hand. The patient died the next day, August 16, of a brain hemorrhage.

New OPA Prices Posted As Meat Supply Gives Out

Prospects Dark For Next Month At Least, Local Dealers Report

As the new OPA meat ceiling prices were being posted in local stores, sharply reducing costs, merchants took a pessimistic view of the supply situation for the next month or six weeks at least. Most stores reported no meat for sale.

Meat Cases Empty

George F. Garlitz, president of the Independent Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland, reported last night that most meat cases in Cumberland were bare, but said the scarcity wouldn't be felt too much for about a week. Most of the shopping public stocked up on fresh and smoked meats, before ceilings were restored, Garlitz said, and consequently the demand will be limited for the next week.

However, Garlitz said, the situation will grow worse for the next couple of weeks at least. He explained that most farmers and livestock dealers unloaded their stocks before the curtailed prices were returned.

During the uncontrolled period, Garlitz said, good beef cattle were bringing 25 cents per pound per live weight, but now the prices will rate a high of 20 cents per pound.

Local packing houses are completely out of fresh meat, and no deliveries are being made to local butchers, a number of dealers reported last night. Garlitz said about 20 per cent of the city's demand can be fulfilled at the present time, but explained that the meat is home dressed.

Poultry, Fish, Cheese Plentiful

The grocery president said there is plenty of fish, poultry, and cheese on local counters, and it appears that will be the diet of Cumberland families for at least the next month. Beyond that none would predict.

Other ceiling prices posted under the new regulations reduce the price of grade A pork loins to 43 cents compared to 36 cents per pound in June; lamb and mutton steaks and chops to 79 cents over the 64 cents per pound, June price.

Garlitz said a small quantity of smoked meat is still available in local stores, but added that he thought the supply would be depleted by the end of the week. There are no prospects of new shipments, he said.

While a small supply of fresh meat may drift into the city during the next few weeks, Garlitz said, it would not meet more than 20 per cent of the city's demand, and probably would be so scattered through the city that it would not be noticable.

Singer Company To Enlarge Store

The Singer Sewing Machine Company plans to enlarge its present site, 77 North Centre street, Alfred Partleton, manager said yesterday as he announced renewal of a lease on the present store room and signing of a 10-year lease for the store room next door.

Partleton said the lease on the present site which consists of about 125 square feet of floor space, was renewed Friday for 10 years, with Mrs. Ada Miller, and the new site now occupied by the Price Used Furniture Store, was leased for 10 years from the Hast Estate. It will increase the floor space to 355 square feet, he added.

Partleton said he plans to remodel the front of the store but said remodeling may be delayed because of the building material priority that is necessary at the present time.

The new store space will be occupied as soon as the Price Furniture Company moves out, Partleton said.

RANKIN TO ASK DEATH FOR McCAULEY

Slayer Of Two Officers Signs Confession; Not Sorry For Killing Men

Went To Harding Home To Eat, Change Clothes, Get Blanket And Fifth Of Whiskey Tuesday Night A Short Time Before He Was Captured By Two World War 2 Vets

By A. TRAGO BRUST, JR.

Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. Rankin of Mineral County said last night he will ask for the death penalty when Mark McCauley, confessed slayer of two West Virginia police officers at Emoryville, W. Va., Monday afternoon, is brought to trial next month.

Cpl. W. E. Murphy, of the West Virginia State Police, at Clarksburg, said McCauley freely admitted in his confession, one and a half typewritten pages in length, that he shot and killed Sgt. Joseph P. Horne of the State Police and Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter of Tucker County, and wounded the sheriff's son, Donald Hovater, 19.

McCauley, 35, was captured by two ex-GIs Tuesday night within 150 yards of the James Harding home at Emoryville where the shootings occurred.

Held In Special Cell

McCauley, held in a special cell with chains bolstering the lock of the cell door in the foolproof Clarksburg jail, has expressed no regrets at killing the state officer and the sheriff or, shooting the boy, Cpl. Murphy reported.

He added that McCauley feels that he was "justified" in shooting the officers. "He doesn't feel a bit bad about killing either of them or shooting the boy," Cpl. Murphy said.

In his confession, taken at State Police headquarters in Clarksburg at 5 o'clock yesterday morning after the trip from Emoryville, McCauley declared that a bloodhound pressed into service Tuesday morning "kept him on the jump," according to Col. Murphy.

When the dog first got his trail and circled above the house he came within 100 feet of him, Col. Murphy quoted McCauley as saying.

McCauley also disclosed in his statement that he was at the James Harding home to eat and change his shirt, and also to pick up a blanket and a fifth of whiskey Tuesday night a short time before he was captured.

He went to the house, he said, after observing that no one was around and after leaving circled through the woods and had just reached the road when he was spotted by Andrew Landis, ex-GI from McCoole who is now a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman, and Owen Hughes, another ex-GI from Fort Ashby, W. Va., who is now a West Virginia conservation officer.

Was Not Searched

The killer told officers he had "made up his mind he was not going to be arrested again by anybody," Cpl. Murphy said. He added that Sgt. Horne did not search him after his arrest at Allegheny Front on the truck stealing charge because they were friends.

When Sgt. Horne and McCauley returned to the Harding home in Emoryville, McCauley said he saw Sheriff Hovatter and his son in the yard.

He and Sgt. Horne went around the side of the house to the back, McCauley related in his statement, and the sheriff followed.

Sgt. Horne asked him about the keys to the truck and McCauley said he felt his rights were being infringed upon.

Sgt. Horne said he thought McCauley had the keys in his pocket and that they were not in the house, according to the confession, and when the officer started to search him for the keys, McCauley said he thought Sgt. Horne knew he had the gun, which he was carrying in his belt to the left center of his stomach.

Tells Of Shooting

Asserting that he thought Sgt. Horne pulled his revolver, McCauley said he whipped his pistol from his belt and shot the officer twice.

At that moment Sheriff Hovatter entered the door and McCauley said he thought the sheriff reached for his revolver, McCauley said he fired one shot at the sheriff before the latter could bring his gun into action.

Then, he said, he ran upstairs to change his clothes. Looking out an upstairs window, McCauley said he saw a youth, not knowing he was the sheriff's son, and Mrs. Helen Harding, who was visiting at her brother James's home, helping the mortally wounded sheriff.

The youth, he said, grabbed the sheriff's pistol and fired at him at the upstairs window. With that, McCauley said, he grabbed a shotgun and shot young Hovatter. Then, he said, he reloaded his guns and ran to the woods.

Police pointed out that McCauley's story at this point differs with that told by Donald Hovatter, who related to officers that McCauley fired at him from the upstairs window and that he did not shoot back until McCauley ran for the woods.

Tuesday morning, after the bloodhound had circled within 100 feet of him, McCauley said he continued

Hambleton Navy Veteran Kills Man And Self

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Sept. 11 — The body of Norman Lee Hartley, 20-year-old Hambleton Navy veteran, who Monongalia County Sheriff Charles Whiston said shot and killed himself Tuesday at 10:15 a. m. after killing William Howard, 20, a carpenter, in the small mining town of Jere, near Morgantown, arrived here tonight and was taken to the Greenleaf Funeral Home.

Hartley's mother, Mrs. Leoma Carr Brooks, Hambleton, was notified by telegram last night of her son's death. The father, James Lee Hartley, was killed in a mining accident at Cass 19 years ago.

According to Sheriff Whiston, young Hartley, who was discharged from the Navy six months ago after serving since 1942, came to Jere after his discharge and worked for the Davis-Wilson Coal Company. He boarded at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Carr, where the double shooting occurred.

The Carrs' daughter, Mrs. Lucille Howard, was living at her parents' home with her month-old son while her husband, William, was in Europe with the Army. The latter returned two months ago and began working in Jere as a carpenter.

Members of the family reported that young Hartley fell in love with Mrs. Howard and was jealous of her husband, Sheriff Whiston said.

Tuesday morning, while Mr. and Mrs. Carr and their two sons were sitting on the front porch, Hartley entered the house by the back and went upstairs to the room where Mr. and Mrs. Howard were sleeping, the sheriff said.

The family heard three or four shots, after which Mrs. Howard screamed and ran downstairs. Then two more shots were heard, Sheriff Whiston said.

The bodies of the two men were found lying on the floor in a second-floor bedroom. The sheriff reported he found three bullet holes in Howard's back, and that two of the bullets had gone entirely through the body.

Hartley had shot himself through the forehead and chest, Sheriff Whiston said, adding that the bullets were from a .38 revolver. Hartley was wearing a belt with a holster and ammunition was in his pocket when his body was found, the sheriff added.

A native of Cass, Hartley attended grade school in Hambleton and moved to Baltimore in 1942 with his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tolman Summerfield, who are now living in Hambleton. A few months after that time, he entered the Navy.

Besides his mother and grandparents, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Cathryn McDonald, wife of M.c McDonald, dispatcher for the Western Maryland Railway at Thomas.

Howard is survived, besides his widow and young son, William Douglas, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brady Howard, Mt. Morris, Pa.; four sisters, Mrs. Lenora Luzader, Uffington; Mrs. Elizabeth Donley, Bald Hill, Pa.; Mrs. Evelyn See, Jefferson, Pa., and Miss Ruth Howard, Mt. Morris; and two brothers, Irvine and Linsley, both of Mt. Morris.

War Pictures Displayed At Cumberland Library

The pictures include shots that Brett made while serving with the Navy in the Pacific theater. Varied still pictures of the ships in convoy, of men taking recreation periods and a number of films of the damage done in Manila, and Corregidor are included in the display.

Inquest Into Harvey Death Is Cancelled

An inquest into the death of Melvin Harvey, 37, who was found dead in bed Monday at the home of his father, L. C. Harvey, in Shaw, W. Va., was cancelled after a physician's report showed that he died of acute alcoholism, Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, said last night.

A laceration on the back of Harvey's head aroused the suspicion of officers, but Rankin said the physician's examination showed the wound to be superficial and not the cause of death.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon with burial in the IOOF cemetery, Nethken Hill, W. Va.

GOING TO SCHOOL—The picture above, taken at the second session yesterday of the four-day Times-News Cooking School now being conducted at the Strand Theatre, is a good illustration of the enthusiastic response which the school is receiving from Cumberland housewives. Attendance yesterday was 1,385, but an increase to 1,400 today and 1,500 for the final session tomorrow is expected. Grand prizes will be awarded at the closing session.

Teamsters Union Will Picket All Highways Here

Action, Amounting To General Strike, Taken To Force Settlement

Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, will place pickets on all highways leading into this city today in an attempt to halt all truck shipments in and out of this city, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the local, said yesterday.

The union official said the action, which virtually amounts to a general strike, is intended to force a settlement with seven trucking companies of this city which have been strikebound since September 2. No progress has been made on the contract dispute with the firms employing about 85 drivers, Stutzman said.

Stutzman said the action will include truck deliveries for the A. and P. and American stores which deliver goods here through haulers covered by contracts.

For the time being, Stutzman said, we are going to allow companies now under contract with Local 453 to continue operations. The Kenneweg and C. D. Kenny Wholesale grocery stores, he added, will not be affected nor will beer distributors who are negotiating with the union.

The settlement of the Hagerstown area strike, he added, has no bearing on the local situation since rates paid there have always been below local rates. He explained that city drivers here receive 80 cents an hour and are demanding $1. Hagerstown drivers, he explained settled for 82 cents.

The National Labor Relations Board, Stutzman said, has notified him that it is attempting to settle the dispute with the Celanese Corporation of America here. Commissioner Robertson, he added, has been assigned to the case and is negotiating with Edward R. Allan, personnel manager of the Amcelle plant.

Local 453 early this week withheld plans for picketing the Celanese plant in an effort to secure a contract covering 15 truck drivers employed here.

Residents Notified Of Hearing Monday On Alley Closing

Notices have been served on 21 property owners in the vicinity of the Schmidt Baking Company at the corner of Frederick street and Pearre avenue that a commission appointed by city ordinance will meet "on the ground" at a disputed alley in the rear of the baking plant Monday at 4 p. m.

At that time the commission will hear complaints of residents regarding the closing of the alley, and will ascertain the amount of damages or benefits which will be caused to property holders in the vicinity, according to Samuel E. Griminger, city clerk.

The ordinance appointing the three-man commission was passed by the Mayor and City Council August 19, and provided for the closing of an alley "lying between the easterly side of Lot 21 and in the rear of Lots 33, 34, 35, 36 and 37 in Bedford Place Addition, and part of the alley in the rear of Lot 21."

Another provision of the measure states that the commission must give a report within 15 days after Monday's "on the ground" hearing to the Mayor and Council, and that any resident not agreeing with the findings may take an appeal to Circuit Court.

A letter from William C. Walsh, attorney for the baking company, which was filed with the ordinance, provides that the company will dedicate a piece of land for public use as an alley in the event that the present alley is closed.

Some residents of the area have opposed closing of the alley as well as granting the company a permit for expansion, and a court test has been indicated.

Members of the commission which will meet Monday are Carl F. Schmutz, Robert E. Barnard and C. Glenn Watson.

Safety Council To Meet

The Western Maryland Safety Council will discuss traffic problems in Cumberland at a meeting in City Hall Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock tonight, according to Lynn C. Walker, acting chairman. He said committees probably will be named to "do something definite" about the traffic problem.

Centre Street Methodists Plan 155th Anniversary Observance

Dinner, Youth Rally Will Feature Week's Events November 3-10

The congregation of Centre Street Methodist Church will hold a week's celebration from November 3 to 10 in observance of the 155th anniversary of the founding of the church, the 75th anniversary of the building of the present sanctuary, and the 20th anniversary of the erection of the Educational Building, an addition to the main building.

Dr. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of the church since June, 1942, last night announced plans for separate events during the celebration.

He said that Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, chaplain of the United States Senate and pastor of Foundry Methodist Church in Washington, has been invited to give the principal address at the closing evening service Sunday, November 10.

Dinner Planned

One of the principal events will be a "church family dinner" to be held Tuesday, November 5, at 6:30 p. m. in the social hall. Honor guests will include the four living former pastors of the church, as well as former members who are engaged in religious work.

The four pastors are Dr. Howard E. Thompson, now a minister in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who served here when the Educational Building was added to the church 20 years ago; Dr. Harry Evaul, pastor of Memorial Methodist Church, Hyattsville; Dr. Benjamin W. Meeks, pastor of Howard Park Methodist Church, Baltimore; and Dr. Vernon N. Ridgely, Baltimore, pastor of Grace-Roland Park Methodist Church.

Other former members who will be invited to attend are Dr. S. Paul Schilling, a member of the faculty of Westminster Theological School, Westminster; Rev. Robert H. Parker, pastor of Northwood Methodist Church, Baltimore; Rev. Joseph W. Young, pastor of Fairview Avenue Methodist Church here; Miss Grace Steiner, president of the Methodist Deaconess Board, with headquarters in New York City; and the Misses Georgeanna Pearce and Winifred Santrock, now in their second year at the Methodist Training College in Kansas City, Mo.

Youth Rally Set

Youth fellowship groups from 27 Methodist churches in the Cumberland area will be invited to attend a youth rally Wednesday, November 6, at 7:30 p. m. The principal speaker will be Dr. Michael's son, Rev. Marion S. Michael, pastor of Marvin Memorial Methodist Church, Silver Spring. Rev. Mr. Michael, who has been in the Methodist ministry for five years, is a graduate of Boston University School of Theology.

Thursday, November 7, will be observed as community night, when pastors and members of other Cumberland churches will be guests of the Centre Street Methodist congregation.

On the opening Sunday, November 3, at 11 a. m., the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated. At the evening service the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Stanton Gunter, with Mrs. Kenneth F. Beck as organist, will present a special program.

At the morning service on Sunday, November 10, a special offering will be taken, marking Joash Chest Day.

Debt Is Reduced

In the four years of Dr. Michael's service here, the church's debt has been reduced from $42,500 to $18,000, and extensive improvements, totaling approximately $5,000, have been made during the past six months. These include redecoration of the sanctuary, vestibules and Sunday School rooms, and installing fluorescent lighting in the latter rooms.

The origin of the local church goes back to 1782, when the Methodist Church was known as the Allegany Circuit. In 1783 John Cooper was named pastor, and in 1787 the church was organized, the first Methodist church in Cumberland.

In 1799 a frame church was built on the corner of Fayette and Smallwood streets, and in 1816 a log church 40 by 50 feet, with a gallery on three sides, was built on North Centre street at the site of the present building. In 1837 and 1848 still larger structures were erected there to accommodate the growing congregation, and in 1871 the present sanctuary was constructed.

The congregation now numbers 1,893 persons. That total will be materially increased Sunday, when a large group of new members will be taken into the church, Dr. Michael said.

George Rice is president of the board of trustees, and Roy W. Eves is chairman of the finance committee. Harry B. Simpson is lay delegate to the annual conference, and Mrs. James Weir Kirk is president of the WSCS of the church. Miss Pearl Piper is church secretary and Mrs. Louise Cramer is church hostess and visitor.

Frostburg College Enrollment Will Set New Record

Special Buses Will Take Cumberland Students To Morning Classes

Frostburg State Teachers College will open for the 1946-47 term this morning with an enrollment of 225 students, the largest in the college's history, Miss Lillian Compton, president, said last night.

In announcing the enrollment, Miss Compton said, she has secured five new instructors for the term, and will have a "complete and very competent faculty" for the current year. The college staff was filled only yesterday, Miss Compton said, with the acceptance of Miss C. E. Huntley, for the science department, and Sam Winterson Ettleson, Philadelphia, for socialogy. Miss Huntley comes from New York State Teachers College.

Only 93 Students Last Year

In comparing the enrollment, the president said, there were only 93 students enrolled at the close of the 1945-46 term, and 130 took the summer course offered this year. The new enrollment represents an increase of 132 students.

The college will offer a junior college course, Miss Compton said, and credits from the school are transferrable to all four years colleges. In addition the Bachelor of Science degree is awarded at the Frostburg college for the completion of four years' work.

Other new members of the staff include, David A. Warner, physical education, Leo Jason, romance languages, and Dr. Helen Taylor, mathematics. The faculty totals 22 instructors, Miss Compton said.

Of the 132 new enrollees, Mrs. Compton said there are approximately 75 veterans of World War II, who have recently been discharged and are taking advantage of the GI Bill of Rights.

Busy Registration Day

She termed yesterday one of the busiest registration days ever conducted at the school, but added last night that she is "pleased" with the quality of the new faculty, all of which will be on hand for the opening of school this morning.

A new service is being added for the convenience of Cumberland students attending the college, Miss Compton said, with a special school bus scheduled to leave from Memorial Hospital Nurses home this morning at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Compton said two buses will run daily, one leaving at 7:30 to carry students for the 8 o'clock classes and one leaving at 8:30 to carry students for the 9 o'clock classes. The buses will leave from in front of the Nurses home, stopping at the Y.M.C.A., Clayton's Drug store, on Henderson avenue, and in LaVale.

Students will be permitted to board the buses today without tickets, Miss Compton said because the announcement is so late, but tickets will be issued at the college. Both buses will run on all school days, she added.

MAYOR POST WILL HEAR ILGWU VIEWS ON GARMENT STRIKE

The position of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in connection with the strike which began at the Cumberland Undergarment Company July 18 will be explained to Mayor Thomas S. Post at a conference in city hall this morning, William Kaufman, Baltimore, ILGWU field representative, said last night.

Kaufman said he and a committee of officially recognized members of Local 434, ILGWU, merely wish to make clear the position the union is taking in the dispute, and added the ILGWU is not asking any outside agency to assist in the settlement of the problem since, he declared, going back to work is a question the membership must decide.

The ILGWU official was one of three international representatives who attended a meeting called jointly last Wednesday by the ILGWU and the Allegany Trades Council for a settlement of the strike.

The employes of the Gay street factory voted decisively to continue the strike and to reject an ILGWU settlement for the resumption of work on the basis of wage increases negotiated by the international.

Kaufman said last night he hopes for an early settlement of the problem at the local plant.

Accident Victim Sues Gas Firm And Employe

George W. Keller Asks $7,500 Damages As Result Of Injuries

Suit for $7,500 damages was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by George W. Keller, Cumberland, against the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and Brace E. Lee, an employe, charging that Lee's careless driving resulted in injury to Keller when he was struck by the car on June 1.

Keller, through his attorney, Estel C. Kelley, said he was crossing Bedford street at the intersection with North Centre street when he was struck by the gas firm's car Lee was driving.

Knocked To Street

Keller said he was knocked to the street, was unconscious for some time and that several ribs were broken. He said he also suffered cuts, bruises and abrasions of the left leg and bruises about the left hip and left portion of his back.

Citing expenses incurred for treatment as a result of his injuries, Keller said he is now able to only partially perform duties his work requires.

Suit by titling was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Loar W. Loar, Lonaconing, against the Western Maryland Railway. Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the plaintiffs, said he will ask damages of $1,000.

Ryan said the Loar property at Lonaconing was damaged when debris, rubbish and track ballast was thrown on it by the railroad.

Wife Sues Husband

Another suit for $500 damages was filed by Mrs. Goldie Maloney, Cumberland, against her husband, Thomas R. Maloney, also of Cumberland.

Ryan, attorney for the plaintiff, said they owned a tract of land in Cumberland and that when they sold it Maloney entered into an agreement with his wife that they should share the proceeds after payment of a mortgage, taxes and expenses incidental to the sale.

Mrs. Maloney said, however, that her husband refused to give her any of the money. Ryan said a suit for separate maintenance is pending between the couple.

Ridgeley Girl Swallows Washer; Condition Good

Charlotte Mills, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mills, 15 Mineral street, Ridgeley, W. Va., had difficulty explaining to her mother that she swallowed a metal washer yesterday, but action quickened once she was understood.

Charlotte was playing on the floor, in the bed room, after awakening from her afternoon nap, Mrs. Mills said last night, and suddenly she looked up and said "Mommy, I swallowed a ring. Mommy, I swallowed a ring."

Mrs. Mills said she couldn't understand what the child was talking about at first but knew she couldn't have swallowed a ring because she doesn't wear one and there was none around the house. She assumed that Charlotte had eaten some paper that she was playing with, but the child continued to say she had swallowed a ring.

Mrs. Mills said she began picking up objects around the room and asked the little girl "is this like what you swallowed." "No," the child would reply, "I swallowed a ring."

Then Charlotte took her older sister, Janice Yvonne, 9, who had just returned from school, to a drawer, where her father, an electrician keeps equipment. She pointed to a bunch of little metal washers about the size of pennies, and said "that is what I swallowed."

Mrs. Mills said she lost little time in grabbing the child up and taking her to Memorial hospital where a fluoroscope revealed the washer lodged in back of the heart. Doctors used an esophagoscope to remove "Charlotte's ring" and said the little girl will be able to return to her home today and resume play as usual.

Charlotte was the second patient at Memorial yesterday to have articles removed. Beverly Miller, 4-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, Everett, Pa., was taken there earlier in the day to have a safety pin removed from her throat. Her condition was reported "good" last night.

Truck Driver Is Killed In Mishap South Of Keyser

Thornton R. Parker, 36, Piedmont Man, Dies Of Broken Neck

Thornton Russell Parker, 36, a Piedmont, W. Va., truck driver, was killed yesterday afternoon at 5:45 o'clock when the truck in which he was riding failed to make a curve on Route 220, 3 miles south of Keyser, and a companion, Peyton Reynolds, Keyser, is being held in Mineral County Jail for investigation, Trooper R. R. Karrickhoff said.

Parker was pronounced dead upon admittance to Potomac Valley Hospital, where attaches said he died of a broken neck. He also suffered severe lacerations about the face and neck, attendants said.

According to Karrickhoff, an investigation is being conducted to determine if the two-ton Ford truck, reportedly owned by James Pennington, Keyser, was stolen by Parker and Reynolds. The trooper said some evidence led him to believe the truck had been stolen, but Pennington could not be reached last night.

The two men were headed out of Keyser when they failed to make a curve in front of the home of W. E. Amtower and careened into a field, Karrickhoff said. Parker was thrown from the truck and apparently landed on his head. Reynolds was uninjured.

The truck was damaged so badly that it had to be towed in, the trooper said, explaining that it turned over as it landed in the field.

Parker was the husband of the former Christine Teacock, and father of a small daughter. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robert Parker, reside at Vanderlit, W. Va., near Romney.

Keyser officials recalled last night that Parker was injured in a motorcycle accident early in 1941 and that his brother, Ernest Robert Parker, Jr., died a few days later as a result of injuries suffered in the accident. Parker suffered a broken leg and other injuries at the time.

Karrickhoff said the investigation will be continued today to determine who was driving the truck, and if it was stolen. Trooper L. E. Proudfoot is also aiding in the investigation.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday from the home of the victim's parents. Interment will be in Indian Mount Cemetery.

New officers of the Cumberland conference of the National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers were installed at a dinner meeting of the group last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Arthur B. Gibson, retiring president, acted as installing officer and spoke briefly on the progress of the local organization since it was founded in November, 1945. The new officers will serve for the coming year.

The ninth bank to enter the Cumberland conference, the Bank of Romney, W. Va., was admitted to membership last night. William Powers, cashier, represented the bank.

Program and organization committees were chosen last night, headed by Mrs. Angela Rowley of the Peoples Bank; and Price, respectively. The latter will act as an ex-officio chairman of the organization committee.

Weicht Is Sentenced To State Reformatory

WESTMINSTER, Md., Sept. 11 (AP) — An indeterminate sentence of not more than four years in the state reformatory for males was imposed in Circuit Court here today on James E. Weicht, 24-year-old attendant convicted of manslaughter in the death of an elderly patient at Springfield State Hospital.

Chief Judge James E. Boylan, Jr., set the punishment after dismissing a petition for new trial.

The judge heard pleas for leniency from the American Legion post at Westernport, Md., Weicht's home, and from the Blackhawk Lodge, of which he was a member.

Weicht was convicted of manslaughter when Judge Boylan found he used "more than necessary force" in subduing J. Franklin Miller, 88, in a scuffle over a safety pin.

The attendant testified he had only been on the job a week in Cottake "F" at the hospital and that he was afraid of the patients. He said he thought Miller might hurt someone with the pin but that the patient refused to give it up.

Weicht acknowledged he hit Miller with his open hand. The patient died the next day, August 16, of a brain hemorrhage.

Prospects Dark For Next Month At Least, Local Dealers Report

As the new OPA meat ceiling ices were being posted in local ores, sharply reducing costs, merchants took a pessimistic view of the supply situation for the next month or six weeks at least. Most stores reported no meat for sale.

Meat Cases Empty

George F. Garlitz, president of the Independent Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland, reported last night that most meat cases in Cumberland were bare, but said the scarcity wouldn't be felt too much for about a week. Most of the shopping public stocked up on fresh and smoked meats, before ceilings were restored, Garlitz said, and consequently the demand will be limited for the next week.

However, Garlitz said, the situation will grow worse for the next couple of weeks at least. He explained that most farmers and livestock dealers unloaded their stocks before the curtailed prices were returned.

During the uncontrolled period, Garlitz said, good beef cattle were bringing 25 cents per pound per live weight, but now the prices will rate a high of 20 cents per pound.

Local packing houses are completely out of fresh meat, and no deliveries are being made to local butchers, a number of dealers reported last night. Garlitz said about 20 per cent of the city's demand can be fulfilled at the present time, but explained that the meat is home dressed.

Poultry, Fish, Cheese Plentiful

The grocery president said there is plenty of fish, poultry, and cheese on local counters, and it appears that will be the diet of Cumberland families for at least the next month. Beyond that none would predict.

Other ceiling prices posted under the new regulations reduce the price of grade A pork loins to 43 cents compared to 36 cents per pound in June; lamb and mutton steaks and chops to 79 cents over the 64 cents per pound, June price.

The prices on frankfurters, smoked hams, and sausage remained the same under the new control bill as they were in June.

Garlitz said a small quantity of smoked meat is still available in local stores, but added that he thought the supply would be depleted by the end of the week. There are no prospects of new shipments, he said.

While a small supply of fresh meat may drift into the city during the next few weeks, Garlitz said, it would not meet more than 20 per cent of the city's demand, and probably would be so scattered through the city that it would not be noticable.

Singer Company To Enlarge Store

The Singer Sewing Machine Company plans to enlarge its present site, 77 North Centre street, Alfred Partleton, manager said yesterday as he announced renewal of a lease on the present store room and signing of a 10-year lease for the store room next door.

Partleton said the lease on the present site which consists of about 125 square feet of floor space, was renewed Friday for 10 years, with Mrs. Ada Miller, and the new site now occupied by the Price Used Furniture Store, was leased for 10 years from the Hast Estate. It will increase the floor space to 355 square feet, he added.

Partleton said he plans to remodel the front of the store but said remodeling may be delayed because of the building material priority that is necessary at the present time.

The new store space will be occupied as soon as the Price Furniture Company moves out, Partleton said.
